SAMUELS CHARGED WITH PERJURY, TOO

Danville Saloonkeeper Out on Bail, Is Rearrested on New Charge.

TWO STORIES DO NOT TALLY

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] DANVILLE, Va., November 26.—The evidence and the arguments in the case of J. H. Lawrence, a bonded distiller of Henry county, charged with defrauding the government of revenue taxes, were finished in the United States Court here late this afternoon. The jury will deliberate on the case upon reconvening to-morrow morning. The trial was begun Saturday, and many witnesses were examined.

W. B. Samuels, a licensed saloonkeeper of this city, was arrested this afternoon on an indictment charging him with perjury. Samuels was convicted last week of removing and concealing spirits, and was sentenced to thirty days in jail and fined a hundred dollars. He was out on bond this afternoon pending an appeal when rearrested. He furnished bond in the sum of one thousand dollars for his continued appearance before court on the perjury charge. It is alleged that Samuels, in testifying for himself in the revenue fraud case, made statements before the grand jury and before the court at the trial that do not agree. The district attorney has a stenographic report of the alleged conflicting statements of Samuels.

Over a hundred witnesses will be here to-morrow to testify when the case of T. M. Angle, manager of the Dry Fork Distilling Company, charged with extensive frauds, is called. It now looks as if this case, which will probably consume two weeks' time, may be tried at this term of court, as it is reported that Judge McDowell will adjourn the usual term of court scheduled to be held in December at Harrisonburg.

The grand jury continues the investigation of the frauds by the bonded distillers, and the alleged collusion of the government officers, but every report made is guarded with secrecy until the arrests are made.

Judge McDowell this afternoon ordered the Federal prisoners now in jail here under sentence to be removed at once on account of the "inadequate, unsanitary and uncomfortable condition of the Danville prison."

Sheets Arrested in North Carolina. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WINSTON-SALEM, N. C., November 26.—George Sheets, wanted in Danville, Va., on the charge of defrauding the government in the operation of a whiskey distillery, was arrested to-day at the home of his father, in Davie county. He was brought before a United States commissioner here this afternoon, and his bond was fixed at $5,000. At the suggestion of friends, Sheets left to-night in charge of a deputy marshal for Danville, to appear before the judge holding Federal court there, with the hope of securing a reduction in his bail. Sheets is a native of Davie county.

TEACHERS OF STATE GATHER IN ROANOKE

Large Attendance Upon Conference, Which Opens With Address by Governor.

NEED FOR BETTER SCHOOLS

ROANOKE, Va., November 26.—Roanoke is in the hands of the public school teachers and superintendents to-night. Every train to-day has brought in crowds of teachers, and to-night when the first meeting of the school conference of Virginia teachers opened at the Armory, the registrar was still busy at the High School building. The registrar is much larger than the first day of the conference in Richmond last year, said State Examiner Hart.

There was standing-room only at the Armory when Rev. C. Campbell opened the conference with prayer and asked divine blessings on the teachers and superintendents. After music by Professor Leary's male chorus, Mr. Hart introduced Governor Swanson. He said there were two very good reasons why the Governor should preside over the meeting: first, because he was the Governor of Virginia; second, because he was Governor Swanson, of Virginia, who had been mainly instrumental in organizing the conference. The Governor was greeted with enthusiastic applause.

Governor's Happy Speech. Governor Swanson said he could not make a speech. He had talked himself out at the Jamestown Exposition, and he was like a Methodist preacher who had his work in the barrens. He had spoken so much that he consulted a Richmond physician to inquire if so much speaking had not injured him, and was told that mentally he was not injured, but his reputation had been damaged. It gave him great pleasure to see the teachers, especially the ladies. They seemed to get younger and sweeter than they were in Richmond, and then he had to tell a story showing that Virginia women never grow old. He said he was glad to bear his burden and do everything possible for the improvement of education in Virginia, and hoped that these conferences would be had every year, as a mile post showing the progress of Virginia schools. The Governor reviewed what had been done by the last General Assembly, and said he hoped the next would do more for Virginia than was done for any other State along the line of education. With the next appropriation he hoped the people had appropriated enough to increase the salaries of the teachers. If their salaries had not been increased, the next would be blamable. He believed in doing things and not promising and not doing. For twenty years Virginia made no progress and washed no clothes. The last General Assembly had done more for education than any other Assembly would line up with him now would be done than ever before. He hoped to see the system of education equal to that of any State. He closed with a commitment to Roanoke people, its Mayor and schools.

