General Navarro has not enforced the embargo on American meat coming to the town of Juarez, and the town operated its saloons and gambling games as usual today.

United States troops on the Texas side of the river had made extra preparations to prevent American soldiers from entering the town if there was a battle in Juarez, but the precautions were not necessary. There was no fighting this morning. The insurgents and Federal forces ceased their battle near Bañosa some time last night.

Early today Federal reinforcements sent out from Juarez met the Federals returning from the field.

The Federals are keeping a strict watch over Juarez to-night. Sentries patrol the streets, and soldiers are in the trenches on the outskirts of the town. Federal military officials are not looking for an immediate attack, however, and insurgent officials in El Paso are of the opinion that there will be no fighting, at least until new negotiations are concluded. The insurgents have insisted that there is no danger of attack, and that Juarez is not close to Juarez.

Chihuahua, Mexico, April 16.—Forty or more insurgents were killed and over 150 wounded in a battle fought between Sanz and Santa Clara Canyon, about fifty miles north of here, according to Federal couriers, who arrived in the trenches on the outskirts of the town. Great hope for peace is entertained here because of the prospect of the arrival of Francisco Madero, Sr., father of the insurgent leader.

It is not a family or personal matter, and nothing but the triumph of our principles will induce us to quit," said Senor Madero.

Great Loss of Life Feared. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Washington, April 16.—Dr. Vasquez Gomez was in constant communication today with the insurgent junta at El Paso, Tex., who transmitted to him messages from the insurgent army advancing on Juarez.

At the same time orders were sent to Los Angeles, Cal., dispatching from there six trained nurses for Red Cross work in Mexico with the wounded and two nurses were ordered from San Diego, Cal., to Douglas.

business men hope that the unofficial negotiations begun at Washington may bear fruit. Minister De La Barra to-day expressed the belief that a compromise may be effected.

The necessity of the call for volunteers has been created not alone by the activity of the revolutionists in the North, throughout the country, excepting in a few States, the movement has grown with striking rapidity, especially in the southern part of the republic.

Two Aged Women and Baggage-master Are Hurlled to Death. Elizabeth N. J., April 16.—The Lake-wood Flier of the New Jersey Central Railroad plunged through a crowd of several hundred persons today to board a local train at the Elizabeth Avenue Station here to-night, scattering them right and left, and killed two aged women and a baggage-master who tried to restrain them. The dead are: Mrs. Ann Eliza Stone, aged eighty-seven, of Riverhead, L. I.; Mrs. Anna Gosgrove, who was a daughter of Mrs. Stone, aged sixty, of Belport, N. J.; Edward S. Saunders, of Point Pleasant, N. J., baggage-master of the local train.

Saunders heard the roar of the oncoming express and shouted a warning which cleared the track of those flocking across it to the standing local train, with the exception of Mrs. Stone and Mrs. Gosgrove. The latter saw the approaching train, and tried to assist her mother, whose step was slow because of age and infirmities, to safety.

When the express was almost upon them, the baggage-master leaped from his coach and ran towards them as if to drag them through him across the tracks. The train caught the trio squarely in the center of the tracks and hurled them thirty feet, mutilating their bodies and spattering their blood upon the clothing of half a dozen or more women who had narrow escapes.

WIFE RECOVERS MONEY LOST IN GAMBLING. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) St. Paul, Minn., April 16.—A verdict of great interest was handed down in the Circuit Court of Wisconsin today, which is now in session, in the case of Sallie Garrison vs. D. H. Bostic. In the recent congressional race in this district, Melvin Garrison, brother of the late Senator Garrison, lost to Bostic. The bet was taken, and the money, $10,000, Mrs. Garrison then brought suit against Bostic on the grounds that the $500 lost was her money, and not her husband's, and the jury has given her damages in the sum of $150, one-half of which, however, goes to the Commonwealth, as the offense was gambling.

Richmond Woman Tries to Kill Self. Baton Rouge, La., April 16.—Falling to receive a telegram this afternoon, Mrs. Harry Bodeker, aged twenty-two years, returned to her boarding house and attempted to kill herself with a revolver. One of the boarders knocked the revolver from her grasp. She later swallowed a quantity of morphine, but the efforts of physicians, hurriedly summoned, saved her life. Her husband, who is said to be from Richmond, left her several days ago with more than $1,000 cash, and Mrs. Bodeker says she fears he has been killed. She said she was expecting the telegram from a brother in Columbia, S. C., together with some money.

The name of Harry Bodeker does not appear in the Richmond City Directory.

Favorable Vote in Sight. Ottawa, Ontario, April 16.—A favorable vote on the reciprocity agreement with the United States is looked for by members of the Dominion government not long after Parliament re-assembles on Wednesday. The rapid progress being made at Washington and the prediction that the agreement will be before the American Senate by next Thursday have been noted here with satisfaction by the government's supporters. Settlement of the reciprocity issue in Canada, they believe, now depends primarily upon action at Washington. Any assent by the Congress will ratify the agreement made by the Canadian Parliament will do the part as soon as the passage of the agreement on the other side of the line is certain.

The strategy had the desired effect. Heidemans' repose was completely shattered by the crimes that seemed to mark his path through life with blood. A thousand times he was on the point of confessing, and it was only by repeated repulses that his friend, the detective, was able to keep him from confessing his guilt before witnesses could be secured to swear to his identity. This was soon accomplished, however, and under promise of further hiding their identity the pair made their way to Atlantic City, where a stenographer and witnesses hidden in the murderer's room at a little hotel listened to him tell the sordid details of his atrocious crime against the innocent, hair-shirted little schoolgirl.

