May Be Still Larger. The Mayor said that it was quite possible that other delinquents might come to light, though diligent inquiries had not indicated any other accounts up to this time. More than seventy taxpayers on the delinquent list have been communicated with, to ascertain why they had not paid and to have receipts in the case of the Security Life Insurance Company the amount involved was so large that it seemed improbable that it would be allowed to go delinquent, and to save a penalty of 5 per cent. The Mayor therefore telegraphed to W. O. Johnson, president at the home office in Chicago, who replied an hour later: "We sent Cunningham, Collector, January 11, collect for $1,150.91, last half of city taxes."

Forbes Offers Settlement. Mayor Richardson was approached yesterday morning by W. S. Forbes and others on behalf of Captain Cunningham, with a suggestion of settlement and resignation. The books of the Mayor's office were examined by Cunningham and not credited stock as delinquent and were in the hands of Delinquent Tax Collector T. C. Walford. Mayor Richardson instructed Mr. Walford that he might receive a field check or cash for the accounts in question, but that the tax bills must not leave the office, as they are regarded as evidence both in the pending trial before the Mayor and in the case of the Mayor's resignation.

How It Was Done. Mayor Richardson was in prolonged conference yesterday with Special Accountant Crenshaw and Collector of Delinquent Taxes Walford as to methods of reorganizing the accounts, and the shortage cannot occur again. Under the present plan, it seems almost impossible to check up the accounts until the receipts turn up for the fiscal year. The Mayor explained that under the present plan the Commissioner of the Revenue completed the assessment at the end of each year. The books showing the assessment are certified to the City Auditor, who delivers them to the City Collector. The Collector for the whole assessment of taxes—something like $1,700,000. Similar books are delivered to the City Treasurer, who collects the taxes. The Mayor is similarly charged on the books of the State Auditor of Public Accounts. From the books delivered to him, the Collector makes out a bill for each account, and the law prohibits those bills from leaving the office except in receipted form. It is required to be collected weekly, under oath, for all money collected during the week, and take a receipt therefor. Following the end of the fiscal year, January 1, the Auditor is required to settle with the Auditor in full, credit being given for unpaid bills. The Mayor explained that in his weekly settlement, the Collector made out a new tax bill and receipted it, making no entry on the office books, and leaving the Auditor to collect the unpaid in the file, to go delinquent at the end of the fiscal year. In a drawer in the office there has been found a general memorandum with certain figures entered, which in the main corresponds with those found to have been paid and not entered. It is generally believed that the delinquent accounts were this private memorandum, intending to reimburse the city by making no entry on the office books, and leaving the Auditor to collect the unpaid in the file, to go delinquent at the end of the fiscal year.

Information gained by the Mayor showed that the method pursued by Collector Cunningham to hide his shortage was when the parties in question paid their taxes, either by check or in cash, using some receipt in small, instead of accepting and sending back the tax bill on file and entering the account on the books. In his weekly settlement, the Collector made out a new tax bill and receipted it, making no entry on the office books, and leaving the Auditor to collect the unpaid in the file, to go delinquent at the end of the fiscal year. was deliberate and premeditated, as is shown by the making of new bills rather than receipting the regular bill file. From information already in the hands of the Mayor the shortage cannot be accounted for by any oversight or accidental failure to make entry because of pressure of work or for any other reason. Warned Many Times. Collector Cunningham has been repeatedly warned in the past that such loans to himself and his friends from city funds were illegal, and might lead to prosecution. He was repeatedly warned by former City Accountant McCarthy to Mayor Taylor, and has been several times reported by Accountant Crenshaw, both to Mayor McCarthy and to Mayor Richardson. In the last instance he had already been re-elected for a year, and his removal seemed unwise for a few days merely to have him take office again. Mayor Richardson warned the Collector at that time that any further shortage would lead to prosecution, and he received his solemn promise that it would not occur again.

The offense is covered, according to the officials, by section 3717 of the Code of Virginia, volume 2, page 1995: "Embezzlement by officers, etc., of public funds; how punished; default in paying over funds; evidence of guilt," which reads: "If any officer, agent or employee of the State, or of any city, town or county, or the deputy of any such officer having custody of public funds, knowingly misuses or misappropriates the same, or knowingly disposes thereof otherwise than in accordance with law, he shall be confined in the penitentiary not less than one nor more than ten years, or any default of such officer, agent, employee or deputy in paying over said fund to the proper authorities, when required by law to do so, shall be deemed prima facie evidence of his guilt."

Sections 49 and 50 of the city charter, which require that the Collector "must make reports in writing to the Auditor weekly, or oftener if required, the amount of all money collected by him, and shall pay the same into the city treasury, and the Collector is expressly prohibited from keeping the money of the city in his hands or in the hands of any person in connection with his use, beyond the time prescribed for the payment of same into the city treasury, and any violation of this provision shall subject him to immediate removal from office."

MISS BERTHA SPELL'S HEALTH Was Greatly Improved—After Fever Had Run Her Down—By Cardui, the Woman's Tonic.

Rosedale, Tex.—Miss Bertha Spell, of this city, contributes an interesting letter on her experience with that famous woman's tonic, Cardui.

