E. O. Boyce concluded the arguments for the defense at the morning session, and dwelt principally on the unreliability of the circumstantial evidence, as well as speaking in scathing terms of witnesses whom the State had brought into the courtroom to convict an innocent woman with a tissue of lies, as he declared them.

MARION BUTLER BUTT OF ATTACK

"It is," he said, "then entered upon an argument to show that as the government exercises a monopoly in the transportation of the mails it is bound to make the service efficient and competent to accomplish its ends."

The bill was treated as a mere amendment to the law of 1891, providing for ocean mail service between the United States and foreign ports. "Talk about subsidies, talk about taxing the people for private interests, when this bill provides only for an efficient mail service!" he exclaimed. "What right have the people of the interior to make a profit out of the seaboard States by refusing to apply the money paid for our ocean mails to rendering an efficient service? Last year there was a profit of over $1,000,000 paid to the seaboard States, and we did not give them a decent service."

Mr. Root also contended that the mail intercourse is inadequate and said that until it should improve there would be no improvement in trade between this country and the South American republics.

He expressed confidence that the enactment of the bill into law would have the effect of adding to our shipping, but pointed out that if it did not have such effect the experiment would cost nothing. Not one dollar could be paid out unless American steamers were used to carry the mail.

Mr. Root contended that the policy indicated by the bill would have the effect of insuring better service on the part of foreign vessels. He said the Postmaster-General had told him that the bill would be very effort to obtain improvement in the carrying of the mails by the ships of other countries.

House Will Decide.
Washington, D. C., January 25.—It will be left to the full membership of the House of Representatives to determine whether San Francisco or New Orleans shall have the right of way in the exposition fight now raging before Congress.

The House Committee on Rules, after hearing a sharp tilt between the rival interests, and spending an hour in executive consideration of the problem, decided to authorize the calling of the roll of the House members next Tuesday. Every member who favors the Pacific coast exposition will answer "San Francisco," while those who favor the Gulf will answer "New Orleans."

Whoever city prevails in this roll call will have the right to call up its legislation for immediate consideration. Sharp words passed between Representative Kahn, of California, and Representative Rodenberg, of Illinois, today when the exposition fight opened up before the committee.

Mr. Rodenberg, as chairman of the Committee on Industrial Arts and Expositions, which has already favorably reported the bill to give the exposition to New Orleans, declined Representative Kahn had ignored his committee and had put in a San Francisco resolution with instructions to have it sent to the Committee on Foreign Affairs.

"I never attempted to treat his committee discourteously," said Mr. Kahn. "I called his attention to the resolution before it was introduced in the House."

"That is where we differ," interrupted Mr. Rodenberg. "I have no recollection of your having called it to my attention, and I don't believe you did."

"That statement is in keeping with some of the others you have made in this controversy," rejoined Mr. Kahn.

Induct on a vote on the resolution already reported from the Foreign Affairs Committee, inviting foreign nations to participate in an exposition at San Francisco.

The New Orleans delegations, represented by Mr. Rodenberg and Representative Covington, of Maryland, declared that the Rules Committee should bring in a rule that would give the right of way to the Exposition New Orleans bill, which was favorably reported to the House by the Rodenberg committee.

The committee then went into executive session to determine upon regulations to govern the further progress of the fight.

Lee County Bonds Sold.
Pennington, Va., January 25.—Lee county road bonds, amounting to $250,000, were sold today by Sponsoring Co. Mayor, bankers, of Cincinnati, at a 100 cent par.

OPIMUM IS SEIZED; CHINAMEN HELD

Estimated Value of Drug Taken From Celestials Is $10,000.

New York, January 25.—Customs agents and the city police raided two "cigar stores" and seized 600 two-pound cans of prepared opium, enough raw opium to bring the value of the seizure to an estimated total of $10,000, and a quantity of wires, lamps and other paraphernalia of the opium smoker's "lay-out."

