

WINNING JOCKEYS OF OLD ENGLAND

Nineteen Different Riders Have Held Leading Honors in Forty-Nine Years.

In looking over the records of the leading jockeys on the English turf for the last forty-nine years some interesting and remarkable figures have been disclosed.

In 1860 G. Fordham, known as "The Lion" because he captured the leading honors with 144 wins and repeated this success in 1861, 1862, 1863, 1865, 1867, 1868, 1869 and 1871.

The remarkable career of this famous jockey has never been surpassed nor even equaled in any country, nor is there any likelihood that the future will produce his equal, much less his superior.

Another jockey who achieved considerable fame at his chosen profession was M. Cannon, who was at the head of the jockey list for six different seasons.

In 1900 the American jockey, L. Reiff, won the title with 145 wins and his brother, J. Reiff, finished third, with 124.

Among the present-day jockeys O. Madden has won the leading honor four times. W. Higgs has had the honor on two different occasions, and Harry Matheson, after a long and successful career, has made an enviable record during his nine years on the English turf.

The following table shows the three leading jockeys, with the number of winners they rode each year from 1860 to 1908, inclusive:

AMUSEMENTS.

Academy—Durno, the Magician. Bijou—Cecil Spooner, in "The Girl from Texas."

Lubla—Continous Vandeville. Durno Company To-Night.

All those desiring to spend an enjoyable evening are advised to attend the entertainment to be given by Durno, the mysterious, at the Academy of Music to-night.

Nothing but wonder and amusement prevails when Durno performs his optical illusion, "Guess." It cannot be explained, but must be seen to be appreciated. He makes the impossible seem possible, the unnatural, natural.

Miss Cecil Spooner will begin her week's engagement at the Bijou with her comedy to-night, "The Girl from Texas," a combination melodrama, pastoral and musical comedy.

George Hazelton, author of "The Raven," "The Raven," in which the distinguished actor, Henry Ludlowe, will be seen here.

In their latest effort, "Who's Your Friend?" they have struck a chord of comedy in the hearts of the public.

FIGHT NETTED AN ENORMOUS AMOUNT

Receipts of Burns-Johnson Encounter Amounted to Over $150,000.

SYDNEY, N. S. W., December 27.—Almost the sole topic of conversation here now is the Johnson-Burns fight and the probability of getting James J. Jeffries to emerge from retirement and fight the Californian once held.

That McIntosh can afford to offer an enormous purse for another championship "go" is shown by the fact that he will offer a purse of $50,000 in an endeavor to entice Jeffries to meet Johnson.

LOS ANGELES, December 27.—There will be no fight between Jack Johnson and myself, said former heavyweight champion James J. Jeffries to a representative of the Associated Press.

NEEDS JUDGMENT OF KING SOLOMON

Members of Ways and Means Committee of House Are Up Against It.

ANDREW AGAINST CHARLIE Carnegie Has No Figures, but Schwab Has All That You Want.

WASHINGTON, December 27.—Wouldn't you like to be one of the members of the Ways and Means Committee and have to make the proposal which they are considering now with reference, say, to the steel schedule? You see, it's just like this:

Here comes Andrew Carnegie, who in the popular mind is the great authority on steel manufacturing in this country, and who says that in his opinion—his opinion, mind you, of steel—production might advantageously be reduced.

Now the attention of the public is attracted to this subject through various and sundry causes. It is probably no exaggeration to say that the belief is widespread among the people at large that the steel industry has fattened upon the tariff, and that this source of artificial nourishment should be cut off, or at least greatly curtailed.

Which of these two steel men's testimony is likely to have more weight with the public, Mr. Carnegie's or Mr. Schwab's? It is not difficult to guess perhaps a safe opinion would be that the steel schedule, from the man who has been the personification of the steel industry, and who is credited with the possession of fabulous wealth, is more likely to be believed than the testimony of a man who is comparatively unknown.

The plights in which the members of the Ways and Means Committee find themselves is this: to choose, between the two, the one to be believed, and to act upon their judgment based upon actual testimony, facts and figures. On the one hand is a great American industry, in which scores of thousands of working-men are engaged, whose interests must be conserved, and on the other a popular movement directed, it is alleged, against the interests of those working-men.

Right there is the kernel of the controversy. Are the facts such as to require the reduction of wages if the tariff is reduced? Could not the margin of difference come off the profits of the steel-makers rather than the earnings of the workmen, still leaving a reasonable profit to the manufacturer?

But they are going at the subject bravely. The public members of the committee are at work among themselves, apart from their Democratic colleagues, on the schedules, beginning with "Schedule A, Chemicals."

The hearings form a wonderful commentary upon the vastness and variety of the commercial and industrial interests of the country. They set forth the conflict of interests, not alone between industries, but between sections; between consumers and producers.

There is the shoemaker who wants cheaper hides, as against the vintner who wants to protect his hides; the clothmaker who wants Australian wool, as against the farmer of every State who has a bunch of sheep, and so down through an infinite variety of subjects.

It is expected that the House Ways and Means Committee will have a bill ready to report to the special session on the day it assembles, and that to time will be lost by committee hours. It is expected that the bill has been drafted it can be taken up by the Senate Committee on Finance, and that committee can be ready to pass the bill as soon as the tariff revision can be finished inside of four months.
