

these were not of the peon class, but business and professional men. When the crowd started it was led by a coach, in which stood a young woman of the better class in a white linen suit, wearing a big, black, feathered hat. She waved a Mexican flag, and urged the men about her to a great pitch of excitement. Beside her stood a young man, holding aloft a large framed portrait of the revolutionary leader. They made a wide detour and attempted to include in their rambling march the residence of the President. Two squads of mounted police, carrying rifles, were rushed to Diaz's residence and posted on either end of the block. When the crowd approached the guards were placed four deep.

Feeble efforts were made by the shouting marchers, who up to this time were in the best of humor, to turn their steps toward the residence of the President, but evidently they thought better of it and contented themselves by waving their banners in that direction, shouting "Renuncia! Renuncia!" (resign, resign), and the usual plaudits for Madero.

Plauds for Moderation. Foreseeing the tragic possibilities in the demonstration, Alfred Robles Dominguez, Madero's representative, at the very beginning of the disorders, procured the publication of a plea for moderation. In an extra of the El Heraldo, in the name of Madero, he urged the people to resort to no violence, assuring them that he had personal knowledge that the resignations of Diaz and Corral would be offered tomorrow. That they were not offered to-day is officially announced as due to a technical delay in getting that of Corral in proper legal form. Copies of this extra were distributed to the mob free of cost, but the story which appeared to interest them more than the status of the resignations was that of the failure of Diaz and Corral to resign. They shouted their approval of El Heraldo, which is owned by Americans, but continued marching and shouting.

No Note of Discard. Juarez, Mexico, May 24.—Most significant of the hundreds of telegrams that were received to-day by Francisco I. Madero, president of Mexico, was one from chiefs in all parts of Mexico, congratulating him on the triumph of the revolution, was a message from Ambrosio Figueroa, leader of the rebels around Mexico City. The telegram, which is regarded as important, is a message of congratulations from the rebels in Mexico, and that they will abide by the peace agreement he has made, says: "I congratulate you on the triumph of the cause. I am participating in a triumphant revolution in this state, and I am named as provisional governor Francisco Figueroa. The army of the liberals of the South awaits your orders."

Other messages of felicitation poured in at the Madero headquarters from military chiefs, and Senor Madero, in explaining the nature of them, said that not one showed a discordant note. "If there still is military activity anywhere," he declared, "it is because news of the peace agreement has not reached everywhere yet. All those chiefs with whom we had direct communication have closed hostilities."

One telegram that was discouraging to Senor Madero came from business men in Guadalupe, Jalisco, telling of the massacre of more than a score of residents and the wounding of forty within the last three days by Federal soldiers, because the people celebrated the signing of the peace agreement. They appealed to Senor Madero for relief, suggesting the immediate removal of the Governor of the State and the jefe politico of that city. Senor Madero made representations to the Federal government along these lines.

If Francisco I. Madero, Jr., becomes President of Mexico, the United States will have a good friend at the head of its neighboring republic, according to what he told a delegation of city officials from El Paso, headed by Mayor Kelly, who called on the Provisional President to-day. Madero said that if he ever took any part in the government of Mexico, he would make every effort to suppress any sentiment against Americans. He would spread the gospel throughout the country that the United States was Mexico's best friend.

Senor Madero was satisfied that the United States cherished no desire for territorial aggrandizement.

TAFT AND STIMSON MAY RUN TOGETHER. CASHIER OF BANK COMMITS SUICIDE.

New Secretary of War Mentioned as Probable Candidate for Vice-President.

Washington, May 24.—One of the most interesting bits of political gossip Washington has heard in a long while was current here to-day to the effect that the entrance of Henry L. Stimson, of New York, into President Taft's Cabinet may mean that he will be Mr. Taft's running mate in the campaign of 1912. It is said, fully expecting to be re-nominated, and little consideration is given here to reports to the contrary.

The friends and advisers of the President in casting about for a man to go on the ticket with him, are said to be looking with much favor upon Mr. Stimson, the new Secretary of War. They appear to be particularly anxious to get a strong man from the progressive element on the ticket, and prefer one from a pivotal State like New York.

