BAD MAINE WHISKEY

Prohibition Ports Harmful to His Sails—Bar Harbor, Me., September 3.—Indignant comment was made with regard to prohibition in Maine by Rear-Admiral Robley D. Evans, U. S. N., retired, who has been spending the summer here. He left yesterday for a business trip of a month, returning to Washington and New York. Admiral Evans emphatically said: "I have had more trouble over my sailors getting drunk in the ports of Maine than I have at any other port in the world. So far as the liquor question is concerned, I would rather take my men anywhere in the world than bring them to Maine. "I do not believe in a prohibitory law unenforced, and I have never yet seen it enforced in Maine. I have found by experience that my men could always get whiskey."

Excitement Kills Prison Warden. Michigan City, Ind., September 3.—During a fire at the Indiana State Prison here to-night Warden James D. Reid dropped dead of heart trouble. The fire, which started in a store room among some rags, presumably from spontaneous combustion, was suppressed before much damage had been done. Warden Reid was one of the best-known prison men in the country. He became head of the prison on November 1, 1901, coming from South Bend, Ind. His age was fifty-two years.

Paused Wreck at Sea. Charleston, S. C., September 3.—A statement was given out to-day by Inspector Field, of the Sixth Light-house District to the effect that Captain B. W. Johnson, of the schooner Atlantic, reported having passed on August 31 the wreck of a three-masted schooner, sunk in fourteen feet of water, about twenty miles southwest of Hatteras light vessel. The schooner's main and mizzen top masts were above the water. The indications were that the vessel had been sunk by collision.

BULLS ATTEMPTED TO RESIST DECLINE

Weight of So-Called "Distress" Cotton Forced Prices Back.

BEARISH BUREAU REPORT

General Opinion Is That Condition Indicates Crop of 12,000,000 Bales.

New York, September 3.—The most noteworthy feature of the speculative cotton market early in the week was the conspicuous buoyancy of August contracts, which succeeded in reaching the level which the bulls had predicted earlier in the season. They sold on Monday, though in a small way only, at 20 cents, a price which has been reached only once since the Civil War. At that figure they showed a gain over the previous closing price of 318 points, or nearly 14 per cent. While it required less than an hour to establish this advance, it was noticed that the wild and panicky conditions usually attending such developments was lacking. Their ambitions being realized, the bull leaders offered all the cotton that was needed at that price, and thereafter they attracted little attention to price receding to 18 cents, and the contract expiring without further excitement. On that same day the rest of the list showed a small gain, mostly sympathetic, and with September leading the new crop months there was talk that the bull leaders were supporting the current month in order to maintain a higher level on which to dispose of a huge lot of cotton they had taken in. The majority of traders, however, and the subsequent developments proved these doubts to be well founded. On that same day prices were forced back 20 points, the most distant deliveries sharing the loss to a small extent only.

Believers in lower prices state that even if the crop ultimately proves to be small, the early movement will be on such a huge scale that a further break in the nearby deliveries is inevitable. Regarding the most distant deliveries, however, there is more caution on the buying side. It has been seasonably warm in the Southwest, and rains are needed. The fire, which started in a store room among some rags, presumably from spontaneous combustion, was suppressed before much damage had been done. Warden Reid was one of the best-known prison men in the country. He became head of the prison on November 1, 1901, coming from South Bend, Ind. His age was fifty-two years.

Condition on August 25.—The crop reporting board of the Department of Agriculture estimates that the average condition of the cotton crop on August 25 was 72.1 per cent of a normal, as compared with 75.5 on July 25, 1910; 71.1 on August 25, 1909; 76.1 on August 25, 1908, and 73.1, the average of the past ten years on August 25. The average condition of cotton in Virginia on August 25 was 82, against 73 in 1909. In North Carolina, 78, against 73 in 1909, and in South Carolina, 73, against 74 in 1909.

Only Two Clear Days in August. Lynchburg, Va., September 3.—The meteorological report for this station for August shows that there were but two clear days in the month, and that the mean temperature was the lowest since 1883. The records of the station also show that the precipitation is 4.36 inches deficient since January 1, when compared with the average for the first nine months of the year.

A companion named Lyons was arrested at the same time on suspicion of aiding in the robbery, and his case will be heard on Monday.

POST MAKES FIGHT ON CLOSED SHOP

Suit Against Federation Officers and Bucks Stove Company.

CLAIMS $750,000 DAMAGES

Action Taken to Restrain Carrying Out of Tentative Agreement.

St. Louis, Mo., September 3.—C. W. Post, of Battle Creek, Mich., to-day filed suit in the United States Circuit Court for the Eastern District of Missouri, against the American Federation of Labor, and the Bucks Stove and Range Company, of St. Louis, not only to restrain the officers of the latter from carrying out an allegedly tentative agreement with officers of the former to make the St. Louis institution a closed shop, but setting up a claim for damages of $750,000 under the Sherman act.

