NO WEDDING BELLS FOR CAMDEN WOODER

Printed False Notice of Wife's Death in Order to Get New Bride

MARCHED TO JAIL, INSTEAD OF ALTAR

Sympathetic Friends Went to Pay Last Sad Tribute to "Dead" Woman and Collapsed When She Opened Door and Invited Them In.

PHILADELPHIA, June 19.—Wedding bells did not ring to-day for Charles Bradley, forty, and with fascinating manners, while the funeral of a wife in good health, that he had advertised to take place, was not only not held, but congratulations to Mrs. Bradley that she was still in the flesh and apparently good for many years were offered in lieu of obituary remarks.

Instead of preparing to step to the bridal march, Bradley stepped to the Camden jail, and last night ate the succulent jail hash while he marveled that the State authorities should mind a little thing like an attempt to get married to bride No. 2 while wife No. 1 was living, moving and having a being.

Bradley became a boarder at 254 Chestnut Street, Camden, and recently met Miss Nellie Simmons, whose attractive ways won his heart so completely that he proposed marriage a week or so after meeting her. Miss Simmons objected first to the disparity in their ages, but very much more to the fact that her suitor had two sons, John and Henry, fifteen and eleven years old, respectively, and as the law had the practice of talking about their mother, love-making was conducted under difficulties.

Showed Death Notice. With all of the fervor of a college youth Bradley is said to have protested that his wife was dead, but Miss Simmons, not in haste to wed, demanded proof. The following day Bradley walked into the house and triumphantly exhibited the following death notice in a Philadelphia newspaper.

BRADLEY.—At Pennypack, on June 15, 1909, MARY BRADLEY (nee Wilson), aged forty years. Relatives and friends are invited to attend the funeral on Sunday, June 20, at 10 A. M., from her mother's residence, 814 E. Erieck Street. Interment at North Cedar Hill Cemetery.

That women carefully peruse the obituary department of a newspaper was made painfully evident on the day of the insertion of Mrs. Bradley's death notice. A few minutes after the shock of this news, two sympathetic neighbors were on the way to the home of Mrs. Wilson, mother of Mrs. John Bradley, 814 E. Erieck Street, Holmesburg. To their amazement Mrs. Bradley answered the ring at the door, and the callers nearly fainted at the spectacle.

"Ain't you dead?" finally asked one of the women. The only reply to this gruesome query was a blank stare. "We read the notice of your death in the paper," suggested one of the callers.

No Wedding Bells for Him.

They exhibited the paper in proof, but Mrs. Bradley was obstinate and declined to accede to the plans for her funeral; then took the first trolley car for the Camden ferry. Justice Thompson's office was sought, and the wife, who said that Bradley deserted her eight years ago, obtained a warrant on the charge of supplying false information to the newspapers. Mrs. Wilson, her mother, also swearing to the complaint.

While Bradley was leaving his place of employment last night he was arrested by Constable Gardner. He told his landlady in the morning that his marriage was to take place to-day. But more sorrow awaits him, for when the New Jersey authorities are through with him he will have to face a charge of desertion.

BEAR ATTACKS BRIDEGROOM

G. Robert Warburton Has Narrow Escape in Maine Woods.

KATAHDIN IRON WORKS, ME., June 19.—G. Robert Warburton, of New York, who was on his honeymoon in the woods, narrowly escaped death in an encounter with a wounded black bear. Warburton's camp at York Pond, recently. Mr. Warburton found a big bear which had partly freed himself from a steel trap by gnawing off all but a shred of rope. Going to within ten yards of the beast, the hunter fired a shot from his rifle. Instantly the bear, the brute with a powerful wrench liberated his foot and made for the hunter.

Mr. Warburton did not have time to put another cartridge into his rifle, and in desperation raised the gun and a club to ward off the attack. With a roar the bear leaped at the man, who stood the bear stumbled and fell dead, blood streaming from his mouth and nostrils. The shot had pierced the animal's throat.

NEITHER BRIDE NOR MONEY

Aged Husband Freed From Wife He Wed as Accommodation.

NEW HAVEN, CONN., June 18.—Charles J. Warner, aged seventy-seven, was granted a divorce yesterday from his wife, formerly Sadie Bishop, twenty-four years old. They had been married four years. Warner stated that he had been called to the home of Miss Bishop one day and had been informed that some relative in the West had made a bequest of a large sum to the girl, payable a year after her marriage.

Warner said that it was then suggested that if he married her he should have half. The marriage took place soon after in New York, but as soon as the ceremony was performed she left him, stating that she wanted to do some shopping. He returned home without his wife and never lived with her, neither did he ever see any of the "bequest."

SAW DEATH AHEAD

Then Aged Husband and Wife Expired Very Close Together.

PITTSBURGH, Pa., June 18.—After predicting their deaths would be close together, Daniel Henry, of McKeesport, died yesterday, and two hours later his wife followed. Mr. Henry was seventy-four years old, and his wife eighty. Mr. Henry suffered a stroke of paralysis, and Mrs. Henry died of pneumonia. She could not talk, worried the aged husband, but Sunday afternoon he believed she heard him when he said: "Mother, I wish we both were in heaven."
