KIZER MAY ASPIRE TO STATE OFFICE

Believed Norfolk's Chief of Police Will Oppose Colonel Richardson.

It is regarded as almost certain that Major Charles G. Kizer, Chief of Police of Norfolk, will be a candidate before the next Legislature for the position of Register of the Land Office, now held by Colonel John W. Richardson. The office carries with it the ex-officio title and duties of Superintendent of Public Grounds and Buildings.

The statement is made that already a large number of nominees for the office are on hand. It is believed that Kizer is a candidate for the position, which he has held for more than fifteen years.

The salary is $2,100 per year, without fees, as all the receipts of the Land Office go into the State treasury. His duties are to keep the State's land books, which date back to the original grants from the British crown, to issue deeds to purchasers of lands owned by the Commonwealth, and to prepare records of titles when required to do so.

TOURING DISTRICT

Mr. Turnbull Sees People of Fourth. His Vote in Primary.

Congressman Turnbull, of the Fourth Virginia District, is engaged in a tour of his district for the purpose of meeting the people and informing them of his course in Congress. He came to Richmond last night after a cross-country trip from Petersburg. He will spend several days this week in Powhatan county, where a fair will be in progress.

Regarding a report to the effect that the support of the "machine" will be thrown against him next year in favor of Judge Walter A. Watson or some other, Mr. Turnbull had little to say. He did not believe, he remarked, that a dozen men in his district knew how he voted, nor did members of his own family.

Exactly So. The Progressive Farmer says: "It cannot be said too often that the ease of the judges because of their being so simple, or if it were patented so that slick-tongued agents could go through the country and sell them for times their cost, everybody would want one. The wise farmer will convince himself of their value and act for himself without waiting for anybody else to make him follow a course he knows is a paying one."

Mr. Mitchell Qualifies. Thomas W. Mitchell, elected at the last meeting of the Board of Health as sanitary inspector, qualified yesterday morning before City Clerk Ben T. August. He will assume the duties of the office tomorrow morning.

Library to Open at Night. Beginning Monday, October 2, the Virginia State Library will resume opening in the evening. The library will be open every day, except Sunday, from 5 o'clock in the morning until 10 at night.

SAMUELS HELD ON MURDER CHARGE

Son Whom He Shot in Fit of Anger Friday Night Dies in Hospital.

PRISONER LIKE A MANIAC

Tragedy Said to Have Been Due to Drink—Son's Money Still Hidden.

Wavering between life and death for fifteen hours, John H. Samuels, son of Constable Thomas H. Samuels, who was shot by his father early Friday evening at his home on the Osborne Turnpike, died yesterday morning at 10:45 at the Retreat for the Sick, where he had been taken shortly after the shooting. The inquest over his body will be held at 10 o'clock Monday morning.

It was seen from the beginning by attending physicians that the wounded man would not recover. The large .25 calibre bullet had pierced the abdomen and, taking an upward course, had punctured a number of the intestines. The bullet was promptly removed by the surgeons, but the injury was beyond human remedy. The body was removed to Nelson's undertaking establishment.

The aged father, when seen yesterday at the Henrico County Jail, where he is confined, presented a pitiable appearance. He had spent a sleepless night, most of the time raving violently and crying out to be taken to his boy. When told of the death of his son yesterday, he collapsed completely, remaining morose and uncommunicative for hours.

Call It an Accident. Later in the afternoon he recovered sufficiently to talk about the shooting to friends and officers who called, maintaining brokenly that it was all a fearful accident and a great calamity to him. He repeated substantially the same story of the shooting that he told to the officers at the time of his arrest Friday night.

He and his son had words about which the son, he says, put violent hands upon him and sought to push him outside the stable door. He then pulled out his pistol in a spirit of bravado, with no intention of killing his son, and in the scuffle that followed the gun was discharged.

"Clyde Sam," as the father of the dead man is known to the residents long been known as an eccentric but harmless character. For twenty years he has served the county in the capacity of constable. The position brought him scant income, and he has been many years supported by his son for whom he was defeated for election by six votes, and this circumstance he believed to have brooded on his mind, causing him to seek solace more and more by recourse to whiskey.

