OPENING OF DOUMA CAUSES RIOTING

Forty Thousand People Make Demonstration, Singing and Cheering.

MOUNTED POLICE DISPERSE CROWD

M. GOLOVIN, of Moscow, Liberal.

ST. PETERSBURG, March 5.—The opening to-day of the Douma, or House of the Russian Parliament, although in itself devoid of incident, was made the occasion of a great revolutionary demonstration by the St. Petersburg proletariat and the students of the city, which resulted in several encounters between the police and the populace, and more or less serious injury to a number of the latter. The situation was such that the authorities finally were forced to fill the streets with military, as in the ominous days of the Trepoff regime. After the adjournment of the session of the house a tumultuous crowd, by this time estimated to number close to forty thousand persons, with red banners flying, and accompanied by the music of revolutionary chants, started, like the followers of Father Gapon on January 22, 1905, toward the central quarter of the city, where the Winter Palace of the Emperor is located.

Elements of the "Red Sunday" were lacking, and the command "Fire!" would have precipitated a similar massacre. But the present prefect of St. Petersburg, General Drahtschew, followed another course, and dispersed the procession by charges of mounted gendarmes, armed with whips, and by an imposing display of force he prevented the demonstrators from reforming.

Police Forbearing. During the long hours of the morning and afternoon the police guarding the Tauride Palace acted with great forbearance, giving the spectators a free vent in singing and cheering, and only interfering to prevent the people from forcing their way into the palace.

When the Deputies emerged after the adjournment of the session the temper of the crowd was fired by speeches from Social Revolutionary members, a dozen of whom mounted upon the shoulders of their followers and harangued those present upon the necessity of organizing to support Parliament against the government.

