mob, these words from his address to the Legislature of Colorado at Denver on August 29, 1910, as follows:
'I am, however, convinced both from the inconsistency of these decisions with the tenor of other decisions, and furthermore from the very fact that they are in such flagrant and direct contradiction to the spirit and needs of the times, that sooner or later they will be explicitly or implicitly reversed.'

protect the business interests of the country; but he would break up the best business in the country if it is not managed as he thinks it should be managed. He does not agree with the Supreme Court in its decisions, two of which he has noted, but he believes that 'sooner or later they will be explicitly or implicitly reversed.'

hand upon them and healed them all. Was it poverty? For their sakes He became poor, that He might minister unto them with true sympathy. Was it sorrow? He wept with them. But higher than these is His teaching of the moral law. 'I say unto you, love your enemies; bless them which curse you; do good to them which hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you.'

THE PRINTERS OF THE NATION.
Next Sunday week two or three hundred representatives of the Typographical Unions of New York, Boston, Chicago and Denver will be in Richmond. They represent a great organization and should have a most cordial welcome to this town. It is hoped that the Chamber of Commerce and other business organizations of Richmond will do what they can, and all they can, to assist in the entertainment of these worthy people while they are here.

It is the hope of the local unions that the annual convention of the International Typographical Union may be brought to Richmond in 1912. The place for the meeting of the next annual convention has already been fixed. These conventions are attended by from 1,500 to 2,000 delegates, representing one of the most intelligent and representative organizations of laboring men in the country.

THE COLONEL IN THE NINTH.
Bless your soul, Roanoke Times, we don't care two cents what your attitude is towards Colonel Roosevelt. A great many of the most conservative and reasonable newspapers in this country do not like him and have protested in the most vigorous way against his present exhibition of foolish conduct and destructive counsel.

Under the All-Seeing Eye they pass—the drunkard, the unclean, the liar, the thief—and He knows the secrets of their heart, their trials and their fall. He also knows their effort to free themselves from the chains of those sins which cling and drag them down. Oh, the patience and forbearance of Christ! We are so free to judge and condemn. He so long-suffering and forgiving. 'If any man have not the spirit of Christ he is none of His.'

COMES OUT AGAINST CHRISTIAN SCIENCE

BY LA. MARQUISE DE PONTENAY.
ENGLAND'S Primate, the Archbishop of Canterbury, who acquired a good deal of popularity during his visit to America a few years ago, as a singularly broad-minded divine, has come out flat-footed against the Christian Science cult; and at the last meeting of the Canterbury Diocesan Synod, Lambeth Palace, London, an ancient metropolitan residence on the banks of the Thames, almost opposite the Houses of Parliament, he denounced the tenets of the sect of Mrs. D. D. P. in which there was so much that was corrupt and at variance both with Christianity and with science.

The International Typographical Union of North America, its official title, is the oldest national trade union in the United States. It is composed of printers and those engaged in kindred trades. It was organized in 1850 at a National Convention of Journeymen Printers. Two years later it assumed the name of National Typographical Union, and in 1869 it changed its name again, to the present form. The Union is a typical industrial organization. It regulates the maximum hours of labor of all its members, the number of days for work, the method of obtaining work and the discharge of employees and the fixing of prices for composition. It has its regular dues, of course,—all organizations have—and of these dues five cents is apportioned to the general fund, five cents to the special defence fund, seven and one-half cents to the general defence fund, seven and one-half cents to the burial fund, and fifteen cents to the endowment fund of the Union Printers' Home at Colorado Springs.

Of course, if Mr. Roosevelt's speech in the Ninth District will contribute in the slightest degree to the election of Henry Stuart to Congress, we could bear the thought with better equanimity of spirit. We are inclined to the view, however, that his speaking in the Ninth District by invitation of the Republican managers of that District will not materially advance the political fortunes of Mr. Stuart. Whether the Colonel says one word for Slemp or not, the fact, if it be a fact, that he is to speak in the Ninth District by invitation of Slemp's backers and promoters would naturally contribute to Slemp's strength in his race for re-election.

THE MAILS AND THE ROADS.
A rural mail route has been discontinued by the Federal Government over a part of a road in No. 9 Township, Newberry County, South Carolina, because of the particularly bad condition of the road. The Newberry Observer remarks: 'This may happen to other roads in the County if there is no improvement soon.' Can such things be in South Carolina without effecting soon or late like conditions in Virginia?

So perverse is human nature that some Christians of loud profession pride themselves upon their pride. There is more said against pride in the Bible than against drunkenness; yet there are many who draw themselves up and say, 'You must remember I am proud! But "He pours contempt on all our pride." Pride of birth (Matt. 1, 19), pride of beauty (Isa. lili, 2), pride of wealth (Matt. vii, 20), pride of position (Luke vii, 34), pride of learning (John vii, 20), pride of reputation (John vii, 20), pride of success (Matt. xxi, 55-57, xvii, 45), pride of power (Matt. xxvi, 53).

None.
What did he say about it?
Nothing, absolutely nothing.
'What new idea did he advance about it?'
None.
What did he say about it?
Nothing in particular.
Did he mention Mr. Taft and his efforts to have the tariff revised?
No.
What did he say?
This and only this: 'I think that the present tariff is better than the last and considerably better than the one before the last; but it has certainly failed to give general satisfaction.' That would not have sounded nearly so important if he had not said 'I think.'

