LEWIS IDENTIFIED AS RICHMOND MAN

Arrested on Complaint of Woman, Who Says He Deserted Her.

Chicago, April 8.—Jack Lewis, detained here on complaint of Miss Ethel Newcomb, that after what purported to be a marriage ceremony he deserted her with jewelry valued at $3,500, was identified today by officers of a private detective agency as Walter E. Clark, of Richmond, Va. The agency and the Milwaukee police have been looking for Clark since last summer, as he is charged by the Temple-Little Rock, Ark., with the theft of jewelry worth $2500. According to the records, the alleged deserter met Mrs. Temple while promoting a mining scheme. She accompanied him to Milwaukee to be married, but stopping on way at Chicago he yielded to Clark's persuasions and purchased a large amount of jewelry. They had scarcely arrived in Milwaukee when Clark and the jewelry disappeared. The local jewelry firm which sold the ornaments to Mrs. Temple identified a photograph of Lewis as that of the young man who accompanied Mrs. Temple on her wedding tour.

According to Miss Newcomb, who lived formerly at Fort Wayne, Ind., she met and married Lewis in San Francisco and he deserted her in Portland, Ore. She recognized him Sunday night in a large cafe. He denied that he was Lewis, but is being held.

The Police Department and the Pinkerton National Detective Agency searched the records yesterday, but were unable to find anything about Clark.

Troops Ordered Out.

Buffalo, N. Y., April 8.—Justice Brown at 10 o'clock to-night ordered out the sixty-fourth and Seventy-fifth Regiments of the New York National Guard for duty here in suppressing disturbances incident to the strike of street car men.

FEW NOMINATIONS TO-DAY

Those of Pace and Osborne Probably Will Be Sent to Senate. Washington, April 8.—Among the few nominations to be sent to the Senate tomorrow probably will be those of Walter H. Pace, to be ambassador to Great Britain, and John E. Osborne, former Governor of Wyoming, to be Post Assistant Secretary of State. The President has not yet had an opportunity to make the usual inquiry of courtesy among the Senators of the States from which the appointees come, and this may prevent the names of the names hitherto announced from being sent to the Senate tomorrow.

Former Governor Osborne arrived to-day, and was a visitor at the State Department. He has long been an intimate friend of the President, having been Governor of Wyoming from 1892 to 1897, delegate to the Democratic National Convention in 1896, candidate for United States in 1899, a member of the Democratic National Committee, and otherwise prominent in Western Democratic politics.

CAUCUS WILL NOT BE OPEN TO PUBLIC

Plan, Supported by Prominent Wilson Men, Defeated by Vote of 167 to 84.

UNDERWOOD IN OPPOSITION

Impolitic to Bear Democratic Secrets to Hostile Republican Press.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Washington, April 8.—In a bitterly fought three-hour caucus of the Democrats of the House this afternoon, Representative Oscar Underwood demonstrated by a vote of 167 to 84 that any attempt by President Wilson to dictate policies to the House will not be tolerated. The question at issue was whether the Democratic caucus should be thrown wide open to the public, with Underwood and many prominent Democrats in opposition, and Representative Carlin, of Virginia; Henry of Texas, and other prominent Wilson men supporting the plan. Many bitter speeches were made, but after Underwood took the floor and made a personal plea against the "wide-open caucus" the tide quickly turned against the Wilson men, and they were beaten to the tune of about 2 to 1.

Representative Carlin, of Virginia, who has heretofore not been reckoned as an enthusiastic Wilson man, as soon as the caucus met introduced a resolution providing that the caucus should be thrown open to the public sessions of the House are public. He declared that President Wilson was in favor of the plan, as well as Secretary of State Bryan. He intimated that the President had expressed a desire for such action.

Representative A. Mitchell Palmer, chairman of the caucus, who two years ago opposed the open caucus, left his seat and took the floor to make a personal plea for the adoption of the Carlin resolution. He did not mention Wilson's name, but it was clear to those who heard him that he sought to convey the impression that Wilson was in favor of the plan. Representatives Sherley and Fitzgerald upheld the Underwood view. Sherley contended that it was impolitic to bare Democratic caucus secrets to a hostile Republican press. A caucus, he contended, was a private conference, and the rules already provided for all the publicity necessary.

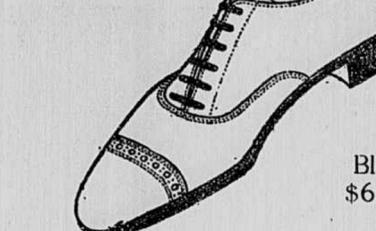

Another speaker, whose name could not be learned, charged that the open caucus was a scheme on the part of Wilson's friends to let the public know who was dissatisfied with the tariff bill.