The case is a suit in equity, and includes among the defendants, Stanton Gompers, president; John Mitchell, vice-president; Frank Morrison, secretary, and other officers of the Federation, and some fifty others prominently identified with union labor in America.

Because of the absence of Judge D. P. Dyer from the city the injunction feature of the suit will be taken up early next week, it is announced by attorneys for Mr. Post. The action grows out of the meeting held in Cincinnati July 19, at which arrangements were perfected between Gompers and his associates and the officers of the stove company to have lifted the boycott, which had been in force during the strike.

Head-Off Action.—The complainant states in his petition that he is a stockholder of the Bucks Company, and that his interests and those of the company will suffer by reason of the proposed agreement. A meeting between the American Federation leaders and the stove company officers has been set for next Tuesday, and it was to head off possible action that the suit was filed to-day.

It is claimed, among other things, that the consummation of the proposed agreement would deprive the stove company of any opportunity of recovering hundreds of thousands of dollars because of the union boycott, and that irreparable injury to the concern will result because of the destruction of prestige it gained through its victory over the labor unions in the District of Columbia courts. A claim for damages in the result of the boycott is set up under the Sherman act, making the case identical in many respects with the famous Danbury hat suit, in which the hat makers recovered $225,000 as the result of a boycott by the labor unions.

Charge of Discrimination.—The petition charges that the present directorate of the Bucks Company is about to enter a deal to thwart any efforts on the part of the company to collect damages sustained through the boycott.

Following the death of J. W. Van Cleave, who had been the backbone of the company's opposition to the federation leaders, it is alleged, Fred W. Gardner, a majority stockholder, assumed managerial control of the company and planned to change its policy to its detriment.

The petitioner claims he made every effort to prevent a consummation of the proposed deal to close the plant of the company to all except union men, but that the net result of his efforts has been to give Mr. Gardner the emphatic announcement that the deal will be carried out.

It is further alleged that it is proposed by the defendant company's present directorate to violate a contract with the American Anti-Boycott Association, which exports to Europe the cases against Gompers and his associates, now pending in the Supreme Court. This contract was entered into during the life of VanCleave.

EXCESS IS SHOWN

Total Exports and Imports for July Ahead of Last Year's Record.—Washington, D. C., September 3.—The total exports and imports for July were about $5,000,000 in excess of the corresponding month last year, according to the Bureau of Statistics' compilations of the trade of the United States with the principal grand divisions and countries of the world. The trade with North and South America, Asia and Oceania shows satisfactory increases, both in imports and exports. The figures for the seven months ending with July show that the monthly surpluses of gold exports to Europe increased. The decrease in exports to Europe is counted for mainly through the smaller value and quantity of food-stuffs shipped to those countries. Considerable gains are shown by the imports from the principal countries.

Lancaster County Upset Over Cow-Stealing Epidemic—Dr. Smith to Deliver Address on Jackson at Chancellorsville.

[Special to The Times-Dispatch.]

Lancaster, Va., September 3.—Some time ago Rev. Wayland F. Dunaway, D. D., pastor of the Baptist churches in the upper part of Lancaster county, found in an outhouse at the home of one of his church members, a box containing a number of old books, and among them a large copy of the Book of Common Prayer, printed in London in 1760. Found up in the same volume is "A Companion of the Altar, showing the nature and necessity of a sacramental preparation in order to be worthy of receiving the Holy Communion," and also the famous "New Version of the Psalms of David Fitted to the Tunes," used in churches by Nahum Tate, Esq., Post Laureate and the Rev. Nicholas Brady, D. D., chaplain in ordinary to His Majesty. The book was originally bound in calf, and is claimed, among other things, that the consummation of the proposed agreement would deprive the stove company of any opportunity of recovering hundreds of thousands of dollars because of the union boycott, and that irreparable injury to the concern will result because of the destruction of prestige it gained through its victory over the labor unions in the District of Columbia courts.

Many Boat Owners Fined.

Persons whose gasoline boats were inspected at the Wharton Grove camp, and that irreparable injury to the concern will result because of the destruction of prestige it gained through its victory over the labor unions in the District of Columbia courts. A claim for damages in the result of the boycott is set up under the Sherman act, making the case identical in many respects with the famous Danbury hat suit, in which the hat makers recovered $225,000 as the result of a boycott by the labor unions.

Will Speak on Jackson.—The Rev. William Meade Clark, D. D., Mrs. Clark and Miss Emily Clark, who have been visiting Mrs. Clark's relatives near Litwiltown in this county, left for their home in Richmond yesterday.

