Dr. McGuire Talks.

Dr. Stuart McGuire, who was active in a desire to bring about the amalgamation of the two schools, said last night: "The action of my faculty last night in declining to recommend to the Board of Trustees the adoption of the plan of consolidation as outlined by the special committee was a great disappointment. I believe the faculty had no power to act on the question, the views expressed by it, will have great weight with the board, and it does not seem probable that the consolidation will be effected at this time."

Will Kaiser Help Czar?

(Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch and New York World.) LONDON, June 2.—Vienna, which has long been a center of alarmist, sends out the ominous suggestion to the Morning Post that the interview arranged between the Czar and the Emperor William at Nordring may be considered a preliminary to a military co-operation between the two monarchs.

war as a captain of Company B, Thirty-eighth Virginia Regiment. He died August 26, 1897. William L. "The floating debt, which has hitherto been a source of anxiety, is in better shape to-day than at any time since its organization in 1893."

In 1874 he was elected to Congress from the Fifth District, a distinguished service in which he was continued by the people for a period of twelve years. He was married in 1840 to Mary Harrison, daughter of whom, George C. Cabell, Jr., is a member of the law firm of which his father is the senior member. TOWNS ARE SPRINGING UP IN FORMER DESERT WASTES

The upper picture shows the new city of Heburn, in the desert of Idaho. The lower picture shows the great gates in the Minidoka dam, Idaho.

There will be a rare day in June in Idaho this year—a unique day—one without precedent. Uncle Sam expects to invite members of his numerous family from all parts of the country to an unusual event in the southern part of the State. He will offer for sale about 2,000 acres of land contained in three town sites situated in the heart of a great tract of 150,000 acres of rich and fertile agricultural land which will be watered by the Minidoka project, a great national irrigation works, costing $2,000,000. The town sites are all planned with wide streets and boulevards, with parks and extensive areas reserved for public buildings. The lots are to be disposed of to the highest bidder for cash. They look sufficiently desolate and forlorn now, but with the opening of the canal hereafter, they will be the most luxuriantly fertile of any in the West.

River Difficult to Harness.

Under the wise provisions of the Reclamation Act, all the agricultural lands have been cut off from a heavy and eighty acres, so that the instant the lands are brought under cultivation this tract now covered with sage brush will become one of the most densely populated farming communities in the country. Its prosperity is assured by the splendid water supply furnished by the big government canals and ditches, and this property is a guarantee of the future success and substantial growth of the towns which Uncle Sam proposes to foster there. The proceeds from the auction sales will be returned to the "irrigation fund."

Swift Influx of Settlers.

The initiation of this great work is followed by an influx of settlers from all over the country, and soon every farm hand has been busy at the busy work. Only skilled engineers, backed by vast capital, could cope with such a proposition as this. Many engineers without the necessary wherewithal had looked at it, but its great cost had forced them to give it up. With the passage of the reclamation act, on June 17, 1902, one of the population of the new country, the government forces, rushed a field party to this point, and in a single season prepared and presented a set of plans for comprehensive system of irrigation. They were accepted, and bids were asked and contracts awarded for construction.

LIBRARIANS AT NARRAGANSETT

Virginia, for First Time, Will Send Delegates to Association's Annual Session.

VIRGINIA'S RAPID STRIDES

Old Dominion Moving Ahead in Educational Matters, Writes Assistant Librarian.

The educational interests in Virginia are so much on the heart of every one who loves the old State that one does not with great pleasure the tremendous growth of the "library spirit" in the past few years. A remarkable demonstration of this is evidenced in the number of librarians and those interested in library work who are going to attend the great convention of the American Library Association, which has members in nearly every library centre in the State. This association was organized in December, 1903, and is thus hardly seven months old. But in that time it has succeeded in organizing the library interests throughout Virginia, and to have aided materially struggling libraries in many sections.

Invites Association Here.

The last meeting of the association was held in Richmond, and was devoted to the interests of the Richmond Public Library. Addresses were given by prominent men, and stereopticon illustrations of libraries in other parts of the country were shown. It was decided to send delegates to the Convention of the American Library Association, and to invite that body to hold its next annual convention in Richmond and Norfolk. Messrs. Edward S. Evans, William H. Sargeant and John S. Patton were appointed to represent the Virginia Association, and the invitation to the delegates to cooperate. The Richmond Educational Association joined heartily in the invitation, and will send delegates. Richmond College will also send a delegate. The chairman of the convention, Governor Swann, Mayor McCarthy, the Co-operative Mayor Educational Association, the Jamestown Exposition Company, the University of Virginia, and other public and private organizations, were asked to cooperate. The delegates to be most earnest and cordial letters. The following extract from a letter addressed to the president of the American Library Association by Mr. Evans will give some idea of what it is hoped to accomplish on the visit of the American Library Association Convention:

W. J. Bryan and Wife and Other Americans Presented at New Court.

(By Associated Press.)

TRONDHJEM, June 23.—King Haakon

and Queen Maud to-day held their first public audience in the new palace, which is the center of interest. All the special embassies, statesmen, officials and other prominent persons attended. The American special ambassador, Charles H. Graves, with his staff, and the ladies of the American party, were present. Mr. Graves presented Mr. and Mrs. William J. Bryan, Mrs. Marshall Fields, Mrs. Eddy, Mrs. Meade, Miss Eddy, of Chicago; Mrs. Slater, and Miss Gwynn, of Washington, and Mr. and Mrs. Mayer, of New York.

Bryan Addresses Delegates.

The Norwegian-American delegates held a meeting this afternoon in the garden of the old, archbishop's palace. Mr. Bryan, who had just returned from his trip here, was the guest of honor. He was presented with American and Norwegian flags, and the crowd cheered him. Mr. Bryan said that the American people were proud to have him here, and that they were glad to see him in person. He declared that Norway had achieved high civilization without losing any of her early rugged strength, a thing nations everywhere were striving to do. He hoped the country's prosperity would be as long as her days were long.

Was a Good Man.

Friends and Neighbors Testify to High Character of Mr. Bergh.

The broadcast publication to the world through the newspapers of the death of Mr. C. M. Bergh was "under the influence of liquor" on the night of his accidental death. It is a source of mortification to his many friends and acquaintances, and especially to his bereaved family. I have known him for many years, and he was a man of high character, upright and God-loving. If he was in any way affected by liquor, it was a regrettable accident. He was a member of the Lutheran Church, and was a man of means and of general good standing. I hope that his unfavorable impression has not been made by your statement upon the minds of those who do not know him well. Yours respectfully, DANIEL MURPHY.

Packing Company HAS CLOSED DOORS

"Newspaper Criticism and Adverse Legislation" Cause Suspension.

(By Associated Press.)

LOUISVILLE, Ky., June 2.—The Louisville Packing Company, owned by the Cuyler Packing Company, was closed for an indefinite period this evening.

The Louisville plant employed about 300 men and had an annual output of 100,000 sheep, 20,000 goats and 500,000 hogs. The plant was valued at $500,000, and furnished about fifty per cent. of the local meat supply. W. W. Mason, manager of the company, gave as a reason for the suspension, "newspaper criticism and adverse legislation."

Visited Old Homes.

The great bulk of the Norwegians who came to Norway from America, ostensibly for the coronation did not come to Trondhjem but, instead, scattered to their former homes in various parts of the country. King Haakon and Queen Maud were on their way to Trondhjem, but their trip here is difficult and somewhat expensive, and instead of the coronation festival, they are confined to Trondhjem, but are universal throughout Norway.
