

WORK OF TEACHERS ALONG MANY LINES

Various Phases of Educational Work Discussed at the Roanoke Conference.

HIGH SCHOOL AND COLLEGE

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] ROANOKE, VA., November 28.—The school forces started out this morning to get to work in earnest, but the church bells began calling for Thanksgiving service and work was dropped until the afternoon. The register at the High School building to-day showed 1,400 teachers, superintendents, trustees, etc., in the city. The principal meetings of the day were in the primary and High School conferences.

At the High School conference President Sidenstricker made his report, in which he reviewed the previous meetings of the conference, and declared that the time had arrived when something definite and lasting should be done. First, the adapting of the High School course to the community and to the other parts of the educational system; second, the adapting of the higher institutions to the conditions under which the secondary schools must exist; and third, the cooperation of teachers in both classes of the institutions in the endeavor to perfect the educational system of the State.

Dr. McBryde announced that he had drafted a plan looking to the organization of high and preparatory schools, which would be printed and submitted to the conference.

Dr. Boatwright's Address. Dr. F. W. Boatwright of Richmond College, discussed the relation of the High School to the college. Dr. Boatwright said first of all the relation should be friendly. There should be no break, as in some European countries, that would tend to keep some boys and girls out of college. Virginia wants no oligarchy of the high school and the college should come into contact, their work should not overlap. Any college, especially any State-supported college, that does high school work, delays the progress of high school development. It is highly important that boys of secondary school age and preparation shall be kept at home, and that an adequate high school shall be given them in their home county. If some colleges constantly drain the counties of the ambitious few, accepting them without reasonable preparation, then the proper development of the local high school is indefinitely postponed. Let the sons of a few leading families be refused admission in any reputable college because they are unprepared, and that community will soon establish a respectable high school.

The State Board of Education should also take up the question of the standardization of Virginia's colleges. The day is past when a second-grade academy should be allowed to masquerade as a college and deceive inexperienced youth.

Fixed by Entrance Requirement. Dr. Boatwright said that, after all the relation of high school and college was fixed by the entrance requirements of the college. He discussed the methods adopted in various sections of the country, and the necessity of raising the entrance requirements of the Southern Association of Colleges and Preparatory Schools seemed to offer a present basis of agreement in Virginia. The minimum requirements are equivalent to graduation in a Virginia high school and the second class in no Virginia college should require less.

In closing, Dr. Boatwright told the high school teachers present that the colleges would constantly raise their admission requirements, and that the schools should correspondingly improve their work. He said he favored accepting certificates of high school graduation as admitting to college without condition, and urged the teachers to see to it that no college in Virginia should ever have cause to reject a high school diploma as insufficient or unworthy.

Dr. Layne, of the University of Virginia, reported on the course of study, and favored the unit system, with sixteen units of work for the first grades of the high school.

Primary Work. At the meeting of the primary association, presided over by Miss Francis Williams, of Lynchburg, Mrs. H. H. Richardson, of Richmond, spoke on the first steps of reading. Mrs. Richardson said she had been young, how she was old, but her opinion was that each teacher had his or her method which was the best. She only in part favored the word system. Miss Elizabeth Thaxton, of Lynchburg, fully explained the word system.

At the conference of principals, R. H. Sheppe, of Big Stone Gap, spoke on "The Efficient Supervision of the Schools," and asked that The Times-Dispatch be requested to publish the paper. Principal Hutton, of Roanoke, spoke on "The Duties of the Principal."

THE MARY LUDLOW HOME FOR AGED AND INFIRM WOMEN

Further Details of the Provision Made Under the Will of Baroness Zollikofer for Such an Institution in Norfolk.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

NORFOLK, VA., November 28.—The will of Baroness Mary E. von Zollikofer, who died in Milan October 31st, and who was buried in Rome last week, which was admitted to probate here yesterday, leaves between $100,000 and $150,000 for the establishment in Norfolk of a home for such old and infirm ladies, residents of the State of Virginia as may be selected by trustees, who are to be named in the charter under the name of "The Mary Ludlow Home."

The testatrix desiring that the funds left should be used to erect and maintain the proposed home may not be established in the broad manner that it will eventually be for ten years, though the work will be begun at once, and the home may be first located at No. 50 Dunmore Street, which was owned by Baroness Zollikofer.

Former Mayor's Daughter. Baroness Zollikofer, formerly, Miss Mary E. Ludlow, sister of John Ludlow, once Mayor of Norfolk, first married Dr. Henry Selden, of Norfolk. Later she married Baron William Henry Zollikofer, of Baltimore, and lived in Rome, Italy, twenty-five years before her death in Milan.