Attention of the officials of the Virginia Railway & Power Company has been called to the practice of some few people at First and Broad Streets illegally using transfers. In a letter written by an observer to the company, the writer says: "I beg to advise you of the practice of passengers illegally using transfers at First and Broad Streets. On numerous occasions I have noticed passengers coming off the cars with two transfers and hand one to some friend who has been waiting on the corner for possibly one-half hour. Then again, I have seen some 'good citizen' who has two transfers, one given by mistake, who will make it his business to go from one person to another, although they may be unacquainted, asking them if they are going in the direction in which the transfer is unchained. If they say yes, they give them the transfer. This, I have seen done by white passengers apparently in good standing, as well as among the poorer class of negroes."

Passengers Abusing Transfer System

WIPES OFF IMAGINARY SUMS—Treasury Department Eliminates Myths Carried on Books. Washington, September 3.—A ten million dollar myth recently wiped off the books of the Treasury Department after having been carried for thirty years is to be followed by the elimination of other imaginary sums of money, which have been counted in as real.

Assistant Secretary Andrew has made the beginning by knocking off $2,700,000 in the estimated amount of subsidiary silver in stock, and it is probable that all the other stocks of money will be subject to the same provision. There are estimated to be in stock now about $250,000,000 in United States notes, about $2,600,000 in Treasury notes of $50 and $100 bills, $54,000,000 in gold, and $1,835,858,111 in gold coin, including bullion, in the Treasury.

All but the gold coin would probably stand the same revision as was made in subsidiary silver. The estimates of gold, however, were reduced in 1907 by $135,000,000, and that amount was represented by the gold exported or consumed in the arts.

Officer Pinckard, armed with a warrant, arrested Harry Smith and ordered him in jail here, but Harry stoutly protested his innocence. At the preliminary hearing Frank Carter, who bought and killed the cow, said that the prisoner was not the right man, and that he had found out that the name of the guilty party was John Butler, who had assumed a false name to escape identity. Persons at the trial who knew Butler, said that he was then on his way to Coan Wharf to take the Potomac River steamer to Baltimore. Telephone messages were sent at once to the wharves along the lower Potomac and Butler was arrested and taken from the steamer just as it was about to leave Lewistown, the last landing on the river. He was brought here, tried before Justice Thomas Pinckard and committed to jail to await the action of the grand jury. It is asserted that this is the second cow that Butler has stolen in this county, and that he served a jail sentence here some years ago for the former offense.

New Hunting March.—The Northern Neck Hunting Club has secured a large marsh on the Rappahannock River just above Ledatown and has erected two houses there for the accommodation of its members. Several members of the club spent some time there recently and killed a number of summer duck, which are said to be plentiful.

Will Speak on Jackson.—The Rev. William Meade Clark, D. D., editor of the Presbyterian of the South, and a member of Stonewall Jackson's staff, has accepted an invitation to deliver an address before the Northumberland Chapter of the Daughters of the Confederacy at Heathsville on September 15. He is to speak on Jackson at Chancellorsville.

Passengers Abusing Transfer System

Attention of the officials of the Virginia Railway & Power Company has been called to the practice of some few people at First and Broad Streets illegally using transfers. In a letter written by an observer to the company, the writer says: "I beg to advise you of the practice of passengers illegally using transfers at First and Broad Streets. On numerous occasions I have noticed passengers coming off the cars with two transfers and hand one to some friend who has been waiting on the corner for possibly one-half hour. Then again, I have seen some 'good citizen' who has two transfers, one given by mistake, who will make it his business to go from one person to another, although they may be unacquainted, asking them if they are going in the direction in which the transfer is unchained. If they say yes, they give them the transfer. This, I have seen done by white passengers apparently in good standing, as well as among the poorer class of negroes."

It is such abuses as this that the company is watching with a view of breaking up the practice as soon as possible.

Age!

Age is a benefit to everything and every one. Some of the most beautiful photographs ever made, have been made by Foster's studio, 112 North Ninth Street. Here, age is made to play its part for beauty and never detracts from the countenance of the patrons. Remember this and get your photograph from Foster. Foster's for photographs all the time.

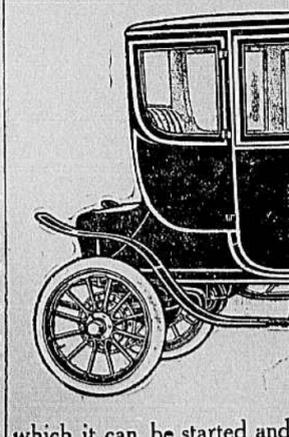

At the psychological moment it is not a case of working a combination of a dozen levers to take care of an incident when you are driving an electric vehicle. The mere pulling back of a lever does all the work and produces the results.

The big point in electric driven vehicles is efficiency and ease of control. You have the power when you need it, and it can be applied instantaneously. This not only safeguards the driver and the occupants, but gives them the necessary feeling of safety.

The greatest asset of the electrically driven vehicle is the ease with which it can be started and stopped, or in other words controlled.

The woman who holds a social position requires the use of an electric just as much as she did horses when they were in vogue.

The ease with which electric cars can be charged makes them ideal vehicles where the services of a chauffeur are not desired.