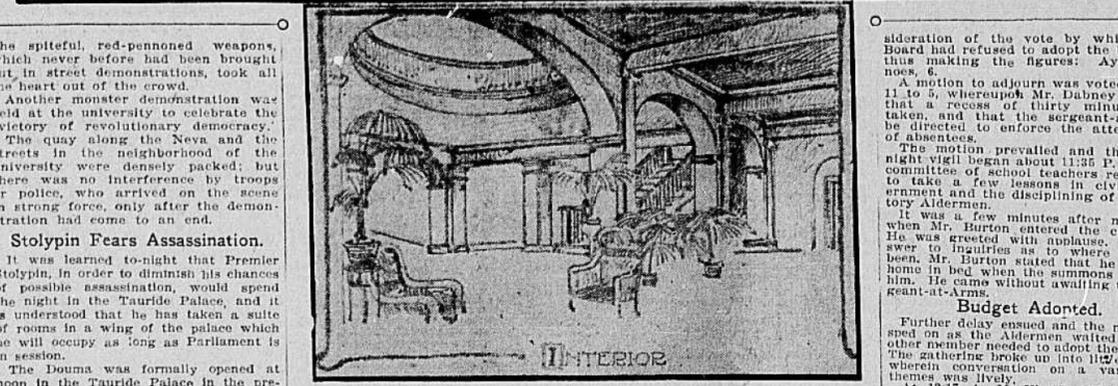

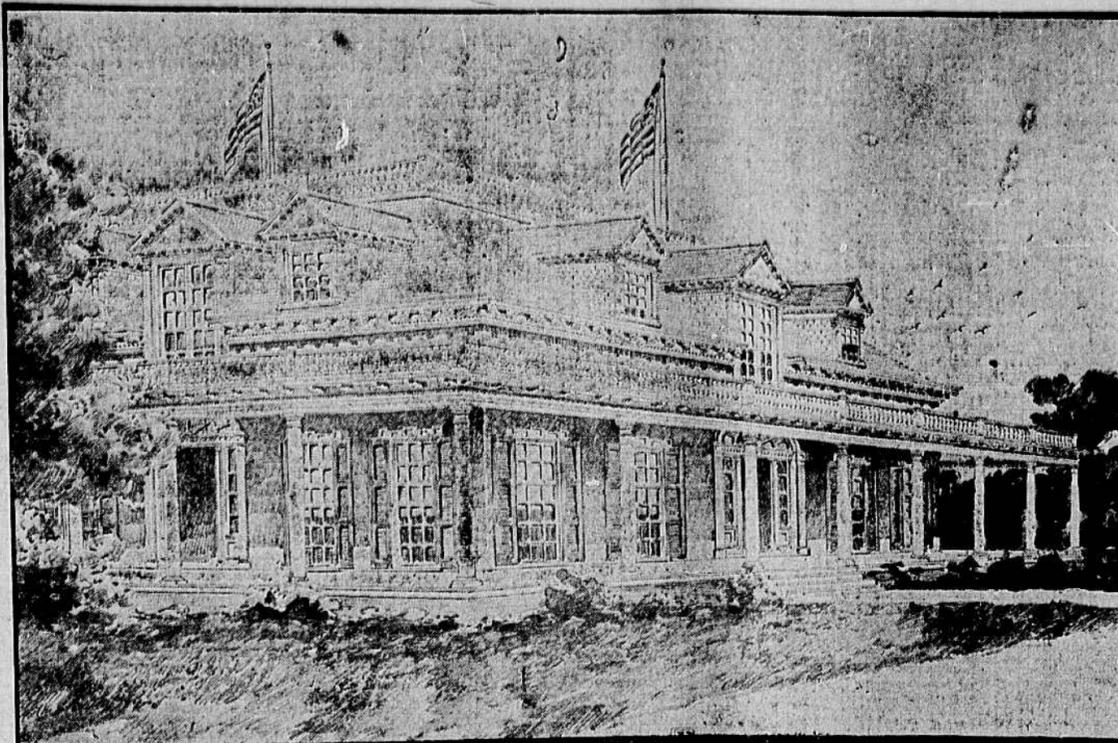

The social revolutionary motto, "through fight our rights" was adopted as a general slogan, and simultaneously red handkerchiefs began to flutter above the heads of the crowd, and then the crimson banners appeared like magic. The crowd, singing the "Marches" and battling songs of Russian revolution, then moved slowly down the broad Pouchatshka Avenue, stopping at intervals to listen to speeches and to sing.

"Hangmen! Bloodhounds!" It demonstrated on the way in front of the house of the chief of the secret police, where a small force of gendarmes made an attempt to disperse the people, but soon fell back in face of the resolute bearing of the manifestants, who followed them with cries of "Hangmen! Bloodhounds!"

In the meanwhile the authorities had hastily concentrated a strong force of gendarmes, which charged the head of the procession when it reached the Liberty Prospect, one of the main business avenues of the city. The gendarmes plied their whips vigorously, and in one case used the flats of their sabres. The crowd attempted to reform in front of the detention prison, where hundreds of political prisoners are confined, and again in front of the General Court building, where the political trials are held; but in each instance it was dispersed.

Cossacks Were Formidable. The gendarmes by this time had been reinforced by detachments of the Chevalier Guards, who galloped hither and thither, waving the roadway and cursing the demonstrators. Finally a large force of Cossacks, armed with lances, arrived in sight.

ACCEPTED DESIGN FOR RICHMOND BUILDING AT JAMESTOWN

The Richmond building at the Jamestown Exposition will be completed in due time for the opening of the exposition. It will cost about $100,000, and will be in all respects a splendid home for the Exposition grounds and a place to dispense hospitality.

The spiteful, red-penned weapons, which never before had been brought out in street demonstrations, took all the heart out of the crowd. Another monster demonstration was held at the university to celebrate the "victory of revolutionary democracy." The quay along the Neva and the streets in the neighborhood of the university were densely packed; but there was no interference by troops or police, who arrived on the scene in strong force, only after the demonstration had come to an end.

Stolyin Fears Assassination. It was learned to-night that Premier Stolyin, in order to diminish his chances of possible assassination, would spend the night in the Tauride Palace, and it is understood that he has taken a suite of rooms in a wing of the palace which he will occupy as long as Parliament is in session. The Douma was formally opened at noon in the Tauride Palace in the presence of all the ministers and many high functionaries. No member of the imperial family was present.

M. Goloboff, vice-president of the Council of the Empire, called the lower house to order, and, in a colorless speech, invited the members to sign the oath of allegiance to Emperor Nicholas. The Conservatives cheered the mention of the name of the Emperor, but the opposition members remained silent.

