A VERY beautiful wedding was celebrated on Saturday in St. Andrew's Episcopal Church, Washington, when Miss Anne Louise Peyton, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Peyton, of that city, became the bride of Lieutenant Marshall Marquardt, Sixth Field Artillery, U. S. A. The ceremony was performed by Dr. George C. Carter, assisted by Dr. Ernest Smith, at half-after 7 o'clock. The church was decorated in palms, ferns and Southern shrubs, with Easter lilies on the altar and clusters of the same flowers marking the family pew. Miss Eva Peyton attended her sister as maid of honor, and wore a decollete gown of pale green crepe de chine trimmed with silver, and carried a nosegay of pink sweetpeas. The bridesmaids, Misses Ethel Shaffer and Sallie Harlowe, wore dainty frocks of pale green satin, also trimmed in silver, and carried white sweetpeas. The ushers were E. W. Albert, Harry A. Peyton, Walter Gilbert and William B. Curtis, and Lieutenant Bruce Marquardt, Eighteenth Infantry, U. S. A., was the groom's best man, and both wore in full-dress uniform. The bride, who entered with her father, wore an exquisite imported gown of white crepe meteor, made with a court train and the overskirt draped with orange blossoms. The bouquet was trimmed in rare old princess lace and silk fringe, and her bouquet was a shower of Bride roses and lilies of the valley. A reception to the bridal party followed the ceremony at the home of the bride's parents, and the bride followed the old custom of cutting the cake with the groom's sabre. After January 1 Lieutenant and Mrs. Marquardt will make their home at Fort Riley, Kan., where Lieutenant Marquardt is stationed. A number of guests from Maryland, Virginia and neighboring army posts were present at the ceremony. The marriage, which was a very brilliant event in army circles, is of considerable interest throughout Virginia and in Richmond, where the bride is prominently connected. Symposium at Woman's Club. Mrs. Lella Gilliam Moore will be chairman of Virginia Day at the Woman's Club, and on the evening of January 17 will hold a symposium of famous Virginians, at which time twenty-five names will be presented as worthy of a place in Virginia's Hall of Fame. A Christmas Centre. A centre of interest for society this week is the Richmond Woman's Exchange, where the spirit and the work of Christmas is made manifest in many attractive ways. Leading women of the city will assist in the reception that will be held throughout the week and attended by young and old married and single women. Hubard-Clark. Invitations have been received here for the marriage of Miss Pauline Shepherd Clark, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Burnet Laurie Clark, to the Rev. Lytleton Edmunds Hubard, the ceremony to take place on Wednesday evening, January 5, at half-after 8 o'clock, in St. John's Church, Roanoke. The couple will be at home at Clemson College, South Carolina, after January 15. Card Tournament. The December Card Tournament was held at the Woman's Club on Friday evening, December 17, and nine tables were engaged. Top score, North and South, was made by Mrs. East Spaulding and Arthur M. Cannon; East and West, by Mrs. Boykin and Mrs. Norman. The game was succeeded by a delightful collation. The January tournament will take place on Friday evening, January 28. Of Interest Here. Dr. and Mrs. Edward S. Joyner, of Columbia, S. C., quietly observed Wednesday the fiftieth anniversary of their marriage. They were married fifty years ago at Williamsburg, Va., where Dr. Joyner was then serving as professor of Greek and German in William and Mary College. Mrs. Joyner was Miss Eliza W. West, of Williamsburg. The happy occasion of yesterday was observed without ceremony and without cards of invitation, by the simple reunion of the children and the venerable pair and such of the grandchildren as were accessible. There were present the eldest daughter, Mrs. A. G. Pitt, of Nashville; Lieutenant W. W. Joyner, of the United States revenue cutter service, with his charming wife, formerly Miss Bell Scarborough, of Virginia; Mrs. Robert Macfarlan, of Darlington, with her husband and two children; and Mrs. James W. Ragsdale, of Florence, with her two little children. Many friends called informally to pay their respects, and others sent kindly tokens of regard from far and near. A "golden wedding" anniversary is indeed unusual, and is all the more remarkable in the case of a man like Dr. Joyner, who has ever been one of the most tireless workers. As Dr. Joyner, now professor emeritus at the university, has been and is so much a part of the life of the State, he will no doubt excuse the newspapers for taking a few liberties. Ferguson-Miles. Fairmont Methodist Church was the scene of a very pretty wedding last Wednesday evening at 9 o'clock, when Miss Mattie Norma Miles and H. Cleveford Ferguson were married. The church was decorated in palms and ferns. Miss Carrie Miles attended her sister as maid of honor, and wore a pink silk frock and carried a sheaf of pink