FALL OPENING AN ENCYCLOPEDIA OF FASHION

Styles Have Crystallized. The favored modes for fall and winter have been determined. In its ensemble the various departments represent the culmination of intelligent research through the most exclusive avenues of fashion.

Autumnal Bonnetry In all its vagaries of form, size and color devised to please Milady's fancy.

Paris Hats and Kaufmann's Hats. Rare types of surpassing beauty, representing the highest achievement of the French Milliners' Art, and the superlative talent of our own artists—attaining the climax of refined and fashionable elegance.

Parisians have no more magnificent creations to choose from than this "Opening Array" will reveal. Our millinery chief criticized—contrasted—selected—from the finest types that the world-famous millinery ateliers exhibited—specimens representing Camille Roger, Mlle. Carlier, Esther Meyer, Malson Lewis, Caroline Reboux, Virot.

And any one of these stars of the millinery firmament would say: "I am proud to have my Hats shown in connection with those of Messrs. Kaufmann & Co."

To this Opening—Welcome!

Reception Days: Wednesday and Thursday, Sept. 20-21.

Formal Showing of the Approved Fashions in Women's Costumes, Suits, Coats, Skirts, Waists and Dress Accessories.

The genteel influence of "Faultless Attire" will greet visitors in the various sections of our sumptuous apparel floor. Fashion's latitude of choice was never so wide. The variety of exclusive fabrics and the diversity of models afford types to meet every individual preference, from the severely plain to the very elaborate suit. You can go from the North Pole of the natty little Eton to the South Pole of the extreme length coat that reach almost to the hem of the skirt; from Velvets, those most becoming, even flattering, of fabrics, to the manish mixtures whose rough and heathery aspect are their chief attributes.

Distinguished consideration is always accorded our "Opening Displays," and this season's exhibits are on a scale that makes it possible for us to invite you to a "Fashion Show" far more elaborate than any past event.

We bid you welcome!

Reception Days: Wednesday, September 20th. Thursday, September 21st.
