ALBANIAN CHIEF IS MODERN WILLIAM TELL

Shoots Through Follower's Fez to Show His Skill With Rifle

IS BANDIT AND PATRIOT

Held in Highest Esteem by Peasantry, His Sway Is Almost Absolute

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 14.—Of all the Albanian leaders who during the last two years have given trouble to the Ottoman government, Isak Boliatina, or as his tribesmen call him, Boliatina, is undoubtedly the most remarkable figure. Boliatina combines the characteristics of a bandit, revolutionary, and patriot. It is chiefly due to his initiative that the Albanians have been able to attain their present position of almost absolute independence.

MORE PLOTS HATCHED FOR EGYPT'S FREEDOM

Three Arrests for Conspiracy Follow Strict Orders of the Khedive

INCITEMENT TO MURDER

CAIRO, Sept. 14.—Three arrests have been made here in connection with the recent posting of seditious placards in some of the principal streets of Cairo. The placards which were posted at night, called on the natives to take up arms against the government, and threatened a serious reversion on the judges who had sentenced the conspirators who had plotted against the life of Lord Kitchener and the khedive.

EGYPT'S RULER ASKS LOYALTY OF SUBJECTS

Urges That All Classes Work in Harmony for Welfare of Country

MANY CHANCES WASTED

Khedive Points to Need of Sending Students to All Foreign Countries

CAIRO, Sept. 14.—The speech delivered by the khedive to the members of the legislative council and general assembly at the official reception held at Kas-el-Tin on Wednesday last, is of peculiar interest in view of recent happenings in Egypt. The khedive said that he would not have troubled those present to attend at the palace, but the feelings of loyalty to his throne had compelled them to show that loyalty at the present time as publicly as possible. He would never forget this display of loyalty, and he would like to see it repeated on every occasion of a similar demonstration.

RELICS OF THE SUN GOD DISCOVERED IN ROME

Largest Temple of Mithra Found in Excavations at the Caracalla Baths

SANCTUARY IS HIDDEN

ROME, Sept. 14.—A new light on the history of Mithraism, the cult of the Persian Sun God, whose struggle for supremacy over Christianity in the latter days of the Roman empire is best known to us through the life labors of Franz Cumont, is emanating from the vast excavations that are now proceeding at the great baths of Caracalla at Rome. The largest temple of Mithra yet known is being unearthed there. It is also the deepest of the subterranean sanctuaries of the Sun God ever discovered, all the chambers being quite inaccessible to the light of day. The temple proper, which has served the Roman bathers for gymnastic exercises, and consists of a central nave seventy-five feet long, flanked on either side by an aisle divided by pillars into three sections.

WORKMEN STRUCK OVER QUESTION OF PENSIONS

Italian Marble Cutters Indignant at Act of the Municipal Council

AN OLD TAX IS REVIVED

ROME, Sept. 14.—The Italian Labor League has proclaimed a general strike throughout the Carrara marble district, in sympathy with 500 marble workers, who had already struck work in consequence of a dispute with the local commune over its scheme for workmen's pensions.

ENGLISH VISITORS TO PARIS IN TROUBLE

Friendly Wrestling Match in Restaurant Terminates in a Little Riot

POLICE OFFICER STRUCK

PARIS, Sept. 14.—Three Englishmen, who recently had a merry evening at Montmartre, paid rather dearly for it yesterday, when they were brought up at the ninth correctional chamber. At 2 o'clock in the morning they were in a restaurant in the Rue Pigalle, when one of them accepted a friendly challenge to a wrestling match with a Frenchman.

1000 FORM CRIPPLES RESTAURANT BUSINESS

Doctor Has Vengeance on Man Whose Kitchen Odors Drove Patients Away

THOUGHT LAW TOO SLOW

CONSTANTINOPLE, Sept. 14.—A strange lawsuit between a medical man and a restaurant keeper is proceeding in the judicial courts of Pera. The contending parties occupy the same house, the doctor living in the upper story and his adversary in the apartments immediately below.

ANCIENT MANUSCRIPT DISCOVERED IN EGYPT

Roll of Papyrus in Good Condition, May Prove of Rare Archeological Value

IS NOW BEING STUDIED

CAIRO, Sept. 14.—A number of large rolls of historical papyrus have been discovered by Robert A. Bushnell, P. E. & S. The manuscripts were discovered by a roll while studying the ruins of the Temple of Isis at Abydos. The roll is in good condition and is believed to be the best of its kind. It is about twenty inches long and contains about twenty lines of text. The roll is now being studied by the British Museum.

SAFETY FOR VESSELS FOGBOUND AT SEA

Device Invented Which Indicates Exact Location of Other Ships Around Them

DONE BY SOUND WAVES

LIVERPOOL, Sept. 14.—Considerable interest has been aroused in Liverpool by a demonstration of the working of an invention for locating ships, particularly in thick fog, to show the possibility of sending out sound waves or the sound of some other kind. The apparatus, which is the invention of two brothers named Dickinson, consists of a "drum" which sends out sound waves and an indicator, the "drum" which is 25 feet in diameter, which is not to be affected by sounds in the fog, and it is connected electrically with the indicator, which is placed in such a position that it can receive the sound of the ship's whistle or bell. The sound waves are sent out in a regular fashion on the drum.

RUSSIAN BOY BANDITS

NEW ZEALAND'S NEW GOVERNOR AND HIS WIFE

The Earl of Liverpool, who succeeds Lord Islington, is the fifth holder of the title. He and his beautiful wife are popular in London and will carry with them to New Zealand an abundance of good wishes. The earl's family was created an earl in 1796 and died in 1808. The second was prime minister from 1812 to 1827. It was the fourth earl who was a Follamb.

COULD NOT SURVIVE MIKADO'S DEATH

Strange Type of Loyalty Shown in Suicide of Old Japanese Warrior

EMPEROR AS WRESTLER

TOKIO, Sept. 14.—It has just been learned from distant Saga that an elderly man named Saigo Yamaoka has died there as the result of an attempt to commit seppuku. Yamaoka was an old swordsman from the time of the Restoration war, and rather than live after his emperor he disemboweled himself. He left a poem in which he stated that his "heart was yearning after his sovereign," and intonations that he should be buried with his head towards the east, that is, in the direction of the imperial palace.

TWO PRIESTS SHOT IN CROWDED PARIS STREET

Man, Evidently a Lunatic, Seeks Revenge for an Imaginary Wrong

ABBE BRUTALLY BEATEN

PARIS, Sept. 14.—An extraordinary attempt was made to shoot two priests in the street yesterday afternoon. The young priests, who had just got off one of the trams which run between Passy and the Hotel de Ville, were going across the Pont Royal when they met a man who stared insolently at them and muttered insulting words. The priests made no attention, but walked on, but when they had gone about ten paces, the man suddenly drew a revolver and fired at them.

Tired of Venison

VIENNA, Sept. 14.—As a reward for his help in a hunting expedition in the most snowy mountains of the royal preserves at Chametz, Austria, the Archduke Franz Ferdinand told a peasant that he might come from the town of Trovas. A shepherd named Vidia struck the Archduke several violent blows with the butt end of his whip, and the priest's life is reported to be in danger.