Golovin a Liberal. Fedor Golovin, president of the Moscow Zemstvo, and Constitutional Democratic member of Parliament from Moscow Province, was elected president of the house. He is a member of one of the oldest families of Russia, and one of the foremost Liberals of the city. He has many friends in court circles, and is understood to have the support of the labor and peasant members of the house.

Annual Budget Finally Passes. The Council of the Empire, or upper house of Parliament, also convened to-day. The only business transacted was the adoption of a resolution of sympathy with the widow of Count Alexis Ignatieff, a member of the council, who was assassinated December 23d last. According to present arrangements, President Golovin will be received in audience by the Emperor March 7th. There will be no sessions of the house pending the president's reception by His Majesty.

Blues' Army. The reading of the budget, as agreed to by the Common Council, was proceeded with without further objection until the item "Richmond Light Infantry Blues" armory, first installment, $40,000, for an armory with Turpin was promptly on his feet addressing "Mr. President" (Mr. Gunst in the chair).

Mr. Turpin served notice that he would not consent to vote for that item until he knew what the armory was to cost, and where it was to be located and had secured competitive plans and bids. He declared that it was an unheard-of proposition for the Finance Committee to come to the Council and ask the appropriation of $40,000 for an armory without stating details. He avowed his willingness to vote an armory for the Blues but he wanted to know first what it was going to cost.

Mr. Ellett volunteered to give the information desired. He explained that the words to be spent only after a report from the Grounds and Buildings Committee, embracing the site, plans and cost of said building, shall have been approved by the Council of the city of Richmond.

Mr. Turpin advocated his amendment, which provided that the $40,000 be transferred to the contingent fund. Mr. Tabney made an earnest plea to the Board not to amend and delay the Turpin amendment. He expressed a willingness to support the Adams amendment as a separate resolution, but appealed to its patrons not to press it in this connection. He declared that he was willing that the Grounds and Buildings Committee should have supervision of the matter.

Mr. Adams agreed to withdraw temporarily from the discussion, and to offer it later, and imparted the information that it would be four or five months before the Grounds and Buildings Committee would be ready to make a report on the matter. Mr. Turpin rejoined that the work of both district and High School teachers, and endorsed the pay-roll item as presented. The item was then accepted without further discussion or question.

The Richmond building at the Jamestown Exposition will be completed in due time for the opening of the exposition. It will cost about $100,000, and will be in all respects a splendid home for the Exposition grounds and a place to dispense hospitality. The structure was designed by Mr. C. K. Howell, whose plans were accepted by the Council committee over those submitted by six other well-known architects. The building will be sixty feet square and will contain reception-rooms, retiring-rooms, library, writing-rooms and a very large lobby on the first floor. The second floor will have four ample rooms to be used for such purposes as the committee may decide upon. The building will be surrounded by a fifteen-foot veranda which will be used from either story. On the top of the building there will be an observatory deck from which all the Exposition grounds and waters upon which will be the great naval display may be seen. The interior will be decorated in green burials, with green roof and green blinds.

At this moment, 12:35, Mr. Tabney was in the center of a great noise of hand-clapping, heralding the arrival of Mr. Wood, the member necessary to secure the majority to pass the budget. Mr. Tabney quickly suspended and the motion to reconsider was adopted. Ayes—14; noes—5. Thereupon the budget was put upon its passage, and adopted by the following vote: Ayes—Messrs. Adams, Cottrell, Dabney, Donahoe, Ellett, Gilman, Grundy, Larus, Masurier, Moncure, Reynolds and Washburn. Noes—Messrs. Mann, Satterfield, Soy, Washer and Turpin—5.

Mr. Adams of the Grounds and Buildings Committee, contended that the Finance Committee, in recommending a site and appropriation for an armory, was undertaking to recommend a site and appropriation for an armory, and that the Finance Committee, in recommending a site and appropriation for an armory, was undertaking to recommend a site and appropriation for an armory.