The trustees named to manage the home are Judge T. S. Garnett, T. S. Garnett, Jr., Tazewell Taylor, Dr. Charles H. Grant, George W. Taylor, and the latter's son, Walter H. Taylor, Jr. In the event any should decline to serve the others are to select suitable trustees, the board of trustees, however, at no time to be composed of less than six.

The will is specific that only old ladies who are residents of Virginia shall be admitted.

Tokens for Friends. The will of Baroness Zollikofer, which was made in Rome some time ago, is in her own handwriting and very lengthy. She remembers all her friends with some tokens of personal property, most of which is yet in her home in Italy, and must be brought to America later on. There are probably fifty of these bequests. Only some $2,500 in money is included in these personal bequests, all the rest of her estate being designed for use in the establishment of "The Mary Ludlow Home."

Judge T. S. Garnett, a cousin of the baroness, is named executor, without bond. Judge Garnett has qualified upon the estate. The appraisers are Colonel Walter H. Taylor, William W. Chamberlain and B. L. Loyall.

Judge Garnett says that the board of trustees named in the will for the establishment of the home will, as soon as possible, apply for a charter and proceed with the work.

The trustees named will fill vacancies on the board as they may occur from time to time.

Baroness Zollikofer's husband, who died several years ago, was the son of Messrs. D. C. and C. E. Zollikofer and of Mrs. Willia J. Payne, of Richmond.

ARREST OF STRANGER ON SERIOUS CHARGE

Carl Richardson Charged With Obtaining Money Under False Pretenses.

HUNT CLUB HAS FINE DAY

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] PETERSBURG, VA., November 28.—Chief of Police Ragland has under arrest here, on a charge of swindling a young white man about eighteen or twenty years old, giving his name as Carl Richardson, of Washington, D. C., who has been representing himself as an agent of the Saturday Evening Post and soliciting advertisements for what he said, would be an early edition of the Post, containing a special article on the city of Petersburg. Richardson was a list of local merchants which he claimed to have secured at the Chamber of Commerce. He will have a hearing in the Mayor's Court tomorrow.

The police corps presented a fine appearance at the inspection at half-past twelve of this afternoon by the Board of Police Commissioners. The officers and patrolmen appeared in their new overcoats. The corps will have regular target practice at the Petersburg Gun Club next Monday.

More than 400 people left here this morning to spend their Thanksgiving Day holiday at the Jamestown Exposition, and another large crowd went to Richmond to attend the North Carolina-V. P. I. football game.

ATTACK MAILCARRIER

Two Attempts at Robbery Made Within Two Weeks' Time. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] SPOTSVYLVANIA, VA., November 28.—Mr. John S. Faulconer, the mail-carrier on the route from Brokenbury by Sunlight to Spotsylvania, some four miles, was attacked by two sturdy men while crossing the bridge over Massey's Creek on Tuesday night last, and it was not until he drew his revolver and threatened to shoot that the robbers fled.

This is the second attack made on the mail-carrier at this point within two weeks.

The change of schedule time by the department on this route recently, now compels the carrying of the mail late in the night, which has incited these efforts at mail robbery. The attention of the department at Washington has been called to this wrong schedule time, but no change has been ordered yet.

FALLS FROM FREIGHT CAR.

Youth Supposed to be Tramping Is Seriously Injured. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] FREDERICKSBURG, VA., November 28.—Walter Breese, of Gladstone, Mich., aged nineteen years, supposed to be tramping the country, fell from the top of a freight car attached to a freight train on the Richmond, Fredericksburg and Potomac Railroad, near Summit, yesterday, and the wheels of the car cut off one of his legs between the foot and knee and mangled the other foot. He was taken up by a passenger train and was brought to the hospital here in an unconscious state, where he is now being treated.

VERDICT NOT SATISFACTORY.

Neither Side Pleasied with Finding of Jurors. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NORFOLK, VA., November 28.—Argument for new trial in the case of the Consolidated Tanning Company against the city of Norfolk will be heard by Judge McLeome, of the City Circuit Court, at the next session.

The jury, which was impaneled last night, the Turnpike Company was awarded a verdict of $2,500. The plaintiff sued for $7,000, claiming that the Turnpike had been damaged to this extent by the city laying in new water mains. This verdict proved unsatisfactory to both sides, and a mutual motion for new trial was made.

RAN WITH THE TURKEY, BUT WAS PULLED DOWN.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.] NORFOLK, VA., November 28.—Determined not to be lonesome on Thanksgiving Day, Thomas Staples, a negro, attempted to elope with a turkey this morning, and was only caught after a brilliant tactic by Patrolman Hodges, who took the man into custody just before he succeeded in making a touchdown.

The fowl was annexed from W. C. Pender's grocery store, Church Street, and Staples will have an opportunity