Four Chinamen were arrested charged with violating the Federal opium exclusion act of 1909, and a bundle of letters addressed to Charles Boston, a wealthy Chinese, were seized and turned over to the United States District Attorney's office. Among them were letters bearing the names of J. M. Morin, director of the Department of Public Safety of Pittsburg; Thomas A. McQuaide, superintendent of police of Pittsburg; E. R. Walters, director of the Department of Public Health of Pittsburg; and Joseph P. Murray, police captain of the First District of Pittsburg. Each acknowledged receipt by the writer of a gift from Boston.

There was a letter purporting to have been written by Superintendent McQuaide to L. T. Steward, superintendent of police in Chicago. It was written on the superintendent's official paper and dated August 10, 1910. It says: "This letter will serve to introduce to you Mr. Charles Boston, a worthy celestial merchant of New York and Boston, who comes to me with the highest credentials. Mr. Boston is on a visit to Chicago, and any courtesies extended to him will be appreciated."

Both shops are on Seventh Avenue between Forty-fifth and Fortieth Streets. The Chinamen in default of $1,500 bail, each was locked up in the Tombs.

The firm name over the doors was the Tuck Lung Company, said to have headquarters in San Francisco. The seizure is the second largest since the passage of the exclusion act.

Surprise in Pittsburg.
Pittsburg, Pa., January 25.—Considerable surprise was expressed to-day by Superintendent of Police Thomas A. McQuaide that the names of the Pittsburg authorities should be brought into arrears of Chinese in New York, growing out of the opium raids. When Superintendent McQuaide was informed of the matter, he declared that "it is ridiculous."

From what can be learned to-night the letters that are quoted from New York as signed by the local police authorities are acknowledgments of small presents given by Charles Boston in appreciation of courtesies extended here, and have no bearing on the opium raid made by the New York police.

Another Seizure.
San Francisco, Cal., January 25.—Another seizure of contraband opium, smuggled into this country on the steamer Korea, was made to-day by two men who were attempting to land it from a small boat. The smugglers were arrested.

Members of the Thaw family express the opinion that these servants are not guilty, but the police are very anxious to locate them.

RUMOR OF ACCIDENT

Explosion Said to Have Taken Place on Gunboat Wheeling.

New York, January 25.—Rumors were current early this morning that there had been an accident to, or an explosion on board, the United States gunboat Wheeling, at sea. No confirmation of the report was obtainable. The gunboat is en route to Guantanamo, Cuba, having left New York on the morning of January 22. She was loaded with ammunition and bound for Bluefields, Nicaragua.

Washington, D. C., January 25.—Naval officials here and the wireless stations of the local navy yard and at Norfolk and Chesapeake Bay reported early to-day that nothing had been heard of an accident aboard the gunboat Wheeling.

Can't Locate Vessel.
Norfolk, Va., January 25.—The United States wireless operator here, at 1:30 A. M. sent messages to the Atlantic coast in the hope of locating the gunboat Wheeling, but received no reply. Efforts to pick up the Wheeling by wireless were unsuccessful.

The wireless operator at the government station at Norfolk received no calls from the Wheeling, and he did not pick her up because her call was not listed in his books.

When she was last seen, Miss Arnold said she left home, Miss Justice Peckham, a resident of New York, was a niece of the late Justice Peckham and a graduate of Bryn Mawr, class of 1905.

Take No Substitute.

To My Friends and the Public:
Having been dissatisfied for some time with my connection with the Baltimore corporation owning the George A. Hundley Co., I have resigned my position as manager, in order that I might organize a home company that will give the best values to all who may patronize us; and, having this object in view, have leased the fine, spacious store, No. 60 Broad Street, facing Foushee, where on February 1st next we will open with an entirely new stock of Fancy Groceries, Wines and Liquors (sold by the package), unequalled by any of the fancy grocers in the city.

This company will be a strictly home company, composed of men having the best interests of Richmond and her people at heart, who are determined that they shall get square treatment, with full value for their money.

Respectfully,
