

STRIKING SCENES AT THE CLOSE OF GREAT CONVENTION

nd Governor Swanson and Mrs. Swanson being attended by the staff and assisted in receiving by a distinguished number of ladies and gentlemen. It had been the purpose of the Governor to be certain of the town in the event of the mansion, but inclement weather made it necessary to hold the reception within doors.

At night a great crowd enjoyed the excellent entertainment at the city Auditorium, arranged by Polk Miller especially for the amusement of the veterans. There were old songs, camp fires, dances and war-time scenes, in which the band played its familiar part. The old soldiers and every one else enjoyed the entertainment hugely.

Not the least important event in the day's history was the care taken of the veterans at Camp Gordon. Some of the old men found that living in tents during the wet weather was playing havoc with their old wounds, and that more recent evil, rheumatism. Citizens came to the relief of the local committee, and thousands of the old men were brought to the city in houses and armories. The Passenger and Power Company led in the good work, bringing in several hundred and lodging them in the office building at Seventh and Main Streets.

"Berry's for Clothes"--the distinguishing sort.

MARCH this way for the new Summer styles. Coats with long rolls, fancy pockets and novel cuffs. Warm weather vests in cool patterns--$1 up. Extra trousers with big turnups--$3.80, $5, $6 and $7.80. Negligee shirts in rich array--$1 to $3.80. Fancy hose, fancy handkerchiefs, fancy scarfs, but no fancy prices.

O. H. BERRY & COMPANY,
Men and Boys' Outfitters, Trunks, Bags, Etc. Main & 11th Sts.

Program for To-Day.

To-day there will be special services in the morning at 11 o'clock in all the city churches. In the afternoon at 3:30 o'clock memorial services will be held at the First Baptist Church and Monumental Episcopal Church, under the auspices of the Confederate Southern Memorial Association, and at night, at 8:15 o'clock, there will be a sacred concert at the Horse Show Building, conducted by Mr. Walter C. Mercer. This will be one of the great events of the reunion. To-morrow the reunion will come to an end with the grand parade and the unveiling of the Davis Monument.

CLOSING SCENES OF CONVENTION

General Lee Re-elected, and Birmingham Chosen for Next Place of Meeting.

The last day of the seventeenth annual convention of the United Confederate Veterans was given over to the little real business that had to be transacted, but volumes of oratory were mixed in with the business numbers. There were speeches and speeches, most of which were good and all of which added to the general enthusiasm.

The rainstorm bothered everybody yesterday morning, especially the old soldiers, who cannot stand that kind of weather, together as well as they could in their younger days, when they followed the boys into battle, in bullet-storms as well as rainstorms. Nevertheless, when the gavel of Grand Commander Stephen D. Lee fell upon the desk in the auditorium of the Horse Show Building at 10 o'clock, and he called upon Rev. Dr. McKim, of Washington, to lead in prayer, fully 2,000 veterans arose and reverently bowed while the aged veteran chaplain invoked the divine blessing.

Marital Music

The High School Reunion chorus braved the rainstorm and again formed the human pyramid of musical eloquence. The chorus delighted the old boys with the rendition of number of soul-stirring war songs of long ago. Kessul's Band was also in position, and as usual "Dixie" set the throng wild. The boxes were soon filled with patriotic women and the tier of seats beyond, though not altogether as crowded as they had been on former days, held many enthusiasts.

The business of the convention was easily transacted, the most exciting and the most interesting item on this part of the program being the selection of the place for the next meeting of the United Confederate Veterans and the annual reunion. Just why the rumor had got abroad nobody knows, but the fact is that it had been said that invitations to the veterans to meet next year would be few and far between. It was a mistake. Not only were their earnest and eloquent pleas approved, and all the other business the convention had in hand was disposed of. Then at 1 o'clock the seventeenth annual convention of the veterans was adjourned to meet at the call of the grand commander in the city of Birmingham, Ala. Of course the call was the latter part of the leafy month of May, 1908, as the time of meeting.