While there are many reports to the effect that the constable and father quarreled occasionally, a few weeks ago which recounts that a few weeks ago the younger man was seen to strike his father in anger, knocking him from a buggy in which they were riding—the opinion seems general that the man was in a bad way of mind, and that he was not in his right mind when he shot his son.

The prisoner is in a serious condition physically, having steadfastly refused food or drink. While much more composed than during the first few hours following his arrest, his speech continues broken and incoherent, much of it being little more than a dull, stunted moaning.

The only other relative of the accused is a son, Frank H. Samuels, of Oakland, California, who is married and is said to have met with trouble on the Pacific coast in the lively business. He was telegraphed for yesterday. Up to a late hour last night no answer had been received from him.

Could Not Give Secret. The dead man was about 25 years old and had for the past twenty years been employed at the Richmond Cedar Works. He was generally regarded as a steady, hard working man, who neither drank nor smoked, and who lived a generally frugal, abstemious life. It is commonly believed that he accumulated a considerable sum of money during his lifetime, and that he concealed it somewhere on his farm. An effort was made by Sheriff Kemp, who sat with the wounded man throughout the night, to find what disposition he wished to make of his money, but he lapsed into unconsciousness before he could make an intelligible statement.

TOBACCO EXHIBIT FINALLY CLOSED

Display at State Fair This Year to Excel Anything Seen Heretofore.

Promptly at 10 o'clock last night the entry lists for tobacco exhibits for the State Fair closed.

Not in many years, according to the lists already in, had there been so complete a tobacco exhibit as will be shown at the fair. It is altogether probable that an additional space will have to be provided to complete the display.

This is something remarkable, according to tobacco men, for this year was not at all conducive in many sections of the State to fine growth. But the displays will speak for themselves, and this principal Virginia industry will make a showing that may startle many of the growers as well as dealers.

All classes of the weed will be represented, and the growers in Virginia, and from indications there will be many thousands, will be convinced that this is the real tobacco country.

Science has added the natural growth to a large extent; growers have learned that nature at times needs something to help it along, and they have taken advantage of this.

JEWS OBSERVE MOST HOLY DAY

Yom Kippur Celebration Begins at Sunset—Special Services in Temples.

The most holy fast in the Jewish calendar, "Yom Kippur," will begin at sundown to-day and continue until sundown to-morrow. All Jews will abstain from all food for twenty-four hours, and will afflict their souls for the sins of the past year.

The occasion will be solemnly observed in Richmond at Beth Ahabat Temple, Keneseth Israel Synagogue and Sir Moses Montefiore Synagogue and in halls procured for the purpose. The services will be conducted by regular rabbis.

Elaborate and Priests Ceremony. The holy day is mentioned in the Bible in number of places. Leviticus xvi, describes the elaborate priestly ceremonial; ibid. xxiii, where the "affliction of the soul" (fasting) is ordained; ibid. xxvii-28, announces that on the Day of Atonement each fiftieth year, the trumpet sound shall usher in the Jubilee year. Numbers xxxix-7, 11 describes the sacrifices of the day. From these references and later accounts in the Talmud we can get a picture of this day of Awe as it was celebrated in Biblical times. The holy day on the tenth day of Tishri was observed by abstention from food and drink, and by an elaborate ceremonial in which the high priest was the central figure.

From the biblical ceremonial which throughout seeks forgiveness of the community as a whole, the observance has been somewhat changed in Rabbinic Judaism and in modern times, emphasizes also repentance and personal prayer for the forgiveness of the sins of each individual soul. It completes the penitential period that began with the New Year's Day.

Celebration in Evening. The celebration of the Day of Atonement begins in the synagogue with the evening service, called "Kol Nidre" from its opening formula which refers to vows concerning the individual and his fellow-men. With a solemnly marked melody and songs this service assumed in the course of time a very impressive character. Throughout the following day a continued series of services is held, which toward the middle of the afternoon is heightened in impressiveness by a most solemn commemorative service for the dead. This is followed by the Nelloh or closing service in which the main lines of the day are especially emphasized, recitance, confession, prayer for forgiveness and God's sealing of the decree for the ensuing year. The sermon ends with a solemn invocation of God, and the shouting of the seven-fold exclamation "The Lord is God." As a signal of the close of the sacred day the trumpet (shofar) is blown, and the devout worshiper turns homeward from his house with the assurance that in reward for his true and sincere repentance, the sins of the past have been forgiven.

