Of Interest Here. The pantomime ball, ranking in splendor with the historic "Shakespeare" and "1812" balls, filled Albert Hall, London, with beauty Wednesday night.

The costume scheme was that of animated fairy stories, and there were twenty-five processions representing "The Sleeping Beauty," "Blue Beard," "Jack and the Beanstalk," "The Yellow Dwarf," "Cinderella," etc. There also were such modern classics as "Peter Pan" and "Bluebird."

"Lady Constance Hatch and Lady Alington were the chief organizers, and Prince Henry of Battenberg, in his royal box, presented rich prizes to the best costumed revelers. The verdict of the judges, who included Lord Bourdieu, J. J. Shannon and Arthur Bourdieu, chief was that this was a record-breaking ball for variety and beauty.

Society and stage met on equal terms. Marie Lohr, the actress, as a fairy, danced in fashionable costume. Maxine Elliott, as one of Bluebeard's wives, rubbed shoulders with royalty. Lady Alington, as Queen of the North, "The Blue Bird" presented two purple and dark blue gauze, and magnificent sapphires.

Mrs. Arthur Glasgow wore a diamond tiara and empire robes. Mrs. William G. Stansard, the American novelist, went as a Christmas tree, laden with precious gifts, including a string of real pearls, diamonds, and ivory.

The Viscountess Maitland, in ivory and white, was in the pagoda. Lady Garvaugh, as "A Wicked Fairy," was magical, with green incandescent lights.

Lady Mond's party dressed as Christmas bonbons. Mrs. Asquith's procession was in Russian style. The King and Queen were a notable group of beautiful women was that of "Twelve Dancing Princesses." It included Mrs. Winston Churchill, Lady Diana Manners, Mrs. Herbert Asquith and Mrs. McLaren.

Mrs. Arthur Glasgow, who is a daughter of John P. Branch, of this city, is one of the most prominent women in the ultra-fashionable set in London and is much in demand at smart functions. She comes to Richmond for a visit every winter and spends the holiday season here last Christmas.

At the Hermitage. The regular weekly hops which take place at the Hermitage Golf Club every Saturday afternoon during the winter, will begin this afternoon.