Loving Cup for Gordon

The various organizations that work under the auspices of U. C. V. Association made reports. The officers for the ensuing year were elected, or re-elected, and the reports of the officers were approved, and all the other business the convention had in hand was disposed of. Then at 1 o'clock the seventeenth annual convention of the veterans was adjourned to meet at the call of the grand commander in the city of Birmingham, Ala. Of course the call was the latter part of the leafy month of May, 1908, as the time of meeting.

Memorial Association

The first report of the day was read by Dr. J. William Jones. It was that of the Confederate Memorial Association, and was in part as follows:

"During the past year we have been again happily reunited to Colonel John W. Gordon, the chairman of the committee of arrangements for this reunion. The greatest of all the reunions closed with the blessing of the grand commander and old war songs by the children's reunion chorus.

Ready to Go Forward

"The matter ought to have ended there at once, but under pretense of an appeal to the Supreme Court the other side kept us waiting some six months longer, until they were finally thrown out of court with all of the costs put on them.

there at once, but under pretense of an appeal to the Supreme Court the other side kept us waiting some six months longer, until they were finally thrown out of court with all of the costs put on them.

"As soon as this suit was decided, Mr. Peter Roush wrote that he was prepared to pay the $40,000 balance of his father's scrip, as soon as we could present that we had $100,000 cash in bank to meet the gift of his father of that amount.

"We are now ready to go forward at an early day in the erection of our memorial building.

"We had confidently expected to have had it well under way ere this, and our executive committee made a proposition to the city of Richmond, which was warmly advocated by the city press and approved by many of our prominent citizens, and we had every reason to believe that it would be accepted. But the coming in of a new Council and other causes delayed action until it was too late to press the matter further.

Will Rush Work.

"We purpose now to vigorously push our building enterprise, and hope for progress in a few days.

"The delay, however, has not been an unmixed evil, as the cost of building material and of labor has been very high during the erection of buildings for the Jamestown Exposition, and it is hoped that in the near future these will be greatly reduced.

"We would say to our many friends who have promised 'We will help you as soon as you are ready to build' that the time has come when they may send forward their contributions, and we earnestly appeal to them to do so.

"We will need additional contributions, not only that we may erect a building worthy of the cause it represents, but that we may meet other demands in furnishing it.

Collect Great Library.

"We propose to collect a great library of American history, books, pamphlets and manuscripts, which will enable the historian to tell the true story of our country, not neglecting the history of our Southland, and especially our great struggle for constitutional freedom.

"We wish also to collect as soon as possible statues, portraits, etc., which will make our Memorial Hall a beautiful monument to our leaders, our noble soldiers, and our noble women.

"We solicit, therefore, contributions not only of money, but of books, pamphlets, manuscripts, portraits, busts, statues--whatsoever will illustrate our history or honor our private deeds, or our cause.

"One gentleman has already donated to our library his large collection of books, pamphlets, etc., and we have other promises in that direction.

"We repeat what we have said in a previous report, that checks made payable to Geo. L. Christian, treasurer, and sent to J. Wm. Jones, secretary, and superintendent, 709 1-2 West Clay Street, Richmond, Va., will be turned into our treasury without the deduction of a cent for

For non-payment of dues, and the divisions to which they belonged: SUMMARY OF CAMPS BY DIVISIONS.

(Arranged according to the present number on roster.)

DIVISION.	Number Chartered.	Last Report.	Dropouts for Non-payment of Dues.	Net on Roster.
Texas	320	72	251
Georgia	134	134
North Carolina	142	47	97
Mississippi	102	13	89
Alabama	127	45	82
Arkansas	101	26	75
Tennessee	80	17	63
North Carolina	83	17	66
Virginia	68	14	54
Kentucky	77	16	61
Louisiana	79	9	70
Missouri	80	32	48
Florida	60	30	30
Indian Territory	47	11	36
Oklahoma	29	9	20
West Virginia	25	7	18
Northwest	15	1	14
Pacific	16	2	14
Maryland	13	6	7
Massachusetts	1	1
Total	1,608	390	1,250
Added 1906-07	41
Total	1,649

The collections from the camps, more greatly reduced in number, with membership depleted by death, are far in excess of any former year. This showing is as remarkable as it is gratifying. The officers, too, have displayed a keen-

RESOLUTIONS ADOPTED

Title of General Should Be Borne Only by Those Who Had It During War--Proposition as to Sponsors Tabled.