Mr. Turpin came to the support of the Adams amendment, which provided that the $40,000 be transferred to the contingent fund. Mr. Tabney made an earnest plea to the Board not to amend and delay the Turpin amendment. He expressed a willingness to support the Adams amendment as a separate resolution, but appealed to its patrons not to press it in this connection.

Every woman covets a shapely, pretty figure, and many of them deplore the loss of their girlish forms after marriage. The bearing of children is often destructive to the mother's shapeliness. All of this can be avoided, however, by the use of Mother's Friend before baby comes, as this great liniment always prepares the body for the strain upon it, and preserves the symmetry of her form. Mother's Friend overcomes all the danger of child-birth, and carries the expectant mother safely through this critical period without pain. It is woman's greatest blessing. Thousands gratefully tell of the benefit and relief derived from the use of this wonderful remedy. Sold by all druggists at $1.00 per bottle. Our little book, telling all about this liniment, will be sent free.

consideration of the vote by which the Board had refused to adopt the budget, thus making the figures: Ayes, 11; noes, 5. A motion to adjourn was voted down, 12 to 5, whereupon Mr. Dabney moved that the session of thirty minutes be taken, and that the sergeant-at-arms be directed to enforce the attendance of absentees. The motion prevailed and the midnight vigil began about 11:35 P. M. The members of school teachers remained in the building, waiting for the government and the disciplining of refractory Aldermen.

It was twenty minutes after midnight when Mr. Burton entered the chamber. He was greeted with applause. In answer to inquiries as to where he had been, Mr. Burton stated that he was at home in bed when the summons reached him. He came without awaiting the Sergeant-at-Arms.

Budget Adopted. Further delay ensued and the moments sped on as the Aldermen waited for the speaker to announce the result of the vote. The gathering broke up into 112 groups, whereon conversation on a variety of topics was held. At 12:17 A. M. Vice-President Gunst ascended the rostrum and rapped the presence of Mr. Burton. He was greeted by the vote by which the budget was rejected. He spoke in support of his motion, pointing out the minority to withdraw their objection to the budget. He drew their attention to the fact that the East End members could at best only delay action on the budget, and that nothing was to be gained thereby. He reminded the objectors to the budget that they had offered no alternative proposals for those to which they objected, and proposed no appropriation for their wards.

Mr. Tabney made an earnest plea to the Board not to amend and delay the Turpin amendment. He expressed a willingness to support the Adams amendment as a separate resolution, but appealed to its patrons not to press it in this connection.

Another Fight. The next item to provoke opposition was that appropriating $46,394.56 for paving Franklin Street and Monument Avenue. Aldermen Mann, of the East Ward, opposed the appropriation. He argued that the larger portion of the entire expenditure for paving was to be made in the East Ward, and that the city was receiving nothing, and that the East Ward was receiving nothing, and that the East Ward was receiving nothing.

Mr. Adams of the Grounds and Buildings Committee, contended that the Finance Committee, in recommending a site and appropriation for an armory, was undertaking to recommend a site and appropriation for an armory, and that the Finance Committee, in recommending a site and appropriation for an armory, was undertaking to recommend a site and appropriation for an armory.

LEADING MAN OF WOODSTOCK DIES

Hon. Philip Wilson Magruder, Six Years Member of Legislature, Passes Away.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WOODSTOCK, Va., March 5.—Hon. Philip Magruder, of Woodstock, was paralyzed in his law office here on yesterday afternoon, and died at 10 o'clock last night, never having rallied from the stroke. He was born 1828, and was sixty-nine years old at the time of his death. His wife, who was Miss Annie Ott before her marriage, died at eight o'clock Monday morning. He leaves the following children: A. W. Magruder, O. Laughlin, of Wheeling, W. Va.; Mrs. W. Magruder, Miss Ella Magruder, of Philadelphia, Pa.; Mrs. Magruder, and Misses Susan, Lucy, and Annie Magruder, all of Woodstock. Mr. Magruder was a member of the Virginia University of Virginia about the year 1858, but owing to the war which followed soon afterwards, did not begin the practice of law until some years later. He was a member of the Shenandoah Rifles, Territorial Virginia Infantry Volunteers, which was organized at Woodstock, and entered the war at its beginning. After the close of the war he taught school in the Woodstock Seminary for several years, and was appointed a member of the first board of supervisors of Shenandoah county in 1870, commissioner in chancery and commissioner of new roads in 1871. He was elected to represent Shenandoah county in the Virginia House of Delegates for three successive years, but declining to run for nomination for the fourth term. Some time after being admitted to practice law here, he formed a partnership with Judge Henry G. Allen, who afterwards became District Attorney of the United States for the Western District of Virginia.