carnations. The bride wore a gown of white crepe meteor, and carried a bouquet of white sweetpeas. A reception followed the ceremony in the home of the bride's parents, after which the couple left for a bridal trip. They will make their home at 8506 East Clay Street. Hood-Drewry. At Clarksburg Methodist Church, Southampton county, Va., Wednesday afternoon at 2 o'clock, Miss Mary Lena Drewry, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Blount Drewry, was married to John Ethridge Hood, of Branchville, Va. The church was decorated with evergreen palms and lighted candles. Dr. Rev. E. F. Garner officiated. The wedding music was rendered by Mrs. P. P. Pope, sister of the bride. While the guests were assembling Mrs. B. P. Woodard, another sister of the bride, sang "I Love You Deeply, and Only You." Leading the bridal procession were the ushers—Messrs. D. C. Ricks, A. M. Niglette, R. A. Bryant, and J. P. Darden, of Branchville, Va. The bridesmaids were: Misses Annie Burton Grigg, of Richmond; Lottie Sveks of Boykins; Margie Hines, of Boykins; Amy Carrie Parsons, of Norfolk. They were attired in white organdy with yellow sashes, and wore black picture hats. The groomsmen were: Messrs. G. T. Horne, of Boykins; W. S. Drewry, of Richmond; E. B. Prince, of Newsome, and H. M. Drewry, of Boykins. Miss Bessie Drewry, sister of the bride, was maid of honor, and wore dainty gown in white organdy over yellow. The bride wore a traveling suit of blue with hat and gloves to match. Her ornaments were a diamond brooch and locket and chain, gifts of the groom. The groom entered the church with

The Best Gift You Can Give By ELLA WHEELER WILCOX. How many of us stop to consider, these holidays, just what the season means to the salesmen and women in the department stores, and to the drivers and teamsters and express men and delivery men? An hour or two in one of the shopping establishments exhausts and wears the home worn and nervous from the strain. Then think what it must mean to those obliged to remain there eight or more hours of six days each week. In one of the lesser cities, not many hours from New York, a department store has made an attempt to make the double transit between the lunch hour of the employees. One hour is the time allowed for the noon day repast; and as the girls and women employed in this and other neighboring towns live at home, almost universally, it required promptness on their part to be able to make the double transit between the department store and the home and find time for an enjoyable meal. Just before the commencement of the busy season a new rule was passed by the managers. Instead of marking the time of the employees away from their wraps and hats, they returned to the counter or desk, the hour begins now when they commence to don their wraps and hats, and the time occupied in removing their outer garments on the return is counted. This takes fully a quarter of an hour from the hour allowed them. In order to get back to their labor and not be docked for loss of time, it has become necessary for them to bolt their food and hurry to and from their homes in a way which robs the noon repast of all its benefit. Nervousness and fatigue are the result of this new ordinance. But without doubt there will be an increase in the profits of the store to the profit of the noon meal. It is to be expected that every employee in such establishments must work harder than usual at this time of year; but there is a great lack of humanitarian Christianity in the merchant who robs his help of one fraction of the hour which belongs to them for the noon meal. Some other way, less profitable to him perhaps in immediate returns, but giving large returns eventually, could be devised to help conduct the business through this time of pressure. In the Shopper's Power. Meantime the public can do much to lessen the discomforts of employees during the next few weeks, if men and women (particularly women) will stop to consider the matter in its true light. At the cost of a little personal effort more than half the shoppers could arrange to make their purchases in the early morning. This would save their own vitality and strength and that of the people who are paid to attend customers. Confusion, discomfort and disorder will be avoided by the carrying home of such parcels as are portable, instead of an exaggeration to say that many women insist upon having an object no larger than a paper of pins delivered, when it would be more profitable to purchase in a pocket or a purse. It is simply a selfish habit growing out of thoughtlessness. If an employee seems nervous and inclined to be irritable, before you report her to headquarters, it might be well to speak a word of sympathy and say: "These are hard days for most of us, are they not? But they will soon be over." A slight recognition of the fact that her position is a trying one and that you understand why she is nervous will do more to help her to overcome this condition than any reproach you can utter. Remember, the holiday season should