SUNDAY-SCHOOLS' ENLISTMENT DAY

Baptist Classes Expect Record-Breaking Attendance in All Local Churches.

"Enlistment Day" will be observed throughout the city in all of the Sunday schools of the Baptist churches in Richmond. The occasion is the result of a united movement on the part of the church workers to secure an increased enrollment of students.

Throughout the past week many teachers have been visiting members of the churches, and have urged and urged them to be present. Indications are that attendance to-day will be the largest ever recorded.

The various schools have arranged special programs to fit the occasion. It is confidently expected by those heading the movement that this will be a most successful day.

The Baptist Sunday schools in Richmond are looked upon as among the best in the country. Many of them, within the past few years, have been carefully graded and thoroughly equipped.

During this time most of the teachers have been engaged in the mastery of the normal course, and in the work of increasing the efficiency of instruction.

It is expected that the "Enlistment Day" will be a most successful one, and that the churches will be benefited by the increased enrollment of students.

MISS FAIRLAMB ALL AT INQUEST

Unable to Control Grief While Coroner Was Investigating Tragedy.

OPEN VERDICT BY JURY

Killing of Mrs. Wharton by Motor Car Clearly Due to Accident.

Unable to control her grief and to sit by and listen to testimony which was occasionally disparaging to her, Miss Zaida Fairlamb, who, while driving an automobile, ran over and killed Mrs. Thomas W. Wharton in Barton Heights Friday afternoon, collapsed and swooned during the course of the coroner's inquest yesterday afternoon. The inquest was nearing completion, and Miss Fairlamb, though she had a legal right to refuse to testify, being under arrest, was expected to tell her story of what it was generally agreed was a sad accident. But as the time drew near for her to take the stand she became very nervous, and suddenly fainted. Members of the family who were with her summoned Dr. Mark W. Peyer, and the semi-conscious young woman was taken into the private office of Justice Crutchfield, where restoratives were administered her.

Could Not Go on Stand. Coroner Taylor visited her a short time later and asked if she cared to go on the stand to testify in her own behalf. But he saw at once that her condition was such that it would have been impossible for her to have undergone the strain, and, without further word, she was excused. She was later taken home in a carriage, and still under the care of Dr. J. A. Keck, the family physician.

Most of the testimony adduced before the coroner's inquest showed that the killing of Mrs. Wharton was the result of an unavoidable accident. Some testified that Miss Fairlamb lost control of herself when she saw Mrs. Wharton in front of the automobile she was driving. Wallace King, who was in the seat beside her, testifies that she drove an automobile, testified that she had become a competent driver. After hearing numerous witnesses, the jury brought in an open verdict, saying that Mrs. Wharton was killed as the result of injuries inflicted by an automobile driven by Miss Fairlamb. Miss Fairlamb and Mr. King were arrested by Militia Andrew J. Polkey, who witnessed the accident, and were released under $1,000 bond each for their appearance before a magisterial court in Henrico county to-morrow morning.

The funeral of Mrs. Wharton will be held from St. Peter's Cathedral to-day, the service to be conducted by Rev. Father Magri.

Report Two Robberies. W. D. Crenshaw, of 7 North Seventh Street, reported to the police yesterday afternoon that his place had been entered and that he had been robbed of $15.

Clarence Beasley, of 56 East Main Street, reported that his place had been entered and that he had been robbed of $15 worth of clothes. Both cases of housebreaking occurred some time Friday night. Detective-Sergeant Bailey and Detective Bolton were assigned to this investigation of the robberies.

Customs Collections Increase. Richmond continues to grow, indicating that imports now received here are greater than ever before. During September the receipts of the office of Collector B. B. Arnold increased nearly 30 per cent, over the corresponding time of last year. The total announced yesterday for the month was $4,143,112.

Building Permit. A permit was issued in the office of Building Inspector J. E. Ennis yesterday for the "Timmer" building, located at the west side of North Street between Main and Cary Streets. The structure will be four stories high, of steel and reinforced concrete, and will cost $90,000. The entire building will be used exclusively for the several departments of the city.
