

The New York lemon consumers, insisting that the rate of 1-1/2 cents per pound as fixed by the Finance Committee was too high. Mr. Flint, speaking for the growers, supported the advance, saying that the lemon industry of his State would be wiped out if this duty was not granted.

TAFT, AS PITCHER, LACKED CONTROL

(Continued from Page One, Column 5) And it was a great game, and Mr. Taft enjoyed it immensely. All through the game there were calls for cheers for the President, and they were given in great sweeping waves of sound, which echoed back from the high hills overlooking the park.

Tribute to Roosevelt. Returning to the Laighlin residence, Mr. Taft's automobile passed through the business section of the city, where he was ignored a great crowd. Crowds lined both sides of the street so thickly that several times the President's car was stopped and the secret service men had quite a time in helping back the crowd. In spite of the vigilance of the officers, several persons got near enough to Mr. Taft to attempt to shake hands with him.

The banquet of the Yale Clubs held in the Fort Pitt Hotel to-night was attended by about 700 guests. Mr. Taft made a few extemporaneous remarks regarding the university. His work as a member of the Yale Corporation, he said, was one of his pleasantest duties. He paid high tribute to Mr. Roosevelt for his efforts to induce college graduates to enter public and political life. Mr. Roosevelt's work has had a strong influence in purifying and elevating American politics, he declared.

Mr. Taft said that he had never undertaken any great work in his life, that he had not found a Yale man behind him to help him.

The President left the banquet shortly before midnight and was driven to the Laighlin residence where he was the guest of his brother-in-law.

GET BLUEMONT BRANCH

McLean and Elkins May Build Station in Washington. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) LEBESBURG, VA., May 29.—It was learned to-day from unquestionable sources that John H. McLean and Senator Stephen B. Elkins, of West Virginia, have purchased the Bluemont branch of the Southern Railway which extends from Washington to Bluemont, Va. It is said that the plan of McLean and Elkins is to convert the road into an electric system and make it a part of the line which runs from Washington to Falls Church, Va., and extends from Washington to Ricketts, Md. The very valuable falls of the Potomac River and the power plant are controlled by Elkins and McLean, and the power for the system will no doubt be generated from that point.

The Bluemont-Washington branch is fifty miles in length and passes through the most beautiful part of Northern Virginia. Many persons who do business in Washington live on this road, and there has been great complaint that there are by the steam road but few express trains. The new line, however, explaining that the terminal charges of the new Union Station in Washington were responsible for the increased cost of travel, the station company charging the railroad $4 per car per engine for each entry into the station. It is said that McLean and Elkins propose building their own Washington station so as to escape the excessive terminal tolls.

GEORGIA STRIKE SUDDENLY ENDS

(Continued from Page One, Column 4) Georgia Railroad passes are delighted with the settlement and believe the strikers have won all the disputed points. They add, however, in many towns that whether or not the strikers agree to have negroes in the cabs the citizens themselves will not consent to such an arrangement on any but small trains passing through their territory.

Elkins Denies It

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) WASHINGTON, May 29.—When asked this evening concerning the report that he and John R. McLean had acquired the Bluemont branch of the Potomac Railroad, Senator Elkins declared emphatically that there was not a word of truth in the story. "Whether or not they have acquired the property, it is known that about two weeks ago New York people went over the road with a view to estimating the cost of running it by electricity. They are believed to have been working in the interests of McLean and Elkins."

MRS. TARBOCK ARRESTED

Alleged Murderess Held for Virginia Authorities. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) BUFFALO, N. Y., May 29.—Mrs. Mary Tarbock, alias Mary Booth, is under arrest at Springfield, this county, on a charge of murder. Constable Keith made the arrest on description and information he received from the police authorities in Richmond. She will be held until proper officers from the South arrive here.

Mrs. Tarbock was accused of the murder of her husband, at Church Road, Va. His body was found in the bushes near his home, after she had drawn all his money from the bank and had $200, no one knew where.

Mrs. Tarbock was arrested on the authority of a letter from the sheriff of Dinwiddie county, Springfield is her childhood home, and the Virginia authorities suspected that she would come here. Accordingly, Constable Keith went to a house where the woman was visiting and arrested her. She says that she is innocent of murder or any other crime, is merely here on a visit to her old home, and does not know of her husband's death.

SOCIAL SIDE OF LONDON. Dinners, Dances and Receptions Much Simpler This Year But Lavish Displays of Flowers Are Seen Everywhere. (Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.) LONDON, May 29.—Although dinners, dances and receptions are simpler than ever this year among London's smart set, an English hostess allows herself one extravagance, namely, flowers. Never have drawing-rooms and dining-rooms been more lavishly decorated with rare plants than this season. Roses and orchids are the favorites. One hostess who entertains royally frequently has already a florist's bill of £200, and the season commenced but a few weeks ago.

IN MEMORIAM. BRITTON.—In sad but loving memory of my beloved son, CHARLES H. BRITTON, who died three years ago, May 31, 1906. Just three years ago My beloved son passed away. He is gone, it is true, Which makes my home dark and blue. You are gone, but not forgotten; Fresh my love, will ever be, For long as there is life and memory I will always think of thee. When you ask me, "Do I miss him?" Yes, it fills my heart with pain, But his spirit gently whispers, "Have courage, mother; we'll meet again." MOTHER.

MARRIAGES. MORFON-GODWYN.—Married, in Philadelphia, Saturday, May 29, MISS ALICE H. MORFON, of Richmond, Va., and MR. ELMER GODWYN, of Indianapolis, Ind. No cards. DEATHS. CARTER.—CLARA VASS CARTER, was born in Nottingham county, Va., March 18, 1879, and died at the home of her brother-in-law, Mr. Thomas Whitehead, Amherst Courthouse, Va., May 14, 1909, and was buried at the old homestead in Nottingham. For twenty-two years she suffered intensely from rheumatism but was always patient, hopeful and cheerful, brightened the lives of the loved ones at home and endeared herself to a large circle of relatives and friends; and when all was over, she left a life less burdened with pain, would be here, consumption seized her for its prey, and so has fallen on us the shadows all have known who have been called upon to part with their beloved, yet we are comforted by the thought that— Another saint has gone to rest; Through Christ her sins are all forgiven, And she is ever, ever blest.
