

TELLS OF HUNTING WITH ROOSEVELT

J. Alden Loring Delivers First Lecture of African Expedition.

PRAISE FOR "COLONEL"

Declares He and Kermit Are Fearless in Presence of Big Game.

Waverly, N. Y., August 24.—J. Alden Loring, of Oswego, N. Y., one of the field naturalists who accompanied the Roosevelt African expedition, delivered his first lecture, "Through Africa With Roosevelt," here to-night as one of the attractions of the Old Home Week celebration.

Colonel Roosevelt and Kermit are two of the finest men to be with in camp that I have met. Their whole interest was for the good of the expedition, and they added many rare animals to the collection simply because they were determined to make it as complete and valuable as possible.

"I do not think that the colonel gives his readers a fair impression of the very great danger that he and Kermit were so often placed in. After we had said good-by to four or five settlers with whom we had become acquainted, and met the first one with a badly injured arm chewed by a leopard, a second in the hospital at the point of death from a lion mauling, and a third who exhibited a rent in a shirt, made by the tusks of a charging elephant that killed his gun-bearer, and after we had dined with a missionary one noon and learned of his death from fever the next day, we began to realize that hunting African big game was not altogether a one-sided affair."

Mr. Loring spoke of Kermit as being one of the most persistent sportsmen he has ever met; cool in the presence of danger, and so enduring that when he pursued a wounded animal he seldom failed to get it, and in the chase he outran his gun-bearers and even the swiftest porters.

In substance, Mr. Loring denied that the expedition was one of slaughter. He said that it was purely scientific, sent out by the Smithsonian Institution for the purpose of enriching our knowledge of science and to collect specimens of African animals. Ten times the amount of game could have been killed, already over twenty-five animals new to science have been described, and when the entire collection has been worked up many more will have been found.

ISSUE OF CERTIFICATES INDEFINITELY POSTPONED

Washington, D. C., August 24.—The $20,000,000 issue of certificates of indebtedness to provide funds for the completion of reclamation projects, which has been predicted for October or November, probably will not be floated by the Treasury Department until some indefinite date in the far future. There is authority for the statement that the issue is not now under consideration, and would even be regarded as inexpedient at this time.

Destroyed by Fire.—Orono, Me., August 24.—The sawmill and box factory of James Walker & Company, at Basin Mills, a part of this town, were destroyed by fire today, causing a loss of $150,000 and throwing 250 employes out of work. The cause of the blaze is not known.

CURES S.S.S. OLD SORES

S.S.S. cures Old Sores in the very simplest way. It just goes into the circulation and removes the poisons and impurities which are keeping the place open. Then the sore or ulcer heals because the infected flesh tissues receive nourishment and healing properties from the blood, instead of irritating, disease-laden germs.

REJECTS FINDING OF COURT-MARTIAL

Governor and Major Comment on Features of Atkinson Trial.

INQUIRY COURT ORDERED

Colonel Consolvo Will Have Hearing—Minor Offender Pardoned.

REJECTS FINDING OF COURT-MARTIAL

Disapproval of the verdict of a court-martial by the commander-in-chief is an unusual occurrence, but was done yesterday by Governor Mann in the case of Sergeant Frank L. Atkinson, of the Richmond Howitzers. The general court-martial appointed to try Sergeant Atkinson for failure to attend the Gettysburg encampment found him guilty and imposed a fine of $2. The Governor disapproves this and orders the accused non-commissioned officer back to duty with his battery.

The case is further made interesting by certain comments in the endorsement of the papers by Major T. M. Wortham, commander of the Virginia Field Artillery. In accordance with military usage the papers were referred to the major before being sent to the Adjutant-General. He asserts that he had knowledge that Sergeant Atkinson was in conference with the attorney for the company which employed him, in the lawyer's offices in the Mutual Building, on the day of the trial, several hours before the court convened.

ALL WITNESSES PRESENT

Major Wortham further says that two of the officers of the corporation employing Sergeant Atkinson, the attorney for the company and all the witnesses were present during the hearing of the evidence.

Having thus called attention to this delinquency of the court-martial, Major Wortham added that a fine of $2 was such a small penalty in cases where a soldier is found guilty by a general court-martial, that it would not promote discipline or rebound to the good of the service.

In this latter view the Governor expresses his entire concurrence, disapproving the findings. This disposes of the case, after this double-barreled criticism of the court.

FEARED DISCHARGE

Sergeant Atkinson's defense to the charge of failing to perform his military duties was that he believed he would be discharged from his position with the Richmond branch of the American Locomotive Works Company if he attended the joint manoeuvres at Gettysburg. Officers of the corporation testified that he would not have been discharged, but that he mistook the nature of the request made him not to go.

General court-martials are regarded as minor matters are attended to in offenses, and it is presumed that the charges are such that if the soldier is found guilty, the penalty must be severe. Minor matters attended to in summary courts.

The court-martial in the Atkinson case was composed of Major E. W. Bowles, Richmond Light Infantry Blues, president; Major Benjamin Harrison, Petersburg; Major L. T. Price, First Regiment; Lieutenant H. C. Boschen, Richmond Blues, and Lieutenant E. C. Rees, Richmond Howitzers. Captain I. Branch Johnson, of the Norfolk Light Artillery Blues, was the judge advocate.

Acting on the request made by Lieutenant Colonel Charles H. Consolvo, paymaster-general of the Virginia volunteers, for a court of inquiry into the circumstances of his recent payment of the Virginia troops for service at the Gettysburg encampment, the Governor and Adjutant-General yesterday ordered the court. It is to convene within the next sixty days, at a time and place to be designated by the President.

It will be the duty of this court to inquire into the alleged misconduct of Lieutenant Colonel Consolvo in the discharge of the official duties of his office as disbursing officer of the organized militia, in the matter of the payment of the organizations of the Virginia Volunteers for services at Gettysburg.

The court is to be constituted as follows: Colonel R. F. Leedy, of Luray, commander of the Second Virginia Regiment; Major A. T. Finch, of Chase City, medical corps; Major A. B. Peery, of Lynchburg, ordnance department; Captain H. H. Hunt, of Farmville, First Infantry, and Captain H. A. Brinkley, of Portsmouth, field artillery. The recorder will be First Lieutenant J. Randolph Tucker, Richmond Light Infantry Blues.

PARDON ISSUED

Man Who Used Another's Boat Is Released by Governor.

Borrowing a boat seems to be a serious offense in the town of Big Stone Gap. At all events, Kalne Williams, of that town, was given thirty days at labor on the roads by the Mayor of the town for having unleased a boat belonging to another party, rowing down the river for a short distance and bringing the craft back. The charge was petty larceny.

Application was made yesterday to Governor Mann for a pardon for Williams, which was granted. The man had already served a few days of his term.

INSPECTING STATE FARM

Governor Mann, Secretary of the Commonwealth B. O. James and the members of the board of directors of the State Penitentiary went to the State Farm in Goochland county, yesterday on a trip of inspection. They returned last evening.

GOVERNOR WILL SPEAK

The Governor yesterday accepted an invitation to respond to the address of welcome at the meeting of the International Tax Association in Milwaukee next week. Governor Davidson, of Wisconsin, will welcome the visitors. The invitation came in a telegram from Allen R. Foote, president of the association.

NEW RULES DISTRIBUTED

The State Health Department yesterday began the distribution, in bulletin form, of the new rules and regulations for the protection of the public health adopted at the meeting of the State Board of Health in July. In the bulletin is also a list of the county boards of health throughout the State, appointed, at the same time. These rules and the list of members of boards were published in full in The Times-Dispatch at the time of the meeting.