From Atlantic City the pair left for New York, and the last dramatic incident of this history of crime was enacted on March 15, in the smoking parlor of the train, as it passed close to the scene of the murder, when Heidemans was placed under arrest.

Important Games Can't Be Played. Bad Weather Has Handicapped Baseball Season at Washington and Lee.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Lexington, Va., April 16.—Continued rains for the past two weeks have put baseball at Washington and Lee decidedly on the "blink." Eight of the most important games of the schedule were booked for this time, and only the lack of work could be played. The lack of work under such conditions and the necessity for play in cold, wet weather has been a decided setback to the team, and particularly disastrous to the pitching staff.

SEGREGATION LAW NOW UP TO MAYOR. Special Committee Authorized Last Month Not Yet Named.

The Vanderlehr segregation ordinance, adopted by both branches of the City Council, will be presented to Mayor Richardson to-day for his approval, and if signed will take effect at once. It aims to provide for the separation of the dwelling places of the races, and applies equally to white and colored people. In order to raise no constitutional point, it is provided that it shall not affect residences already occupied—that is white people living in colored sections and colored people living in white sections cannot be made to move—but no person of one race may hereafter move into a block occupied by the residents of which are of the opposite race.

Although the Mayor signed a month ago the companion resolution, authorizing the appointment of a special committee to inquire into methods of improving conditions among the colored people, the committee has not yet been named by the presidents of the two branches. It is to consist of two Councilmen and three Aldermen. The special committee is authorized to "investigate, ascertain and report what action should be taken by the city in order to relieve the congested condition of the colored population of the city, now mainly domiciled between Clay Street on the south, Bacon's Quarter Branch on the north, Ninth Street on the east, and Bowe Street on the west, so as to facilitate and promote as far as practicable the domiciliary segregation of the white and colored population."

Messrs. Vanderlehr and Pollock, the joint patrons of the resolution, proposed the annexation of the city of certain territory lying about the Virginia Union University, and its division into streets with modern improvements, sewers, water and gas, as a suitable section for the growth of the colored population. In the debate on the segregation ordinance, which was proposed in an effort to keep Clay Street from being turned over to the negroes, it was frankly admitted that without some such action, the ordinance was unfair and would work a hardship in compelling the colored population to live in a limited area, and conditions were taken to contribute to health, or furnishing any incentive to better living.

Many other ordinances and resolutions of importance will be presented to the Mayor for his approval to-day, the enrollment having been one of the largest in many months.

Caesar Tells How Kids Keep Clean. Chief Bottle Washer at Branch Public Baths Overjoyed With Results.

Speaking yesterday of the patronage bestowed on the Branch public baths at Eighth and Broad Streets and the proposal of John P. Branch to establish one somewhere in the West End for the great army of the unwashed in that section of the city, Caesar Dixon, chief bottle washer and laundryman at the eastern baths, says he believes that charity could not come in better form.

Caesar Dixon loves water like a duck, and under his guiding example, the boys of the East End, laborers and factory workers, mothers, daughters and sisters, have taken to the baths like the wharf rat takes to the river, in the first balmy days of spring. "They come here all hours of the day and night. They just love to wash the dirt off. Dinged if I don't believe some of 'em go out and get messed up on purpose to come here and bathe. It's a good thing this way, too, you know, to get these poor little brats go to the river to bathe, and they're kinder keener about showing themselves."

"The law says you gotta have a bathin' suit, and who ever heard of a kid havin' a bathin' suit? Simply ridiculous. If they got to have some modest wimmin complaints, and the kids go to court, ordered not to wash, if they can't go to the river, where can they go? Why, they can come here, and clean up every day, instead of 'sneakin' down to the river when the cops ain't watchin'. It's got to be a good thing in the West End, too. Them kids ain't got nowhere to go. Most of 'em ain't got no bathin' suits, and they can't take a shower in the rain, like country boys do. Now they can go to the Branch public baths, too, and you're gittin' to see a lot of clean, healthy citizens growin' up."

"I tell you, you can do a whole lot kiddy that ain't seen a basin' of water and supplyin' water and soap than by all 'em preachin' and talkin' about cleanliness. You gotta get to goddiness more good by handin' out a few towels in three months ain't goin' to Sunday school. But you give 'em a chance to keep their bodies clean and they'll come pretty near to lookin' after the clothes of their souls."

"Yessir, I think these public baths are goin' to do a whole lot more good than public libraries and free dispensaries. There's more true religion in a big tub of water than in all the books ever writ. Keep the kids clean on the outside, an' you'll hear of a few more prayers bein' answered."

Thus delivered, Caesar washed his hands again, and took another quid.

GAME WITH YALE IS DECLARED OFF. Virginia Returns to Charlottesville, and Will Play Fordham.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Norfolk, Va., April 16.—There will be no game to-morrow afternoon in Norfolk between Yale and the University of Virginia. The negotiations between Virginia and the Fordham team for the cancellation of the game scheduled between them for Charlottesville to-morrow afternoon fell through, and as a result the Orange and Blue boys left to-night for home, in order to fill the date.

Throughout the day wire and long distance phone conversations were held in the hope of calling off the Charlottesville game, in order to allow the Virginia boys to remain over and play Old Bill. With Easter Monday a half-holiday in Norfolk, and the intensest interest being shown in the game among the fans and social sets, it was recognized that the game would be a big money-maker. But Fordham, forced to lay off Friday and Saturday of last week, and having no chance to arrange another game elsewhere, insisted on Virginia carrying out its contract.