THE SPIRIT OF CHRIST.
(Selected for The Times-Dispatch.)
'Now if any man have not the spirit of Christ, he is none of His.'—Rom. viii, 9.
It must then be of infinite importance to find out as nearly and completely as possible what that spirit is. It is not a varying measure, but the one and only standard; and if a man fall there success elsewhere counts for nothing. This should make us careful and solemn indeed.

What is the spirit of Christ? Think how loving He was! And how righteous He was! Many speak of Christ's love who never mention His righteousness, and yet that was as great a part of His spirit as was the love which He bore in His heart and proved on the Cross. How fearless He was! Never did any man see a shadow of fear in those calm, all-seeing eyes! When Jesus Christ went to dine with the great men of His day, He turned the table into a pulpit and the house into a temple of God. He was always and everywhere ready and active about His 'Father's business.' Have we this spirit of utter fearlessness? That bold, heroic, aggressive spirit of Christ—who has it to-day?

Wickersham was surprised to see that Alaska was not 'the little place' he expected to find it, but he 'discovered an empire.' We are not surprised at this, as Wickersham has been living in New York. We doubt that he has ever been south of the Potomac River; certainly, from the way he has treated John S. Mosby, he does not know Virginia.

Princess Louise of Belgium does not appear to be by any means out of the woods from a financial point of view, in spite of the very large sums that she has to pay in accordance with the terms of the compromise of the disputes in connection with the disposition of the regnal of William III. The late King Leopold, for judgment by default has been rendered against her by the Bavarian tribunals at Munich in consequence of her failure to pay several notes for considerable amounts, to which she had given her signature. She is now living in Paris, and has been ordered to have the judgment of the Munich courts rendered operative in France.

King George has caused himself to be gazetted as captain-general and colonel-in-chief of the so-called Honorable Artillery Company, which officers have long been ordered to have the longest unbroken record of any military corps in the world. This history dating from the reign of William Rufus, when certain London citizens banded themselves together as an 'armed company' in order to protect merchants from the depredations of robbers who infested the metropolis. The first charter of incorporation of the company bears, however, the name of Henry VIII. to the 'Overseers of the Fraternity of Guilds of St. George, for the encouragement of the Science of War, when certain London citizens banded themselves together as an 'armed company' in order to protect merchants from the depredations of robbers who infested the metropolis.

LEADS, I WIN; TAILS, YOU LOSE.
It has been noted by the careful observer, probably, that, like the great soldier he is, the Colonel has not failed to guard his rear in all the desperate charges he has made against entrenched Privilege. Take any one of his speeches, or take them all, and see how cleverly he has turned all his tricks without committing himself to anything in particular.
It is necessary to have National control of our natural resources; but 'there are points in which this Governmental aid can best be rendered by the States.' 'I heartily approve of State action where the State only has the power to act.' 'We must drive the special interests out of politics; but "every special interest is entitled to justice—full, fair and complete." 'We grudge no man a fortune which represents his own power and sagacity.' 'The fortune must be honorably obtained and well used.' 'I do not ask for over-centralization; but I do think that the betterment which we seek must be accomplished, I believe, mainly through the National Government.'

WHAT SLEMP DID FOR HIS PEOPLE.
In view of the record prepared in Washington of Bascomb Slemp's Congressional activities, it cannot be fairly claimed that he has been 'a howling success' in taking care of the interests of his constituents. Here is the record of the bills introduced by Mr. Slemp, and what happened to them, in the 60th and 61st Congresses in which the people of the Ninth District have had the watchful care of this aspirant for a continuance of their voting conscience:
In the 60th Congress:

As to our charge that 'The Original Thirst' was born in Charlotte, N. C. The Observer of that city replies, after the manner of a Sheriff's return, 'Not to be found in our county'—at least theoretically. The Observer will do us the credit of saying that we did not accept the statement of the New York Sun that Alcohol was born in Mecklenburg, but that we distinctly affirmed that 'The Original Thirst' was born there, and we do not believe that the Observer will deny this impeachment.

On Friday, the highest temperature in Richmond was 77 degrees, and the lowest temperature 68. In Charleston, the highest temperature was 94, and the lowest 50. Why didn't all of the salesmen come up among these heaven-kissed hills and get cooled off? And the railroad fare was so low, only $5.50 for both ways.

BEFORE AND AFTER HE JOINED THE MOB.
In September, 1896, Mr. Roosevelt contributed a valuable article to the American Review of Reviews on the subject of 'The Vice-Presidency in the Campaign of 1896,' in which he expressed himself strongly upon the subject of the United States Supreme Court in these words:
'Furthermore, the Chicago Convention attacked the Supreme Court. Again this represents a species of statism—that is, of recurrence to the ways of thought of remote barbarian ancestors. Savages do not like an independent and upright judiciary. They want the judge to decide their way, and if he does not they want to behead him.'

How practical and beneficent was the spirit of Christ! He went about doing good. In every place of human life He stood ready to help. Was it sickness and disease? He laid his

If the Democratic party shall come into control of the Government in 1912, as pray God it may, there will be such a cleaning out of the rascals as was never known before in any civilized country.
