WASHINGTON, December 27.—To familiarize themselves with conditions under the present form of government of the Panama Canal zone, and to consider what changes, if any, are desirable, twelve members of the House Committee on Foreign and Interstate Commerce will leave Charleston, S. C., to-morrow for Colon.

It is not thought that any measure having for its object a change in the form of civil government for the zone will receive the consideration of Congress at the present session, but as all but two of the members of the committee will be members of the House in the Sixty-first Congress, the committee will find the information secured now of value later.

There has been some discussion of the advisability of attaching the zone to one of the Southern circuits of Federal courts.

The committee has not had under consideration any suggestion to include the courts on the zone in one of the Federal circuits, nor has there been any suggestion made to it that labor conditions in the zone should be dealt with before it, however, a bill introduced by Representative Mann, of Illinois, calling for certain changes in the form of government and the abolition of the Isthmian Canal Commission.

SHOWS IN FULL BLAST

Moving-Picture Entertainments Score Complete Victory in New York.

NEW YORK, December 27.—Protected from interference by a Supreme Court injunction, practically all of New York's great number of moving-picture exhibition places were today in full operation, despite the revocation of their licenses by Mayor McClellan on Christmas Eve.

There was no sign of any attempt on the part of the police to interfere, but their proprietors generally eliminated views which the authorities could in any way consider objectionable.

In nearly all of them, too, lectures were delivered with a view to bringing the performances within the letter of the law. The Sunday law, as laid down by the corporation counsel's opinion, rendered yesterday, which placed lectures of "an educational character, illustrated by moving pictures," on the permitted list.

Police Commissioner Brigham's action in warning the proprietors of the little houses that they must live strictly up to the Sunday observance law had the effect of greatly modifying the character of the bills in all the houses which open their doors for "Sunday concerts."

The real fight for the closing of the city's moving-picture places is scheduled to begin in the Supreme Court to-morrow. Injunctions granted on Saturday by Superior Justice Gaynor prohibited the police from interfering with the exhibitions last night and to-day, and required Mayor McClellan to issue an order Monday why his order should not be rescinded.

The show managers and others financially interested have formed an organization, and it is stated, raised a large fund with which to resist the move against them. Organizations of lawyers and other interested parties have also been formed.

There was one arrest to-day of a moving-picture show proprietor, Morris Taper, charged with exhibiting an objectionable picture at his place on the Bowery.

RESCUE STATIONS

Geological Survey Carrying Out Its Efforts to Reduce Mine Disasters.

WASHINGTON, D. C., December 27.—Carrying out its efforts to reduce the number of fatalities in the coal mines, the United States Geological Survey is about to establish rescue stations in the principal coal fields of the country. The stations will be located at Pittsburgh, the greatest center of accidents, and will be the outposts of the experts to teach the miners and mine bosses how to use the most approved apparatus for mine rescue work.

The stations will be equipped with oxygen helmets, which will enable them to enter a mine at once, even though it is filled with carbon dioxide.

These stations also will be headquarters for the study of the waste of coal in mining.

Every station will be fitted up with an air-tight room, where gas can be generated. The coal mining companies are to be invited to send pictures to those stations to be trained in the use of the oxygen helmets.

All of the rescue stations are to be equipped with the most modern mine owners and State geological surveys.

One of the rescue stations will be at Urbana, Ill. A second station will be located probably at Raton, N. M. Another station is suggested for the district to be located at Salt Lake City, Utah.

The coal fields of Oklahoma, Arkansas and West Virginia have been taken care of by a station in the neighborhood of South McAlester, Okla.

Several locations are suggested for the station, which will cover Alabama, Tennessee, Virginia, Eastern Kentucky, Georgia and Southern West Virginia.

One plan is to locate a station at Knoxville, Tenn., in connection with the University of Tennessee, which has a mining course. Birmingham, Ala., and Lexington, Ky., have also been suggested for location of the station in this district.

FORGET ROMANCE IN NURSE'S WORK

Miss Katherine Elkins Will Begin Course of Study in Hospital.

