Shepherd and King. Ah! what is love? It is a pretty thing. As sweet unto a shepherd as a king.

His kisses first, then sits as blithe to eat His cream and curd as doth the king his meat.

Thus with his wife he spends the year as blithe As doth the king at every tide or syth.

THE STORMY PETREL

By BRYAN WALLER PROCTOR.

The song of "The Stormy Petrel" was written by Bryan Waller Proctor (1877-1870), the English poet, who wrote under the pseudonym of Harry Cornwall, a sketch of whose life has already appeared in this series.

A THOUSAND miles from land are we, Tossing about on the stormy sea— From billow to bounding billow cast Like fleecy snow on the stormy blast.

Up and down! Up and down! From the base of the wave to the billow's crown, And amidst the flashing and feathery foam The stormy petrel finds a home—

O'er the deep! O'er the deep! Where the whale, and the shark, and the swordfish sleep— Outflying the blast and the driving rain, The petrel telleth her tale—in vain!

This series began in The Times-Dispatch Sunday, Oct. 11, 1903. One is published each day.
