THE AFFAIR A NEWPORT FAD

Southern Women Like Not the Orders and Turn Up Their Patrician Noses.

(Editorial Correspondence.) KENILWORTH INN, ASHEVILLE, N. C., July 6.—The Virginia and North Carolina Press Associations held separate business meetings this morning. The Virginia Association elected the following officers: President, R. A. James, Danville Register; Vice-President, C. B. Camper, Fincastle Herald; Secretary, J. L. Hart, Farmville Herald; Treasurer, R. H. Beasley, South Boston News; Historian, Miss Bertha Dray Robinson, Orange Observer; Executive Committee—A. P. Rowde, W. McD. Lee, C. D. Dent, W. R. Browne, George O. Green. Delegates to National Editorial Association—M. B. Lewis, A. S. Gravelly, W. F. Leath, C. D. Dent; alternates—Judge C. J. Campbell, Frank Lyon, J. H. Lindsay, E. R. Waddill. Recommended as member of National Committee, W. S. Copeland.

hall was sufficient and away many of them turned with their dainty noses pointing skyward. "Is thy servant a dog?" Does the rich man mean to insult the poor? "No," she replied. "The very air reeked with indignation, not to speak of the colors. Of course, no indignity was intended. The hotel party is a Newport fad, and Mrs. Vandebilt's manager thought he was doing the proper thing for Mrs. Vandebilt's guests. But the Southern ladies did not like the fad and the incident spoiled what was otherwise the most delightful feature of this memorable occasion. The joint meeting closed to-night with a swell banquet at the Kenilworth, given by the Virginia Association. The presence of Editor Caldwell, of the Charlotte Observer, to give the visitors a high-heel time has been abundantly redeemed. W. S. C.

BALTIMORE FLOOD QUICK TO SUBSIDE

Damage to Monumental City From Water Estimated at $100,000.

(By Associated Press.) BALTIMORE, MD., July 6.—The flood last night, which was caused by the overflow of Jones's Falls, a stream which runs through the Central Park of Baltimore, and which resulted from a cloudburst at Timonium, in Baltimore county, has completely subsided, the water in the falls having fallen almost as quickly as it rose. In the city, trees were lost and the damage will be confined to the streets in the vicinity of the falls. The total loss is roughly estimated at $100,000. In the country north of Baltimore the storm was terrific, and the fall of rain extraordinary, the people being panic-stricken for several hours, and many fleeing for their lives. Considerable damage was done to farm property.

NEW EXPLOSIVE WILL WRECK ANY ARMOR-CLAD

Does Deadly Work, Although Shell Falls Twenty Feet Short of Mark.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) NEW YORK, July 6.—That a twelve inch shell loaded with only a small charge of Dummit, the world's most effective explosive, will crumple in the side of the heaviest armorclad vessel, though the shell falls short of its mark by twenty feet, has just been demonstrated at the beginning of a series of tests at the Government Proving Grounds at Sandy Hook. For some time experts of the Ordnance Department of the Army have known of the destructive effect of this explosive substance, which, named after its inventor, Major Beverly W. Dunn, U. S. A., is a closely guarded government secret. Foreign nations have sought in vain to learn of its composition. What the government experts did not know, however, was the probable effect if a shell should fall short of its mark. The shot fired within the last few days has gone far beyond the expectations of the experimenters.

GIVES UP $300,000 INCOME FOR JUDGESHIP

In Latter Position Salary of James B. Dill Will Be $3,000. Why He Does It.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, July 6.—James B. Dill, who has been appointed judge of the Court of Errors and Appeals of New Jersey, the World to-morrow will say, surrenders an income of $300,000 a year from his law practice to become a judge with a salary of $3,000 a year. According to a close friend of Mr. Dill, the step from the riches of corporate law to the comparative dignified poverty of the bench was taken after mature thought, in which the recent scandals of high finance and the demands made upon lawyers to save wealthy clients from the law, had weighty influence upon his decision.

GOVERNOR WOULD SAVE GRIMES BATTERY

NORFOLK, VA., July 6.—Governor Montague is disposed to modify his order for the disbandment of the Grimes Battery, of Portsmouth. Captain Cuthrell received a letter from him to-day suggesting that the name be preserved by reorganization as a company of infantry or of field artillery. The organization is ninety-five years old, and gained distinction in wars through which it served. It served in all the wars of the country except two. The lightning-like strange freaks in Portsmouth to-day during a terrific storm, in which the rain fell in torrents. The railway power house was struck twice, and the car service and all of the electric motors in the city stopped. The First Baptist Church of Port Norfolk was struck twice and a cow grazing nearby killed. The storm lasted for thirty minutes. The streets of Norfolk were flooded, and cars delayed on some streets till the overtaxed sewers carried off the water. Rev. R. M. Babbs, the pastor, was in his study at the time, and when he arose to close the window after the first fresh second one came and he was thrown down and rendered unconscious for a few minutes from the shock.

Carnegie Gives $20,000.