The Governor Welcomes. Mayor Joel H. Cutbirth welcomed the visitors, and expressed the hope that their stay in Roanoke would be so pleasant that they would want to come again. The Mayor spoke strongly in favor of compulsory education, and cited the case of one citizen who had been in a lunatic asylum about what he had done for the schools.

A solo by Mrs. John Trout, with violin accompaniment by Miss Hannah Cook and piano by Miss Beulah Schulz, followed. Governor Swanson then introduced Superintendent of Public Instruction J. D. Eggleston as the "great young man who had done more than any one to improve the schools." Mr. Eggleston spoke very entertainingly of the state of the Virginia school system. He criticized severely the county or city that held back school money and did not spend it on the schools, and said he would favor a larger appropriation, but there must be conditions connected with it that would force the authorities to make the improvements. The old country school had played out, and well-equipped school teachers, with adequate salaries, were wanted. Our responsibilities were greater, he declared, and not less. He eulogized the teacher, stating that there was no civic improvement, nothing that was done for the improvement, beautifying, purifying the city, town or country in which the teacher was not found deeply interested in the work. They deserved to be ranked with the ministers of the gospel, who spent their time in the interest of humanity. Mr. Eggleston closed the meeting with a brief address on the importance of the public school work of the State.

Their Important Work. Dr. Mitchell, of Richmond College, closed the meeting with a brief address on the importance of the public school work of the State. The superintendents and teachers will get down to work to-morrow, holding two sessions during the day, which will be followed by a reception at the armory at night.

Arrested for Housebreaking. SPOTSYLVANIA, Va., November 26.—Henry Everett, a bright, mulatto and an ex-convict, hailing from Washington, N. C., has been arrested by Deputy Sheriff Richard M. Waller and put in jail at Spotsylvania, charged with having broken into a storehouse of Thomas L. Bullock at Summit, Va., a few days since, and taken therefrom some $40 or $50 worth of goods. Everett undertook to sell the goods to merchants in Fredericksburg, and was detected and arrested.

CASE AFTER CASE.

Plenty More Like This in Richmond. Scores of Richmond people can tell you about Doan's Kidney Pills. Many a happy citizen makes a public statement of his experience. Here is a case of it. What better proof of merit can be had than such endorsement?

Mrs. A. M. Tomlinson, 513 1/2 North Sixth Street, Richmond, Va., says: "I have used Doan's Kidney Pills with most satisfactory results. My kidneys had been troubling me for some time, and I had severe pains through my joints and kidney regions, accompanied by a dull, bearing down aching and a feeling of all-gone weakness across the small of my back. I doctored a great deal, but nothing seemed to reach the seat of the trouble. My attention was finally called to Doan's Kidney Pills, and I procured a box at Owens & Minor Drug Co. I took them according to directions, and they entirely cured me of the complaint. I give Doan's Kidney Pills my endorsement without any hesitancy. I know of others who have used them with the same satisfactory results."

RABBI TALKS ABOUT RELIGION IN SCHOOL

Rev. Dr. Klein Deplores Anything Calculated to Emphasize Differences in Pupils.

WELL-KNOWN PEOPLE DEAD

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] PETERSBURG, Va., November 26.—Rev. Dr. David Klein, rabbi of the Rod of Sharon Synagogue, in this city, expressed himself vigorously to-day on the subject of an editorial which recently appeared in a Richmond newspaper, discussing the action of the New York city school board in forbidding the singing of Christmas carols in the public schools and criticizing the Russian Jews. After speaking of the duty of the public press to cultivate citizenship and not to emphasize national lines, and saying that the statement that opposition to sectarianism in the public schools emanated exclusively from the Russian Jews was absolutely erroneous, Dr. Klein went on to say, "The public school has been called into being for the sole purpose of educating the youth of the land, and to raise them to good citizenship. It is the business of the public school to inculcate into young hearts and minds the spirit of patriotism, love and loyalty to country, and by reason of secular training, prepare them for the duties of life. Anything that will emphasize the difference in those attending the public schools is directly opposed to and frustrates the purpose for which the public school exists. For this reason sectarianism is out of place in the public schools."

Dr. Klein then expressed at length his own reason for believing in the strict avoidance of distinctions as to religion in public schools.