There are plenty of other vice-presidential possibilities being discussed by political leaders in touch with the White House, including Senator Cullum, of Iowa, and Senator Borah, of Idaho. Many of the President's friends do not conceal their desire that there should be a Progressive Republican on the ticket with him. At this time, however, there seems to be little chance, however, that any of the Progressive leaders in the Senate will be available as vice-presidential candidates.

President Taft's friends, it is said, think that Mr. Stimson, both geographically and personally, would prove a strong addition to the ticket.

The Roosevelt influence behind Mr. Stimson in the New York gubernatorial campaign last fall undoubtedly is one of the elements being considered at this time.

REFUSED CONSENT TO OPERATION. Mrs. Jett, of McMinnville, Refused To Be Operated On, But Took Cardui, Instead, and Was Cured.

McMinnville, Tenn.—"Having used Cardui, the Woman's Tonic, and knowing its value, I can truthfully praise it," writes Mrs. Ocie Jett, of this place. "I don't believe I would be living to-day if it hadn't been for Cardui."

"After my baby was born I lay in bed for twenty-seven days, and the doctor came every day, but he did no good. "Finally he advised an operation, but I would not consent, and instead took five bottles of Cardui, and now I am going about the house, doing my work, and even do my washing."

"I can say that Cardui worked wonders in my case. When I commenced to use it I wasn't able to sit up. Now I am in better health than I have been for five years."

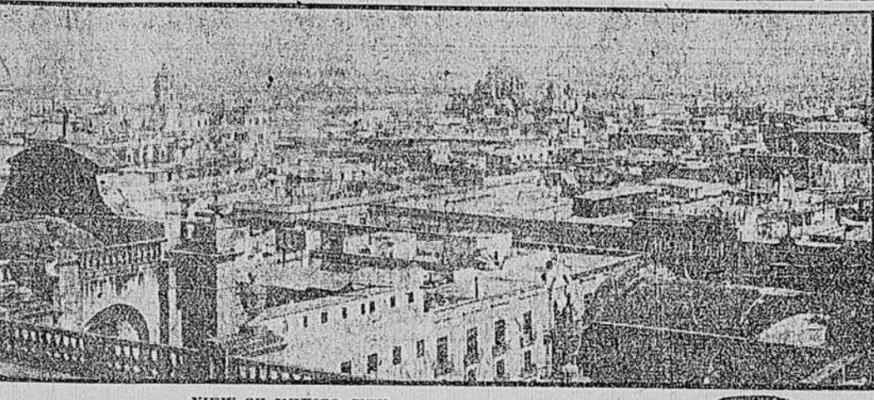

Try Cardui. It is a strengthening tonic for women. It relieves pain, tones up the nerves, builds strength. It has been doing this for fifty years. Have you tried it? No? Then begin trying it to-day. It may be just what you need. Your druggist sells it.

CANCER OF FACE FATAL. Death of Charles Rogers—Farm Products Damaged by Drought. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Lancaster, Va., May 24.—Information has been received here of the death of Charles

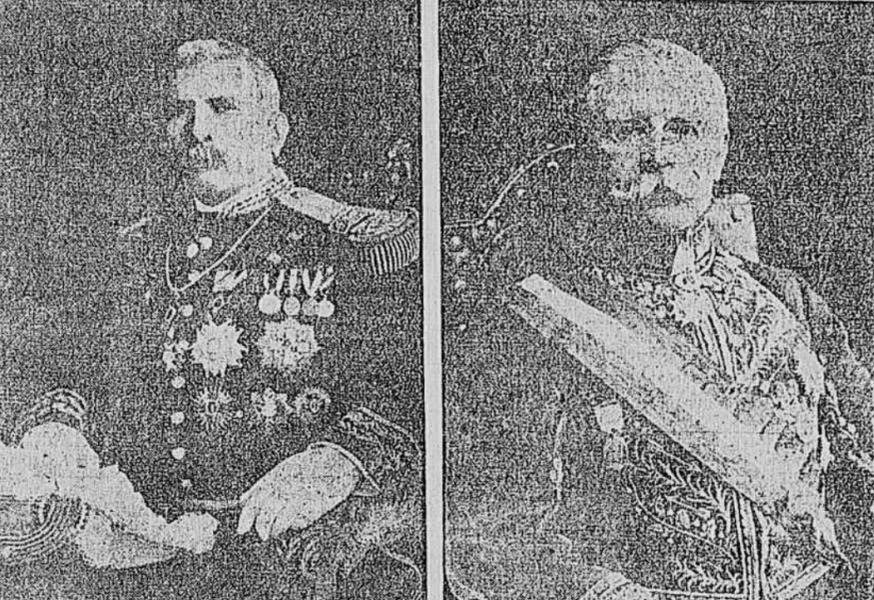

RETIRING AND INCOMING RULER OF MEXICO

VIEW OF MEXICO CITY.