(By Associated Press.) NEW YORK, July 6.—General O. O. Howard, who for the last thirty years has been engaged in promoting the finances of the Lincoln Memorial University at Lexington, Va., has received information to-day that Andrew Carnegie has agreed to build a library for the institution. Mr. Carnegie's donation was made contingent upon the election by the Board of Directors of his gift.

May Have Been Drowned.

(By Associated Press.) CONSCIENCE, CHILE, July 6.—A boat containing seven persons, who left the British steamer Tropic when that vessel went ashore fifteen miles north of Concepcion recently, is missing.

EPWORTH LEAGUES BEAT IN WEST

Great Meeting in Denver With Delegates From Many Lands.

NEGROES LOUDLY APPLAUDED

Greetings Received From Mrs. Bliss, Who is Oldest Leaguer in World.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) DENVER, COLO., July 6.—The people in this western world take much stock in decorating, and the Stars and Stripes and the Union Jack and over all the Epworth League color and cross are seen. Denver is giving the Leaguers a royal welcome. The natives wear a button reading, "I am at home; ask me," and the many strangers are following the invitation. The attendance is not as large as the attendance was at Toronto, or Detroit, on similar occasions, but it is difficult to approximate the numbers as yet. The spirit of the occasion is fine and the meeting places are well filled. Trinity Methodist Church, seeming to be the decided preference of the crowds. The delegates are still coming in, nearly all of them being from five to twenty hours behind schedule time. Our train from St. Louis to Denver was twelve hours late owing to a wreck in front of us. The Virginia headquarters are at Christ Methodist Church, where names are found registered from Newport News, Danville, Lynchburg and Wytheville, among them being Rev. Graham H. Lambeth, president of the Virginia League, and Rev. G. X. Green, who conducts the league department in the Richmond and Baltimore Advocate.

Negroes Much Applauded.

The speech of welcome that seemed to please most was made by Mr. Earl Cranston, of Boston, who, in his address, Rev. H. M. Dabose, D. D., responded happily for the Southern Methodist Church. An incident noticeable this morning to the Southern delegates was the great and sustained enthusiasm created by some negro singers from Fiske University, College, Mo. The audience simply went wild, and cheered again and again. The Keary brothers, of Canada, sang in the afternoon, but though singing most beautifully, they did not get the audience as did the negro visitors. There were greetings this morning from Mrs. Elizabeth Bliss, of New York, the oldest, claiming to be the oldest leaguer in the world. The leaguers sent a suitable response to her.

WOODMEN BANQUET.

North Carolina Cotton Growers Sustain the Association. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) EMERALD, VA., July 6.—Woodmen of the World, of Emporia, held its initial banquet last night at Hotel Virginia Belmont. A splendid array of after dinner speakers were present and responded to the toast, "To the Woodmen of the World, in the capacity of toast master. Among those who spoke were Commonwealth Attorney W. M. Powell, of Emporia; Mr. A. C. Pine, of Norfolk; Rev. Mr. Leary, of Brunswick county; S. Otto Wilson, of Richmond; and others. A large crowd was present and several speeches were made by prominent citizens, among whom were B. Peyton Turner, of Emporia; Attorney W. M. Powell, of Emporia; and Dr. R. S. Powell, of Brunswick county. After the speaking an old-fashioned Virginia barbecue was served, which was greatly enjoyed by the large attendance.

FAIRMOUNT NEWS

BERLIN FORBIDS JAURES TO COME

Fears Demonstration From Socialists if French Leader Speaks.

ACTION MUCH DISCUSSED

Stand of Government Declared to Be a Confession of Weakness.

(By Associated Press.) BERLIN, July 6.—Chancellor Von Buelow telegraphed to Prince Radolinski, the German ambassador at Paris, to-day to inform M. Jaures, the French socialist leader, that the German government thought it best to debar him from speaking in Berlin July 8th, as it had been announced he intended to do. The chancellor in his telegram says: "The German Socialists would use the presence of Herr Jaures in Berlin to cover by his person the hostile endeavors against the State and national interests. The imperial government cannot refrain from using the means at its disposal to prevent the party from seeking to destroy the existing and constitutionally established order." The French forbade Herr Bebel from speaking in Paris six years ago, and the German government prohibited Herr Bebel, a member of the Reichstag, from speaking on the French side of the frontier for nearly two years ago. "Proceedents are numerous in most of the continental States. Nevertheless the exclusion of M. Jaures is certain to cause much of the same." Herr Singer, who next to Herr Bebel is the leading Socialist in Germany, ridicules and is a confession of weakness.

QUEER MEATS MAY BE USED FOR FOOD

Horse May Be As Good As Beef and Snakes As Fish.

