Christ Church Guilds Raising Funds to Furnish Church and Sunday-School.

MRS. WRIGHT PRESIDENT

Church Is Being Improved and Added to at Cost of $12,000.

The Floral Fair, now in progress in Christ Episcopal Church, is receiving a large patronage every night, and is said to be one of the most pronounced successes of its kind ever given under the auspices of a church society.

The bazaar is being given under the auspices of the various societies of the church—the Boys' Brotherhood, the Gleasons' Society, St. Andrew's Brotherhood, the Chancel Guild, the Young Ladies' Guild and the Sisterhood.

The object of the fair is to raise sufficient funds for the furnishing of the church, which is being vastly improved and added to at an estimated cost of $12,000.

A very enjoyable program was rendered last night. There were moving pictures, entitled "Moving Days," Miss Edith Bailey, a popular young lady, rendered a pleasing recitation, and Mrs. Harvath, a leading member of the congregation, sang very effectively a solo.

The program of entertainment to-night will consist of a "swap" party and recitations by Miss Harvath's class of music and education. On Friday night the Gleasons' Society will give a program of music and song, and Miss Ida Lee Allen will give a recitation.

INVESTIGATING COMMITTEE IN WHICH SPLIT OCCURRED

Watkins (Sergeant-at-Arms), Dunn, Pulliam, Guld, Owen (Clerk).

Rison, Sadler, Roberts.

PARTING OF WAY HAS BEEN REACHED

The six members, without the chairman, sat in the Senate cloakroom. They remained at work there until late in the afternoon, and sat again last night.

When a reporter of The Times-Dispatch called at the cloakroom late in the afternoon and asked for Senator Rison, he was courteously ushered in.

"Senator, I understand that the committee has divided, and that the majority and minority are sitting separately. I saw evidence of this in the presence of only four members of the committee. I called to see if you or any of you cared to make a statement."

"I do not know where you got your information," replied Senator Rison, smiling. "No, I do not care to say anything at all."

The other members silently acquiesced in this division.

"The committee assembled this morning, did it go into executive session?" was then asked.

"Yes, our meeting was an executive session," was the response, and again the Senator replied that he did not know where the information as to action of the committee came from.

That ended the interview, the reporter retired and the committee resumed its work though the press representative was invited to have a seat and remain.

A curious complication has thus been brought about, the separation of the committee into two committees being an unexpected development. It has long been known that there were two divergent and irreconcilable views as to the findings of the committee, and it has been freely predicted that the four gentlemen named would unite in a majority report and the chairman and Mr. Guld would probably agree as to a minority report.

Yesterday for the first time the objections of the majority to the chairman's view became known.

It was confessed that the minority report was "too drastic" and that the majority report will be less so.

When the copies of the two reports are completed and signed they will be forwarded to the General Board of the State hospitals, to Governor Swanson and to the General Assembly.

The meeting yesterday was in the Senate cloak-room and continued from about 10 until nearly 11:30. The entire committee will meet again in the cloak-room at 2 P. M. to-day, and a lively session is anticipated. The division in the committee is liable to develop into some expressions on both sides that will be interesting, not to say, sensational.

The General Hospital Board will meet next Tuesday at Williamsburg and this meeting may develop something decidedly interesting.

Some time ago the general board appointed a special committee of three—Judge J. L. Tredway, of Pittsylvania; Mr. John G. Cochran, of Bedford; and Mr. J. Gordon Robinson, of Surry—to consider the record of the Williamsburg investigation and report to the full board. The three gentlemen named were forwarded copies of the voluminous report, and have, presumably, prepared a report to be submitted next Tuesday.

The General Hospital Board will at a later meeting select superintendents for the four State hospitals, whose terms expire next April. The terms of four members of the general board will expire in January, and their successors will have been named before the election of the four superintendents. The board is vested with power to remove any superintendent for cause before the expiration of his term, if in its judgment the conditions require it.

SAYS HOME AND SCHOOL SHOULD CO-OPERATE

Dr. P. W. Forsyth Delivers Address Before Mothers' Clubs.

Rev. Robert W. Forsyth, rector of St. Paul's Church, yesterday afternoon addressed the Confederation of Mothers' Clubs on "Co-operation Between Home and School."

During the course of his address, Dr. Forsyth spoke of the responsibility of the teacher, who has a large part in the training of young children, and said that she should be a woman of exceptionally fine characteristics and traits, because her efforts depend, in a large degree, on the proper forming of child character.

The character of a man, whether good, bad or indifferent, is formed in the early stages of his life, and, therefore, it behooves the teacher to be exceptionally well trained in her art, patient, and, above all, of proper character and disposition.

To effect the proper result, however, there should be cordial co-operation between the home and the school, and parents should accord every aid and help possible to the teacher, upon whom depends so much the rearing of their children. Dr. Forsyth also said that a woman is peculiarly adapted to the teaching of children—much more so than men—and that, therefore, it is better that women be employed for this purpose.

Mrs. E. L. Lindsey is president of the Confederation of Mothers' Clubs, and she will call the next meeting in January, when the officers for the ensuing year will be elected.

CHURCH IS UNABLE TO HOLD PROPERTY

Dr. R. W. Forsyth Says Constitution Confers Great Inconveniences.

In a sermon delivered last Sunday, Dr. Robert W. Forsyth, rector of St. Paul's Episcopal Church, referred to the lack of recognition by the Constitution recently passed of the Christian Church.

There is absolutely no provision in the Constitution whereby churches may be incorporated so as to hold property. Dr. Forsyth referred to this as a great grievance, because church bodies may hold property only by proxy, which is very inconvenient.

Even the vestry of a church has no title to the church building or to any property or funds that may be connected with it. Church property is vested only in a corporation not connected with the church, appointed by the court on the submission of the vestry, and the only means by which a church may hold the title to its own property is by some ingenious evasion of the law, which, of course, would not be tolerated by the church itself.

Dr. Forsyth said last night that he had an intention of agitating a movement to amend the Constitution whereby the present inconvenience might be removed, and that his reference to it in last Sunday's sermon was only a side remark made in connection with the subject of his sermon, which treated of the mutual recognition between church and State under the rule of King David. He said, however, that if he had been in Virginia at the time of the Constitutional Convention he would certainly have raised his voice in protest against the convention for its failure to recognize the church.