"I had fever for forty-eight days, and when I got up my feet were swollen and I had some womanly troubles. 'I had read so many testimonials about Cardui that I decided to try it, so I used six bottles and it straightened me up.' Not only when you are seriously sick, and suffering agonies from female complaint, as some women do, is it the time to take Cardui, but also when your sickness has gone and you need something to 'straighten you up.' This is the time to take a tonic, and for a woman what better tonic could there be than Cardui, the woman's tonic? Thousands write, as Miss Spell did, to tell how Cardui helped them. Try it for your troubles.

NOTE.—The Cardui Home Treatment for women consists of Cardui ($1), Theford's Black Draught (25c), or Velvo (50c), for the liver, and Cardui Antiseptic (50c). These remedies may be taken singly, by themselves, if desired, or three together, as a complete treatment for women's ills. Write to Ladies' Advisory Dept., Chattanooga Medicine Co., Chattanooga, Tenn., for Special Instructions and 64-page book, "Home Treatment for Women," sent in plain wrapper, on request.

BOOKS OF GENERAL MANAGER TO BE EXAMINED BY EXPERT [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Staunton, Va., April 21.—The two bodies of the Council held a short joint meeting to-day to act on the resignation of the "general manager," Charles E. Ashburner, which was wired from Richmond Thursday night. They decided to hold another meeting on Thursday next, and authorize the Finance Committee to have the books of the general manager's office examined by an expert accountant, to report to that meeting.

Almost the sole topic of conversation to-day was the resignation of the general manager, which has been expected for several days by the Council, and by others familiar with conditions, which have not been satisfactory for some time. NEW ROANOKE INSTITUTE IS FORMALLY OPENED [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Danville, Va., April 21.—The Roanoke Institute is now in its new home on West Main Street. The building was formally opened to-day, when addressed by Dr. Hicks and Rev. G. C. Smith. The Roanoke Institute has accommodations for about 100 boarders. The classrooms are large comfortable, while the auditorium is one of the prettiest in the city. The three-story brick building used as a color school by the Patton Street, adjoining the courthouse, was purchased at auction here to-day by R. B. Graham for the sum of $7,100. The street cars here to-night were put out of commission during the terrific electrical storm which swept over the city. Lightning struck the trolley at the power house, cutting off the circuit completely. The cars were delayed about fifteen minutes. Preliminary in Washington. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] Washington, N. C., April 21.—Washington's first legalized primary for the nomination of members of Congress was held in the different wards of the city to-day. Oden, J. F. Buckwalter, C. F. Morris, R. L. Jones, Fred W. Ayers, F. J. Berry and E. A. Daniels.

TOUNVEIL MARKER ON BATTLEFIELD

Interesting Exercises Arranged by Confederate Organizations. SUCCESSFUL FOX HUNT Electric Lines May Be Extended. Other Petersburg News.

Times-Dispatch Bureau, 199 North Stearnson Street, Petersburg, Va., April 21.—The handsome stone marker, erected by Petersburg Chapter, United Daughters of the Confederacy, on the Crater battlefield to mark the spot of the famous charge of Mahone's Brigade on July 30, 1861, will be unveiled with interesting ceremonies at noon on Friday next, Colonel William H. Stewart, of Portsmouth, who participated in the battle, and who is the ranking surviving officer of Mahone's Brigade, will deliver the address on the occasion and very appropriately Miss Othelia Mahone McGill, a granddaughter of General Mahone, will unveil the marker. The several Confederate organizations of this city will attend and take part in the ceremonies.

Battlefield Park Association. A meeting of the Committee of the Petersburg Battlefield Park Association was held last evening in the rooms of the Chamber of Commerce for conference. General Stith Holling, president of the association, briefly addressed the committee, and gave them some interesting information. He had recently written letters to members of the Grand Army in several States, and had received prompt responses, the writers expressing their sympathy with and indorsement of the movement for the establishment of a national park at Petersburg, and promising their aid and the aid of their posts in behalf of the movement. The association feels confident that the Grand Army of the Republic will give a full indorsement to the movement, and this action, it is believed, will secure its success. President Holling announced the appointment of an executive committee, composed of P. H. Drewry, chairman, Gen. Cameron, Jr., E. C. Kent, Dr. W. E. Harwood and George S. Bernard. This committee will map out plans to be pursued.

Congressman Turnbull has written that he will give all possible assistance in the matter. The Railway Merger. It is believed here that the absorption of the Portsmouth and Norfolk Railway and Power Company will result finally in the connection of the two systems by an electric line running from Norfolk to Petersburg. This matter has long been discussed, and preliminary surveys have been made. The line would pass through several counties, which would welcome it, and would touch at many important points. The passenger and freight traffic that would be given it would, it is believed,

The Hruswick pack of hounds, which has been the guest at the kennels of the Riverside Club for ten days or more, has been taken out on five fox hunts on several occasions in Dinwiddie, under the direction of Dr. J. Bolling Jones, of this city, an enthusiastic hunter, and several foxes have been caught. This morning Dr. Jones, President E. B. Snyder, Captain M. C. Jackson and I. V. Hartley, of the Riverside Hunt, went out to Hatcher's Run for a chase with the pack. The hunt was very successful, and after a long run, which was soon in full tilt through woods, swamps and fields, after a fox, which, after a run of a couple of hours, was caught. The hounds were again thrown, and soon jumped and captured a second fox.
