DATE ANNOUNCED FOR SUMMER CAMP. Infantry Regiments Will Be at Work From July 23 to August 12.

INVITATION RECEIVED. Charlottesville City Council Formally Asks Brigade to Camp There.

Although the site for the encampment of the three Virginia Infantry regiments has not yet been selected, the dates for the event were announced yesterday by Adjutant-General W. W. Sale. The First Infantry will go into camp on July 23, and will remain until July 29. On July 30 the Second Infantry will get into the game, occupying the same ground, and will leave on August 5. The next day the Fourth Infantry will arrive to stay until August 12, when camp will be abandoned.

Brigadier-General C. C. Vaughan, Jr., the brigade commander, with his staff, will be ordered to the camp just in advance of the arrival of the First Regiment, and he will be in command throughout, remaining until the Fourth leaves. This manner of arranging the camp, it is expected, will be just as satisfactory and more easily managed than if the whole brigade were encamped at one time. It will naturally fall to the First Regiment to break things in, although the camp will be ready in every particular for its reception before July 23.

Some difficulty is being experienced in securing a suitable camping ground, there being objections to each place mentioned. The available ground at Goshen is said to be rather small, and it is desired to make this a model camp, arranged along most approved lines, and not crowded in any particular. Some of the officers who attended the city council meeting in favor of that town, because of the excellent grounds, but it is regarded as quite inaccessible, since connections are not good, and the distance is great from the center of military population, increasing the cost of transportation. Culpeper has also invited the regiments, while other places have been or are being considered.

Brigade Is Invited. An invitation was received yesterday from the City Council of Charlottesville, asking that the encampment be located in that city. It is pointed out that the Jefferson Park and grounds are available for the purpose, both on the electric car line, with an abundant supply of city water and convenient to the Jefferson Hotel. One of the other of these places, it is said, can be secured.

FRATERNAL ORDERS. More Than 115,000 Virginians Are Enrolled as Members. Interesting figures are given from the annual reports made by the fraternal beneficiary associations have been compiled by Actuary Isaac Davenport, of the Bureau of Insurance. It appears that forty-one Virginia concerns of this sort have been organized, with nine are for colored people, with 33,000 members in this State, carrying $4,604,460 of insurance. There are two white associations, with 1,558 Virginia members, carrying $1,457,500 of insurance. The figures, however, do not include the True Reformers, the largest colored organization of all, which has about 25,000 members in this State, and whose license was suspended when the reports were made.

High-Class Concerns. The bureau now appears in its highest terms of every white association doing business here. As the laws under which these concerns operate are not well designed to prevent the operations of fraudulent or unworthy schemes masquerading as fraternal, the elimination of such concerns is due to the constant effort of the bureau to see that all associations maintain bona fide lodge systems, and possess real representative government, when this is the case it is found that the concerns are honestly and economically administered.

Education Commission Desires State Supervision of Every Institution. Teachers to Be Licensed—Woman's and Medical Colleges Considered.

Proceeding exactly along the lines suggested in The Dispatch yesterday, the Virginia Education Commission, in session at the Capitol most of the day, decided to recommend to the Legislature the supervision by the State Board of Education of every institution of learning chartered by the State. This is intended to prevent institutions calling themselves colleges, and advertising themselves as such, from imposing on the public by merely giving its students a high school course or one even lower.

Secretary C. G. Maphis was instructed to prepare a complete statement on a plan for a co-ordinated woman's college at the University of Virginia, to be reported at the next meeting of the commission in October. This action does not commit the commission, but it is no doubt that it will have a strong backing to begin with from the educational forces behind the commission. It is stated that the leaders in private institutions are heartily in favor of some plan which will make every school stand on its merits and not on its self-sufficiency.

FAVOR STANDARD FOR ALL COLLEGES. Education Commission Desires State Supervision of Every Institution.

Proceeding exactly along the lines suggested in The Dispatch yesterday, the Virginia Education Commission, in session at the Capitol most of the day, decided to recommend to the Legislature the supervision by the State Board of Education of every institution of learning chartered by the State. This is intended to prevent institutions calling themselves colleges, and advertising themselves as such, from imposing on the public by merely giving its students a high school course or one even lower.

These revolutionary efforts are being put forth with the idea of standardizing the schools, of preventing imposture, of requiring the competency of teachers and of guarding the public against inadequate instruction masquerading under the name of "college" or "university" or "high school." Of course, the Virginia Education Commission has no powers and can do nothing but recommend to the Legislature the passage of such laws as it deems proper. However, this recommendation will be made, and there is no doubt that it will have a strong backing to begin with from the educational forces behind the commission. It is stated that the leaders in private institutions are heartily in favor of some plan which will make every school stand on its merits and not on its self-sufficiency.

On Woman's College. Secretary C. G. Maphis was instructed to prepare a complete statement on a plan for a co-ordinated woman's college at the University of Virginia, to be reported at the next meeting of the commission in October. This action does not commit the commission, but it is no doubt that it will have a strong backing to begin with from the educational forces behind the commission. It is stated that the leaders in private institutions are heartily in favor of some plan which will make every school stand on its merits and not on its self-sufficiency.

Should Have Endowment. That it should have not only an increased annuity from the State, but also be liberally endowed. That it should employ largely, if not wholly, an independent medical staff. Mr. Maphis smilingly declined to answer questions regarding these recommendations, saying it had been agreed it would be best not to go into details at this time. He said the paper could draw its own conclusions. It is presumed, therefore, by way of deduction, that competition is bad for the profession; that there should be definite standards fixed by a central body for admission to the school; that Richmond is the best place for it; that it needs money; and that it is not a good idea for practicing physicians to be the instructors.

Damage Suit on Trial. Trial began yesterday in the City Circuit Court of the suit of Vernon F. Chalkley against the American Locomotive Company and the Richmond Locomotive Works, in which damages are asked in the sum of $10,000. The evidence was heard and the instructions argued before the court. The case will be argued this morning and submitted to the jury.

Settled Out of Court. In the case of W. H. Campbell against A. C. Bedford, on trial yesterday in the Law and Equity Court, after the evidence had been partly heard and the court had adjourned for the noon recess the attorneys got together and announced that basis of compromise had been reached. Judge Ingram directed that a juror be withdrawn, and allowed the case to go over for ten days in anticipation of a settlement out of court. The terms of the compromise were not announced.
