DON'T TAKE CHANCES!

Dressmakers say: "The Nemo gives you your best possible figure."

Physicians say: "The Nemo will preserve your health."

Heed this advice—BE WISE!

Nemo

LASTICURVE-BACK
SELF-REDUCING

No. 322—low bust $3.00
No. 324—medium

Any maker can put elastic gores in corsets; but only in the Nemo can you get gores made of Lastikops Cloth—the only elastic fabric in existence that will last.

Refuse all imitations!

The Nemo Lasticurve-Back lengthens the corset-skirt several inches in the back. It is laced down to the end; gives you a graceful "in-curve," spreads freely when you sit down, so that you're stylish and comfortable.

A Great New Idea Perfectly Accomplished

Designed for every woman of medium or stout figure who wants stylish, hygienic and long-wearing corsets at a price far below real value.

Other Popular Nemos For Every Figure $3, $3.50, $4 and $5.00

Ask Your Dealer—but don't let him sell you "something just as good"—

MILLER SCHOOL

(Special to The Times-Dispatch)

Miller School, Va., January 25.—On Saturday evening the Vawter Literary Society was highly entertained by the reading of an original story by Harry Olson, also with special music by the Male Quartette.

Dr. Martin of Charlottesville, preached a very able sermon Sunday morning.

Carl Harn, State Y. M. C. A. secretary, addressed the Y. M. C. A. Sunday evening.

Miss Roberta Fulton, recently returned home from Washington City, where she made an extensive visit to her friends.

Miss Mattie Sutherland has succeeded Miss Cullen as night watchman in the girls department.

The school board met here on Tuesday. It recommended twenty-two boys and twelve girls for entrance into the school.

Miss E. Schaefer left this week for Bedford City. She was a guest of Wm. G. Moran.

MISS ALICE DUDLEY POWERS
Daughter of the Rev. and Mrs. W. Dudley Powers, of Flint, Mich., whose wedding to Richard Lee Page, of Charleston, West Va., took place yesterday. She is a great-granddaughter of Robert Johnston, whose residence in this city stood about the center of the block bounded by Bank, Twelfth, Main and Eleventh Streets. On her maternal side she is a descendant of General Fielding Lewis.

Society seems to be moving South these days. Generally, the winters here are hardly of such severity as to make the progress of fashionable society South each season a regular event, but the customs and manners of New York's "Four Hundred" spread their influence all over the country, hence this annual exodus. In spite of the fact that dandelions and violets are in bloom, or rather have been in bloom, society is on the move and the larger part of fashionable folk here are either in Panama, Bermuda or Florida for a stay of at least several weeks.

A week from next Wednesday will mark the beginning of Lent and the close of one of the dullest seasons that has been passed in Richmond in many years. The fewest number of balls have been given and the married set has contented itself with small and informal affairs, with the guests rarely including more than three tables for bridge or six covers for luncheon. Like oases in a wide desert of nothing, much have been the few big receptions and the dances given by the two German clubs. The few debutantes that have come out this winter have been presented as a general rule at either house dances or receptions and all of these were well over before the Christmas holidays, leaving very little to be done for the weeks following.

The second dance of the Bachelor's Cotillion Club will begin in the ballroom of the Richmond Hotel on Monday evening and there will be a sort of burst of small entertainments later in the week.

Engagement Announced.
Mrs. Charles Comer, of Midlothian, has announced the engagement and approaching marriage of her daughter, Mary, to Robert A. Jackson. The wedding will be celebrated some time next month at Midlothian.

At the Samovar.
Some of those noted at the Samovar tea room this week were Miss Virginia Christian, Miss Emma Bray White, Miss Chloe Tyler Cooke, of Baltimore; Mrs. Walter Hubbard, Miss Ella Bue, Miss Elizabeth Hargrove, Miss Marie Day, Miss Martha Martin, Mrs. Ben Nash, Miss Ellen Ball, Mrs. Frank McCarthy, Mrs. H. Logan Gossan, Mrs. William H. Palmer, Jr., Miss Branch, Miss Allen Stokes, Mrs. A. B. Guigon, Miss Marie Cary, Mrs. W. J. Payne, Dr. Cowardin, of Hot Springs; Mrs. Adolphus Blair, Mrs. Edward Benson, Mr. and Mrs. Doolen, of New York; Mrs. Horace Buchanan, Miss Mary Boyd, Mrs. Parke Taylor, Miss L. Woods of the University of Virginia; Miss Elizabeth Selden, Miss Cary Williamson, and others.

Mr. Dawson's Lecture.
On the evening of Tuesday, January 22, the rooms of the Art Club of Richmond were crowded with guests to hear Warrington Dawson's lecture on the "Mission of Art." Miss Maria Blair, instead of introducing Mr. Dawson, welcomed him to his native land and congratulated him on his success in being able to hear his views on such a subject. Mr. Dawson emphasized the necessity of agreement as to what is art, since discussion is impossible until the same point of view is taken. That work requires the elimination of other subjects of art, be it painting, sculpture, literature or music, all being the expression of one impulse that we may not dispute in unknown tongues. By an honest effort a height can be attained to which different points of view converge. To reach that height one doesn't argue, one seeks, and through a struggle finds principles based on truth.

