

The Times Dispatch

Business Office... Times-Dispatch Building 19 South Tenth Street Richmond, Va. Telephone 1021

BY MAIL One Six Three One POSTAGE PAID Year Mos. Mos. Mo. Daily with Sunday $5.00 $3.00 $1.50

Entered January 27, 1903, at Richmond, Va., as second-class matter under act of Congress of March 3, 1879.

TUESDAY, JANUARY 14, 1913.

JUDGES MUST BE ABOVE SUSPICION.

Only three persons have been convicted by the Senate of the United States, sitting as a court of impeachment, and all three of them were Federal judges.

Robert W. Archbald, who was yesterday removed from the United States Commerce Court and forever disqualified to hold any office of honor, trust or profit in the government of the nation, was the third to have his name stripped from him by the extraordinary process of impeachment.

Divested of the tedious details of the evidence, the main accusation successfully maintained against Judge Archbald was that, possessing the potentiality to serve certain corporations, he entered into and executed negotiations with them which were decidedly to his financial advancement and which probably never would have been assented to by the corporations had he not been a judge.

The orderly and deliberate conviction of this man who for twenty-five years had sat upon the bench is an impressive evidence of the sufficiency of impeachment as the proper method for the removal of the judge who has dishonored the ermine.

It is conceivable, as has been pointed out several times, as is obvious on the face of the juxtaposition of Roumanian and Bulgarian territory, that Bulgaria should have precipitated the war with Turkey and drained herself of troops, as she necessarily did, without having had a previous pledge of Roumanian neutrality.

Bulgaria cannot afford to depart on its own from her pledge and Roumania cannot afford to demand more than her stipulated pound of flesh. It therefore may well be seen of the minor dispatches that Bulgaria revised the threat in order to influence the powers to agree to the acquisition of "more" Turkish territory as an offset to what she is understood to be doing in Roumania as the price of the other's neutrality.

Fresh alarms none the less, the powers have taken the situation too much to heart, with the determination of inter-ing peace, to permit a new and extraneous factor to enter in and defeat that end. It appears clear that, although moving along the line of least resistance, they have agreed virtually to force a peaceful settlement if necessary.

THE SOIL IN HENRICO.

Richmond has a vital interest in the agricultural development of Henrico County. Anything that makes Henrico prosperous will inevitably benefit Richmond.

For this reason, the idea of the Chamber of Commerce in furthering farm growth by supplying a farm demonstrator chimes in aptly with the partial report just issued by the Bureau of Soils on the soil survey of Henrico County.

Apparently the Henrico soils are not especially adapted to forage crops or to farming. They are excellent for trucking. Richmond needs exactly such food supplies.

The "Movies" are soon to be twin. The "Talkies" will help assist the great American vulgus profanus. The kinetophone, Edison's latest invention, by which the pictures on the screen and the words from a phonograph can be timed to produce a natural effect.

The spoken word via the talking attachment doesn't offer much hope, but a fine set of records of beautiful and moving musical numbers run off at the same time with certain beautiful scenic effects in the pictures, or at moments of real emotion in the action, and such do occur often at the "movies," would be very charming.

The duration of life has been shortened in this generation. Medical science is adding to the average years of life by its expert war on disease and its increasing knowledge of preventive methods.

The death rate from epidemic, paralytic disease of the heart, circulatory system, kidneys and liver has increased in both the younger and the older groups. The total deaths were 32,306 in 1911.

Next year the death rate from epidemic, paralytic disease of the heart, circulatory system, kidneys and liver has increased in both the younger and the older groups. The total deaths were 32,306 in 1911.

The health authorities are at it again. This time the common finger-bowl used by many patrons of a restaurant is turned as a disease-spreader. How about the common finger of the waiter?

nephritis has alone increased 84 per cent in thirty years. In ten registration States the death rate from these causes has increased 15 per cent in ten years.

In Massachusetts the death rate from cancer has increased 66 per cent in thirty years, and 31 percent in the last decade.

In the whole registration area, the death rate from external cancer alone has increased 35 per cent in the ten years from 1903 to 1910.

The increase in the death rate from maladies of middle life and old age is indicated in the general mortality rate in an increase beginning in Massachusetts and New Jersey in age group 40-44; in sixteen cities, group 45-54; in ten States, group 45-49.

The death rate of the total population, age forty and over has increased, 1910 over 1880.

In Massachusetts and New Jersey, thirty years, 21.2 per cent. In sixteen cities, thirty years, 25.3 per cent.

In ten States, ten years (1900-1910), 3 per cent.

What are the reasons for these fearfully increased rates of disease? According to Mr. Rittenhouse, they probably are: (a), the radical change in the American way of living; (b), the growth of luxury; (c), the increase of sedentary occupation; (d), the lack of proper precaution and preventive action.

But one simple remedial suggestion is offered by Mr. Rittenhouse to Americans of middle age—that they consult the family physician at regular periods for general examination.

NORFOLK'S TREE-PLANTING.