Miss Alice Robinson. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) UPPERVILLE, Va., March 5.—Miss Alice Robinson, a maiden lady, who lived near here, died at her home Sunday night at 11 o'clock. She was about sixty years old, a lady of sweet and gentle disposition and manners and was a true Christian, a member of the M. E. Church, South. She leaves one sister, one brother, one niece and two nephews. Her burial will take place tomorrow at the family cemetery, near her home.

Miss Jane Elam. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BOYDTON, Va., March 5.—Miss Jane Elam, wife of Mr. W. A. Elam, of near Boydton, died at 11 o'clock Sunday night at her home. She was about sixty years old, a lady of sweet and gentle disposition and manners and was a true Christian, a member of the M. E. Church, South. She leaves one sister, one brother, one niece and two nephews. Her burial will take place tomorrow at the family cemetery, near her home.

Mr. Corbett, of Highland, Was 103—Child Dies of Diphtheria. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) MONTEREY, Va., March 5.—The death of the only centenarian Highland has perhaps ever known occurred yesterday, eight miles south of Monterey, Corbett, son of Mr. M. H. Corbett, a well-known farmer citizen of the Jackson's River Valley. She had reached the extreme age of 103. The instance of remarkable longevity is all the more so because the usual habits and surmises are absent. Her people are intelligent and truthful and have records which substantiate the claim. She had enjoyed good health until a few days ago, when she became a victim of the grip epidemic. A fatal case of diphtheria occurred at the home of Dr. N. A. Whitelaw, near Hightown, to-day, the victim being a bright little granddaughter of twelve years, child of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Owen Hook, charged with attempting to shoot Bud Neal, the occurrence taking place more than a year ago in Eastern Highland.

Mr. Hannah A. Hough. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) ALEXANDRIA, Va., March 5.—Mrs. Hannah A. Hough, of Lincolnville, Fairfax county, died last night at the age of eighty-two years. Her illness lasted two weeks. She was twenty-three years of age.

Mr. Elizabeth Cosby. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) COBRY, Va., March 5.—Mrs. Elizabeth Cosby, wife of R. H. Cosby, died at her late residence at 3 o'clock THIS AFTERNOON. Interment in Maury Cemetery.

Food Poisons

Men of affairs, women of society and children with active brains are too often sedentary in their habits, giving little time to exercise. To this evil is added the high and improper dieting—as a result, the stomach cannot stand the demands made upon it. The abused and overtaxed stomach does not properly do the work of digestion. Food taken in ferments and the poison permeates the whole system. The body becomes a prey for the bacteria of the attack of whatever disease it may encounter.

Does it ever occur to you how busy the stomach of yours is? It only has three plants, but in one year you force it to take in 2,400 pounds of material, and it prepares it for assimilation into the blood. No wonder it rebels when overworked. We crowd it with spices and acids, and expect the stomach to do its work. It can't do it. All over the inner layer of the stomach, the glands which secrete the juices necessary to digestion. The entrance of food into the stomach is the signal for these glands to do their work. The more the food, and the more indigestible, the greater the demand upon them and upon the muscles of the wall adjoining.

Think of the tons of high-seasoned game, sweetmeats and appetizers crammed into the stomach of a child every day then wonder, if you will, why you are dizzy or nauseated or constipated. Don't let your stomach get out of order. You desire that you should be born so unfortunate. Blame yourself and apply the remedy.

Buy a small package of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets, taking one after each meal and at bedtime. They are pleasant, but a digestive. Your stomach is worn out and needs help, not medicine. Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets will do the work that the stomach fails to do. They are a genuine, however, one grain of Stuart's Dyspepsia Tablets to digest 3,000 grains of ordinary food, so you need not fear that anything you eat will remain in your stomach undigested.