An artist should respond, perhaps subconsciously, to rules already acquired, yet his best work is done under the influence of impressions that cannot be bound by rules, an insubstantial something called inspiration. But nothing is more dangerous than to wait for inspiration, which comes most readily to the mind accustomed to hear and obey it, and that custom is acquired through hard work. That work requires the elimination of other subjects of art, be it painting, sculpture, literature or music, all being the expression of one impulse that we may not dispute in unknown tongues. By an honest effort a height can be attained to which different points of view converge. To reach that height one doesn't argue, one seeks, and through a struggle finds principles based on truth.

Certain failures are tolerated concerning art. One that artists are likely to be between an author who remains a nonchalance, that artists are impractical, that the artist must be worthy of his hire. It is estimable to do no work, it is estimable to suffer for it. An artist knowing his work to be good and a power for good should not allow sensitiveness to withhold him from endeavoring to obtain the market value for his wares.

The spirit of anarchy has invaded the domain of art, and among these anarchists are ranked so-called geniuses. Were their genius genuine it would not win sudden recognition, but rather endure the period of suffering attendant upon good work and obtain tribute late in life or after death. The reason is simple—the world has accepted certain ideas whose trend is toward growth; men arise, preach the old ideas, but more neatly than before, minds hear, believe and proclaim the talents of those who have opened new thoughts, when they are but a clever remodeling of the old. After the "clever strong" comes one with really new things to say and seeking for new forms to say them in, but minds are closed to his message, save the few who have gained the height, but yet seeking rather than arguing for emancipation and denouncing all other art as reactionary. With their help the message must spread surely, but, if the message be true, surely.

Says the Baltimore Sun of recent issue:

Miss Sarah Belle Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. W. S. G. Williams, and one of the debutantes of the winter, was guest of honor Thursday at two handsomely arranged entertainments. The first was a luncheon given by her aunt, Mrs. Walter Hubbard, at her residence on East Madison Street.

Mrs. Smith's guests included Misses Anna Pleasant, Hazel Margery Whyte, Ella Lea Thom, Rosamond Randall, Margaret Dorsey, Katharine Lee, Eliza Dancy, Ruth Martin, Louise Whyte and Sara Gibson.

In the evening Mrs. Robert Brown Morrison, another aunt of Miss Williams, was hostess at a handsomely appointed costume dance given at her house on St. Paul Street.

The guests numbered about eighty, including debutantes, some of the older girls and the dancing set of men. The costumes worn were unusual and handsome. A seated supper was served at midnight, after which dancing was continued until nearly morning.

Mrs. Morrison and Miss Williams were assisted in receiving their guests by the former's daughters, Miss Sidney Morrison and Mrs. Randolph Barton, Jr. Mr. and Mrs. Williams, Mrs. William T. Howard and Mrs. Walter Prescott Smith.

Preceding the dance Mr. and Mrs. Williams gave a dinner in honor of their daughter at their home, 701 St. Paul Street. The decorations of the table and the confections were all in the shape of yellow butterflies and lights were strung in amber and gold.

The guests included Misses Bessie Munnikhusen, Rosamond Randall, Margaret Dorsey, Eliza Dancy, Ruth Martin, Louise Whyte and Sara Gibson.

Navy Wedding.
Mr. and Mrs. Theodore William Noyes have sent out invitations to the marriage of their daughter, Miss Ruth Noyes, and Dr. Ralph Walker McDowell, U. S. N.

The ceremony will take place in St. Thomas Church, Washington, on Monday afternoon, February 11, at 4 o'clock.

A small reception will follow immediately at 1700 New Hampshire Avenue.

The bride's attendants will be her sister, Miss Elizabeth Noyes, and the bridegroom's sister, Miss Lillian McDowell, of Altoona, Pa., as maids of honor.

Lieut. John M. McDowell, U. S. A., will be best man for his brother, and the ushers selected are as follows: Commander E. R. Pollock, U. S. N.; Lieutenant-Commander C. E. Court, U. S. N.; Lieutenant-Commander W. F. Bricker, U. S. N.; Dr. Cary T. Grayson, U. S. N.; Captain Louis McCarty Little, U. S. M. C., and Dr. George A. Riker, U. S. N.

Meeting Monday.
St. John's Circle of King's Daughters will meet with Mrs. Talley, of 316 East Broad Street, on Monday afternoon, January 27, at 4 o'clock. A full attendance is requested.

During the month of February society will have on the social calendar three musical teas that will be given on February 12, 19 and 26 at 4 o'clock in the ballroom of the Jefferson Hotel. They are to be very smart affairs and the subscription list is limited and it is gratifying that Richmond is to have them, thus aligning herself with all cities of importance in the country, where the fashionable society looks forward each season to recitals of this character.

Mrs. Channing M. Ward and Mrs. Frank Duke are among the musical people in Richmond interested in these teas, and the artists who will take part in them include Miss Christine Miller, contralto; David and Clara Munnikhusen, sonata recital, violin and piano, and Mme. Corinne Rider-Kelsey, soprano. The musicians go from here to Washington, where they appear the following day at similar season teas at the fashionable Play House under the patronage of Mrs. Perry Belmont, Mrs. Marshall Field, Mrs. Preston Gibson, Adeline, Mrs. Decatur Axtell, Mrs. John T. Anderson, Mrs. M. St. George Anderson, Miss Effie Branch, Mrs. A. Blaine Blair, Mrs. John Stewart Bryan, Mrs. Jonathan Bryan, Mrs. St. George Bryan, Mrs. Malcolm Bruce, Mrs. V. C.