PROFESSIONAL WOMAN IS TO BE HER MENTOR

While the Duke of the Abruzzi Is Climbing the Himalayas, She Will Be Attending the Sick—Great Surprise to Friends in Society.

WASHINGTON, December 27.—The end of the romance of beautiful Katherine Elkins and the Duke of the Abruzzi is to be like the final chapter of an old-fashioned novel, in which the heroine flees with her memories to convent walls and the hero betakes himself and his wounded heart to the wildernesses of the world to seek forgetfulness.

The authoritative announcement in the early part of this month that there would be no marriage between Miss Elkins and the Italian prince and cousin of a King was hardly cold when the cable brought from Rome the report that the duke was planning to be off to the unexplored mountain fastnesses of India.

Such a suggestion of a change of time and course necessary to fit herself to be a trained nurse.

Plans to Begin Her Studies.

Arrangements have been made by Miss Elkins to begin the serious work of study in the Homoeopathic Hospital at Second and D Streets, in this city, on Monday week. She has employed a passed professional nurse to be her mentor and guide in the early steps of the course which she is to take.

This nurse, a woman of high professional attainments and experience, will have to spend a considerable time in the hospital, and will be practically become one of Senator Elkins' family.

The course which Miss Elkins will have to follow, under the rules of hospital training, will include attendance at all lectures, clinics and operations. She will have to spend a certain number of hours each day in various wards observing the treatment of patients and fitting herself to take temperatures, dress wounds, apply bandages, and do all and several the offices which a nurse must perform for the sick.

It is said that Miss Elkins' education will cover only six months, this period having been fixed by her as a time in which she could decide whether she would continue her studies. She will not be at the hospital as other nurses in training are compelled to do, but she will have to put up with her quarters there and frequently nights if she hopes to keep up with the course.

Friends Puzzled by Miss Elkins.

Miss Elkins' friends have been puzzled by her of late, and several of them have divined that she was preparing for a serious course. It was only her social circle has ever dreamed that the beautiful girl would do anything quite as serious as studying for the profession of nursing. Her friends will be surprised.

Those who know Miss Elkins well are sure she has it in her to make up for the time she has spent in the hospital, but they do not believe that she will go to the extent of following her present bent longer than the six months.

There are romantic girls in her set who will think that she has hit upon one of the latest fashions in the profession, but they do not believe that she will go to the extent of following her present bent longer than the six months.

According to the most reliable information there has been no communication between Miss Elkins and the duke since December 24, when he sent her a cablegram of 200 words, presumably his farewell message. It was only five days afterward that the news was received that the duke had planned to go on another exploring expedition, and that he had intended to make the arduous task of climbing the great Himalayan peak—Mount Everest.

FOUR DROWNED

Fishing Tug Smashes Against Pier and Goes to Pieces.

DETROIT, Mich., December 27.—Detroit news special from Frankfort, Ky., says: The fifteen-ton fish tug Ribbe, of Frankfort, was wrecked in the harbor here last night, and the vessel was broken in two, and the four men comprising her crew were drowned.

The dead: Captain Henry Hamrath, Julius Dorry, Charles Kibby, Gus Straubel.

The loss of the tug was not known until to-day, when the cabin of the boat was found on the beach. The tug had been broken up and the boat of 7. From this it is inferred that the wreck occurred early last evening, the victims going to their death almost within a stone's throw of home.

John H. Washburn, the only unharmed man of the crew, the others all leaving widows and children.

COUNTERFEITING TOOLS

Complete Paraphernalia Found in Carpenter's Shack—He Is Arrested.

GREENVILLE, Pa., December 27.—John E. Washburn, of the United States Secret Service, and Chief of Police J. K. Penman, it is alleged, found a complete counterfeiting outfit, including moulds, metal and dies, hidden in an isolated shack of Matthew E. Hailston, a carpenter, ten miles east of here, to-day.

Hailston was arrested Wednesday night by local police on a charge of making counterfeit dollars.