Every now and then that pleasant little town of Norfolk does something that Richmond, great and splendid metropolis that it is, might very well imitate.

Recently Norfolk has paradoxically put Richmond in the shade by planting some 1,200 trees. This is the achievement of the Beautifying Commission in the past twelve months.

Every now and then that pleasant little town of Norfolk does something that Richmond, great and splendid metropolis that it is, might very well imitate.

Every now and then that pleasant little town of Norfolk does something that Richmond, great and splendid metropolis that it is, might very well imitate.

MR. PINCHOT ON STATES RIGHTS.

The recent address of former Chief Forester Gifford Pinchot before the annual meeting of the American Forestry Association should have the commendation of all thoughtful citizens.

The duration of life has been shortened in this generation. Medical science is adding to the average years of life by its expert war on disease and its increasing knowledge of preventive methods.

The duration of life has been shortened in this generation. Medical science is adding to the average years of life by its expert war on disease and its increasing knowledge of preventive methods.

The duration of life has been shortened in this generation. Medical science is adding to the average years of life by its expert war on disease and its increasing knowledge of preventive methods.

On the Spur of the Moment.

By Roy K. Moulton.

From the Hickeyville Carion. Mr. and Mrs. L. Tibbitts are kept in a house now but they don't know how long they are going to be able to keep it, as they got it on the installment plan.

The Carion hasn't been able to scoop the sewing circle on an item of news in nine years and the editor is getting well discouraged.

Frank Purdy is some disappointed in his family. Three of his sons are in jail and the other four sons are in politics.

It doesn't seem as though those Montenegro soldiers with the short skirts could do much fighting in the winter.

No matter what kind of a heating system a feller puts in his house he will find he had put in some other kind if he listens to the neighbors.

Edmer Hackett is painting his hen-coop. If he had more such enterprising citizens this town would be a thing of beauty.

There is no satisfaction about being beat for Congress or Senator. A feller saves a good deal of money by staying at home.

Len Higgins has been out practicing on the fair grounds track this fall every day. He expects to run some low-browed village clerk next spring.

It ain't never possible to tell much about a fellow's mind and you will find it difficult enough to wear ear muffs and a yarn muffler.

Grand Opry. Grand opry as a form of entertainment can't be beat.

I love to cough in the good bones and buy myself a seat. To hear some howling tenor from abroad to hear some howling foreign land come forth and yell a lot of stuff that I can't understand.

I simply dote on listenin' for several mortal hours. While them high-priced sopranos land, within a mile of her home, and I think I get my money's worth, oh, yes, of course, I do.

VIEWS OF THE VIRGINIA EDITORS.

"Where is He At." A Washington correspondent to the Southwest Times of Pulaski, speaking of Hon. Henry C. Stuart, of Russell, says: "Henry C. Stuart, now prominently mentioned for the gubernatorial nomination, has always been aligned with the arm-machine forces and regarded as one of its leaders."

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics. The political poison appears to have inoculated the whole political machine and has become both contagious and epidemic.

THESE COLD WINTER DAYS. By John T. McCutcheon.

"Ship me somewhere south of winter, oh, it's there that I would go. Where there ain't no ten or twelve degrees of Fahrenheit below. For I hear the south a callin' and the southern breezes say Come you down to where the sunshine keeps the snow and ice away."

ever being more than two miles from her home. She sometimes visits the few neighbors who like themselves, live in primitive style, but she appears to have no desire to go farther.

An Appeal for Independence. We want to see in our county more homes and fewer hovels, more men and fewer dumb-driven cattle, who are controlled by the opinion of others.

"Richmond's White Elephant." Richmond seems to be afflicted with a very troublesome disease, which, for want of a better name, we may call politics.

Another Negro Song. Sir—I notice in your estimable paper of yesterday your editorial remarks on "Real Negro Song," also the communication on "Negro Chants," contributed by Comrade William H. Turpin.

Old Aunt Sally's Song. Editor Evening Leader. Sir—"Old Aunt Sally" was at her accustomed place of business on the sidewalk at the Market Place, with a stock of wild flowers of such dear, sweet things can truly be called wild.

Three members of the Board of Commissioners seemed to have formed a triumvirate and are running things in the interest of the clansmen of their own political school.

Abbe Martin. The outcome of the broil now on in our capital city will be watched with deep interest throughout the State.

Walking along the highway and musing in the lights and shadows, I come upon an aged dorky who is chopping wood. He is alone and seems so meek and patient in his task that I stop and engage him in conversation.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

With a faint smile and abiding, the mind may be all unlearned, but her heart is true and honest. Her words ever may be very limited, yet forsooth she may have more than all the wisdom of the ages.

National State and City Bank Talks SAFETY AND INTEREST Depositors of the National State and City Bank are reminded that all its patrons—in addition to the 3 per cent compound interest paid on savings—receive the unexcelled protection afforded by the conservative management of this institution, its Capital and Surplus $1,600,000, and the fact that it is subject to both State and Federal Government Supervision. $1.00 or more opens a savings account. 1111 East Main Street Richmond, Virginia