FRANCISCO MADERO, JR., Adviser to President de la Barra.

PORFIRIO DIAZ, Retiring President. (Copyright, 1911, by American Press Association.)

Francisco de la Barra, President ad Interim. Rogers, steamboat wharf agent at Millenbeck, on the Rappahannock River. He had been suffering with cancer of the face, and had been totally blind for some time before his death. He was about fifty-five years old, and leaves a widow but no children.

The dry spell that has been prevailing here for nearly three weeks, together with the intense heat, has done much damage to garden and farm products. The crop of early peas, which is usually a source of considerable revenue to many people in this section, is a complete failure; the strawberries and asparagus crops have been cut short; the hay and wheat threaten to be a failure, and the planted corn is coming up badly and withering under the intense heat. Many farmers have thus far been unable to plant corn, and those who have planted will have to replant much of their ground. Wells are beginning to fail, and unless relief comes soon the condition of this region will become critical. Such a long-continued dry spell with such fierce heat has not occurred here within the memory of the oldest inhabitants. Judge Wright, who suspended the May term of his court here last week to go to Northumberland in order to try the case of the negro Thebert Downing, returned here yesterday and resumed the session in order to dispose of some important civil cases.

KNOWS NOTHING NOW. Andrew Carnegie Says He Is Ignorant of Steel Business.

New York, May 24.—"I don't know anything about the steel business now," said Andrew Carnegie this afternoon just before he sailed for his annual summer outing in Scotland. "The Stanley committee at Washington has asked me to testify, and I have told them that I shall be glad to, but I don't know what they will ask me, or how I shall answer them."

TO BE CALLED IN AUTUMN. Washington, May 24.—It was stated here to-day that Mr. Carnegie had an understanding with the House committee investigating the "steel trust" that he would not be called as a witness until some time in the autumn.

Washington, May 24.—President Taft late to-day announced the appointment of Henry A. Smith, of Charleston, S. C., as district judge of the Southern District of Virginia. Mr. Smith is a Democrat.

Judge Smith will succeed Judge Brawley, who died recently, on reaching his seventieth birthday. Judge Smith is about fifty-seven years of age; a lawyer of great learning and ability, and has practiced law for over thirty-five years. According to a statement given out at the White House, the new judge comes of a splendid family; is a man of the most exemplary personal character, and is closely associated with the best of the history of South Georgia.

"His circumstances are such that the emoluments of the office have no attraction for him," says the charge sheet, "but at the suggestion of the President he has consented to accept the appointment."

PLOT OVERTHROW OF GOVERNMENT

Portugal on Verge of Another Revolution, Started by Monarchists.

Lisbon, May 24.—That the situation in Portugal is serious is evidenced by the fact that the government is hastily dispatching reinforcements to the North. The official explanation of this is that the government is aware that monarchist plotters, with 2,000 mercenaries, are on the Spanish frontier and intend to cross to Portugal at the first opportunity, in the hope that the inhabitants of the villages will support their cause.

The government, however, it is said, does not look for a revolutionary movement. It believes that the disturbances will not go beyond rioting, but nevertheless all military precautions are being taken.

The long-looked-for rupture between the church and the government is now an accomplished fact, as a result of the protest issued yesterday by the bishop against the separation law. The violence of this protest has caused a sensation. It vigorously attacks the provisional government and declares the authority of this protest a violation of the constitution, but of annexation of the church. After being despoiled of all property and authority, the bishops declare the church has been sustained in a subject position under the heel of the government.

A protest is signed by the Patriarch of Lisbon, three archbishops and seven bishops.