Some of the committees were slow in making their reports, and oratory again became the order of the day. General Bennett H. Young was introduced to the convention. He is a Kentuckian of the eloquent kind, and his remarks so greatly aroused the sentiment of the delegates that they called for him for temporary presiding officer, and he made a good one. General Young was brought to the front to fill a vacuum, but he made a good speech. His remarks were so full of sentiment that in Kentucky forty monuments have been erected to Southern Confederate soldiers, while not a single one has yet been put up in the State of Georgia. The delegates later called for him for temporary presiding officer, and he made a good one. General Young was brought to the front to fill a vacuum, but he made a good speech. His remarks were so full of sentiment that in Kentucky forty monuments have been erected to Southern Confederate soldiers, while not a single one has yet been put up in the State of Georgia. The delegates later called for him for temporary presiding officer, and he made a good one.

Greeting From Sons.

Ex-Senator James H. Berry, of the State of Arkansas, a one-legged Confederate veteran, was next introduced to the convention. His patriotic speech thrilled the vast audience.

Mr. George N. Apperson, of Tennessee, was the chairman of the committee which came from the Sons of Veterans' convention to bring greetings to the fathers. He was introduced by Commander Lee, and in a short but eloquent speech he proved himself an orator. He assured the "old boys" that the "youngsters" were on hand, ready to take up the work of perpetuating the glory of the Confederate soldier while the old boys lay in their graves.

Dr. J. William Jones was asked by the commander to reply briefly to the greetings of the Sons, which he did in a most fitting manner.

The committee on resolutions made a very lengthy report, of which the following is but a synopsis.

The report first recommends that the speeches of General S. D. Lee, Senator John W. Daniel and Colonel R. E. Lee, Jr., be printed in pamphlet form for distribution, and in honor of the objects and aims of the Arlington Confederate Memorial Association, which proposed the erection of a Confederate monument in Arlington National Cemetery.

On the correct representation of the Confederate battleflag, the resolutions committee submitted a substitute. "That the action of this association at its convention held in Nashville, Tenn., in 1904, be indorsed and reaffirmed.

The report favors the presentation of all papers, manuscripts and historical sketches of the Confederate States, and recommends the endowment of a Confederate hospital in the home town of Stonewall Jackson at Lexington, Va.

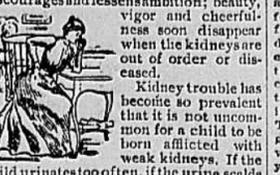

It suggests the celebration of the one-hundredth anniversary of General R. E. Lee by a permanent memorial in the Institute of General Young, who was president (Washington and Lee University), and favors the erection of a monument to the eighteen soldiers killed at Appomattox. The building of the largest national memorial to Confederate soldiers, which will show also the number dropped er interest in the association, not only in the matter of settling promptly and cheerfully their dues, but in calling for communications, more of these having been received in the past twelve months than for a very long period. A fair idea of the financial condition of the order will be seen from the following summary of receipts and disbursements for the twelve months ending December 31, 1906:

Receipts.	Amount.
Officers' dues	$1,556 50
Camp dues	4,730 33
Contributions	48 00
Donations	323 85
Total	$6,668 70

When it is recalled that for many years the annual deficit gradually grew from year to year, and that at the present moment there is not only no deficit, and no debts owed by the order, but ample funds on hand to meet all demands; when it is noted the keen interest manifested by officers and men alike in the good of the order, you, sir, should feel proud at the love and devotion of your comrades, and the approval of your course as commander-in-chief, which this condition of affairs reveals. Such confidence and veneration come into the lives of few.

Women as Well as Men Are Made Miserable by Kidney and Bladder Trouble.

Kidney trouble preys upon the mind, discourages and lessens ambition; beauty, vigor and cheerfulness soon disappear when the kidneys are out of order or diseased.