The popular prejudice against snails is incomprehensible when the favor of oysters is considered. In many London restaurants, particularly in Soho, snails now figure on the daily menu. This is an imported taste from France, but in the west country snails are highly esteemed by the lower classes. As a matter of fact the snail is extensively eaten in Somerset and Gloucestershire both as a dainty and a medicine. There are men who make a living by collecting snails and selling them under the name of "wall fish." Boiled in their shells they are nicked out and eaten with bread and butter being accounted a great luxury and very nourishing. Frogs are another dainty which prejudice denies to the Englishman, though in the United States and Canada they are esteemed as highly in France. Spasmodically a sturgeon is offered for sale in London, and the accident of its capture affords a novel dish which should not be passed by. Cut and cooked as a cutlet it tastes rather like veal, without a suspicion of fish about it. In Germany bear's flesh is greatly favored, and smoked bear tongue, ham and sausages are both appetizing and expensive. Ever since Paris, in the siege of 1870-'71, was driven to eating up the animals at the zoo canner's flesh has been demanded by French gourmets. Remarkably like beef in appearance it is as tender as veal, and there are Parisians who import it regularly from Algeria. On the same testimony lion steaks are reported to be only moderate eating, while tiger is both tough and stinky. Jaguar flesh, however, is delightfully white and toothsome, and alligators and crocodiles provide a meal of the most delicate flavor, midway between that of veal and pork. Why should not goat flesh be introduced into the bill of fare? It is good eating, as Robinson Crusoe and Don Juan testify. In France it is largely eaten, Paris alone requiring 100,000 goats annually for the table. Our neighbors also enjoy the donkey, whose flesh, when killed young resembles that of the turkey, though of much finer flavor. Though a hippophage banquet arranged by the late Sir Henry Thompson, was held in London, it is still almost dangerous to suggest horse flesh to an Englishman as food. In reality, it is very excellent eating, and only prejudice can gainsay the fact. "It was in Paris," wrote Mr. Vandamm, the author of "An Englishman in Paris," "that I learned how the cat had been misjudged. Call the dog the friend of man if you like but don't eat him. Fry him, stew him, boil or bake him. Do what you will, his flesh is and remains oily and fatty, with a strong, penetrating taste. I declare that a stewed puss is far finer than stewed rabbit." This testimony the writer can personally corroborate, having recently been invited to a dinner given by a government official. The dish of the evening was "Chat aux Champignons." Soaked in white vinegar with aromatic herbs, and cooked in red wine, the cat made a most savory dish, and after the prejudice of the first mouthful, one was bound to admit its succulence and flavor. Another neglected article of food is the guinea pig. Here the edible virtues of the hedgehog known it would rival ortolans in epicurean favor. Snakes, being rare in England, are almost unknown as food, but in southern France there is a snake which is extensively sold, prepared for cooking under the name of hedgehog eel. Indeed, those who enjoy eels can scarcely shudder at a stewed snake. Frank Buckland once entered the flesh being exceedingly white and firm, not unlike veal in taste. —London Globe.

Everybody Has a Double.

Almost everybody has a double. Don't be surprised if somebody stops you on the street under the delusion that you are the person he is looking for. The girl in the restaurant tries to give you the change you "forgot the other day." And don't feel put up with it. There are lots more saying "There's a fellow that looks like me." —New Orleans States.

Conflicting Emotions.

"Pa, what are conflicting emotions?" "They're the kind a fellow has when, being very tired and a mile from home on a hot day, he tries to decide whether he will spend his only nickel for car fare or get rid of his thirst and walk." —Chicago Herald.

WILD BIRD TAMED.

Professor Hodges, of Massachusetts, Experimenting. Dr. Clifton P. Hodges, professor of biology at Clark University, is having remarkable success in his efforts toward domesticating the ruffed grouse, or partridge. The latest achievement is the raising of a second generation of the birds while they are in captivity, five strongly healthy birds having been hatched two weeks ago by the mother partridge. More could scarcely be desired than to have a pair mate and produce their young in the backyard of a city home. So far as is known the birds have acted exactly the same as their brothers in the woods, even to the curious act of drumming. They are just as large as those in the woods and are lively and contented. One of the old male birds seems to be especially delighted when Dr. Hodges enters the enclosure in which they are kept and plays with the bird as if drumming with his pet cat. In no other case, so far as is known, has this species been anywhere near so perfectly domesticated. Dr. Hodges began these experiments in the spring of 1903, when he obtained some partridge eggs from the Massachusetts Fish and Game Protective Association who resides in Worcester reported the affair to a meeting of the directors, which then voted $200 to be given to Dr. Hodges in aid of his experiments. He is using it in enlarging his enclosure with a view to aiding such work as the association is doing, especially by eventually setting the birds free in the covers of the State and perhaps in our city parks. Dr. Hodges' purpose in the experiments, so far as his own work is concerned, is more especially to study scientifically the biological relations of the species—its foods, habits, and instincts and the possibilities of its domestication.—Boston Transcript.

Wolesleys Record.

Lord Wolesley, who entered his 73d year last month, served a period of active work in the army for 43 years. He possesses several medals, 13 orders (including the Egyptian Star) and 10 medals in despatches awarded for the campaigns in which he has taken an active part. He has also been awarded a bar to him into almost every quarter of the globe—and two wounds. He was created Viscount in 1855.