Women as well as men are made miserable by kidney and bladder trouble, and both need the same great remedy. The mild and the immediate effect of Swamp-Root is soon realized. It is sold by druggists, in fifty-cent and one-dollar size bottles. You may have a sample bottle by mail free, also a Home of Swamp-Root, pamphlet, telling all about Swamp-Root, including many of the thousands of testimonial letters received from sufferers cured. In writing Dr. Kilmer & Co., Binghamton, N. Y., be sure and mention this paper. Don't make any mistake, but remember the name, Swamp-Root, Dr. Kilmer's Swamp-Root, and the address, Binghamton, N. Y., on every bottle.

ing resolutions, offered by Dr. J. William Jones, were unanimously adopted:

Having learned with great pleasure that the authorities of Washington and Lee University propose to carry out the suggestion made by the joint committee of Veterans and Daughters of the Confederacy, who arranged for celebrating the one-hundredth anniversary of our heroes, Captain Robert Edward Lee, by establishing a permanent memorial of him in the institution of which he was president, therefore, be it resolved:

1. That we heartily approve the plan of the university to convert the chapel in which he presided into a permanent Robert E. Lee Memorial, enlarging and properly beautifying it. We also approve the plan of establishing a chair of American history, to be named in honor of Lee, and that we urge future generations of students may study everything pertaining to the history of this great country, especially the part played by our own Southland, the career of our great hero, and of those who followed him in the patriotic struggle for constitutional freedom.

2. That we warmly commend this enterprise to the sympathy and the liberality of our camps of veterans and Sons of Veterans, to our clusters of Daughters of the Confederacy, and to our people generally, and that we anticipate its success with the liveliest satisfaction.

Strange to say, the report caused no discussion, but was adopted without question. Time was when some of the paragraphs in those resolutions would have created something of a revolution in a convention of Confederate veterans. But the old warriors do not wrangle any more.

CONVENTION ADJOURNS

Officers Re-elected and Birmingham Chosen as Next Place of Meeting--Loving Cup for Colonel Gordon.

Colonel William Elliott, the officer appointed by President Roosevelt to carry out the recent act of Congress to provide for the marking of the graves of Confederate soldiers who died in Northern prisons, was next introduced to the convention. He read an interesting paper, giving the veterans complete information concerning his work, and asking their aid.

When the reading of the paper by Colonel Elliott was concluded, General West, of Georgia, called for the order of the day, and moved that the election of officers of the Grand Camp of United Confederate Veterans be entered into. The motion was adopted, and General West again took the platform, and in a most eloquent speech nominated General Stephen D. Lee for the position of grand commander. However, he had been preceded, for as soon as the announcement was made from the desk by General Young, who was temporarily presiding, that nominations for the highest office in the gift of the convention were in order, the whole body commenced to shout "Lee! Lee! Stephen D. Lee!" He was really elected before General West could nominate him, but all the same General West made a good nominating speech. There was no other nomination. General Lee was elected by a rising vote and the waving of hats and flags and handkerchiefs.

The old artillery hero came to the front, but he could not say very much. He just wiped his eyes and tried to talk. He did not need to say much. He thanked his "old boys" for the honor which he declared was the highest and the greatest that can be bestowed upon Southern Confederate men.

Officers Elected.

The following are the other officers elected, all of whom were named unanimously and without opposition:

Commander of the Department of Tennessee, Clement A. Evans, of Georgia.

Commander of the Department of Northern Virginia, General Irving Walker.

Commander of the Department of the Trans-Mississippi, General William L. Cabell, of Dallas, Texas.

and he was elected by a rising, silent vote.

General Cabell is a native of Virginia, having been born just across the Dan River from Danville. He was educated in Virginia schools, and when a young man went to Arkansas. He was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war broke out, and was among the first to enlist. He fought the whole thing out, and rose from the position of captain to brigadier-general. It is said that he had certain staying qualities when in battle that reminded his comrades of certain tenacious four-footed animals that also have wonderful staying qualities, and so they nicknamed him "Old Tige." The nickname stuck, and when a young man went to Arkansas, he was there when the war