A vote was on a motion to table and resulted 167 in favor and 84 against, with the result that no change was made in the caucus rules. Another caucus will be held to-morrow, presumably to consider the tariff bill.

Southern Railway Car Repairer Meets Death in Horrible Manner.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Danville, Va., April 8.—Tyree F. Ellis, Southern Railway car repairer, aged forty-five years, married and with a family, met death in a horrible manner here this afternoon, when, seated beneath a box car working on it, a switch engine coupled up and ran over his head.

Ellis had been working on numbers of cars during the day, and at 4:30 o'clock he was thought by the engine crew that he had finished his work, as a short while previous to the accident he was seen to crawl away. He pulled out from the accident, and a crowd of men hurried back to find Ellis beneath the car with his head cut in two. A coroner deemed an inquest unnecessary. Ellis was an old employe of the company, and his fellow-trainmen are utterly at a loss to understand why he went back to the car when it was apparently understood that the line of cars was to be moved.

Captain Sneed's Platform. Captain G. Sneed, who is a candidate for the House of Delegates from Giles and Fluvanna Counties, has published his platform. He favors "grade teachers" in sparsely settled localities where no graded schools are provided that United States Senators and members of the Corporation Commission should be elected by the people, stands for tax equalization, and favors the repeal of苛酷 and stringent fish and game laws.

Senator James Here. Former Senator Horer A. James, of Danville, came to Richmond last night.

Commissioner Bauserman in City. J. Bauserman, State Hospital Commissioner, was here yesterday from his home at Woodstock.

Judge Page Visits Richmond. Former Judge Rowen M. Page, of Abingdon, detaches yesterday to visit his son and daughter in the Southwest, spent yesterday in Richmond. He is a candidate for the office of collector of the State for the Western District of Virginia, which office he has held since the Ninth District is to be because of its inability to agree on a man.

CITY CLERK SUSPENDED. Promises to Make Shortage of $1,600 Good If Allowed. (Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Raleigh, N. C., April 8.—H. E. Glenn, city clerk, was suspended by Mayor Johnson this evening, following his confession that the sum of nearly $1,600 had been taken from the city treasury three different times. The board of Aldermen employed an expert accountant to audit the books last Friday afternoon, and Clerk Glenn related the thefts to the accountant to-day. He says his confession will make the amount good if allowed.

STUDENT ARRESTED. Held at Police Station on Charge of Robbing School-student. P. J. Carr, twenty years old, of Staunton, by Detective Sergeant Smith, arrested yesterday morning, and held at the First Police Station, where he is charged with robbing several of his fellow-students. It was learned last night that the case may be one which will be turned over to the local authorities, as the prisoner is alleged to have been a student at the time of the robbery, and his name is on a list of students. Carr was wearing a suit which A. W. Wheeler, also a student, said had been stolen from him.

BROTHER HERE TO HELP. Will Try and Have Fergus Released from Jail on Bond To-day. R. C. Peppers, of Huntington, N. C., brother of Frank T. Fergus, twenty years old, was arrested Monday with Mary Bowden, a ten-day-old infant, charged with kidnapping last night and announced his intention to try to get Fergus released from the prisoner. It is expected that he will try to have both his brother and the young woman freed by to-day.

Dies at His Home, "The Maples"

Miss Lucy Dodge, Granddaughter of Late John Bigelow, Returns Home.

MISS LUCY DODGE, GRANDDAUGHTER OF LATE JOHN BIGELOW, RETURNS HOME.

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.) Upperville, Va., April 8.—Joshua Fletcher, one of the most popular citizens in this section of the State, and who was widely known throughout Virginia, died at his home, "The Maples," Fauquier County, at 3 o'clock this morning. He was about sixty-five years old. Accompanied by the members of his family, Mr. Fletcher had returned only last Friday from Florida, where they had spent the winter, and he seemed to be in fairly good health. His death was rather sudden and will be a great shock to hundreds of friends in this and other States.

Mr. Fletcher was educated at Richmond as "The Carrington Club" and the late Judge Witt, of Richmond. After leaving college he returned to "The Maples," his ancestral home, and spent a long and useful life in that community. He was the fourth Joseph Fletcher to become a member of "The Maples" home. He was one of the most progressive citizens of the county and took a leading part in every forward movement for the development of his section of the State. He was greatly interested in the Upperville Horse Show, one of the best known of such organizations in the country, and had been one of its only four presidents.

Mr. Fletcher was married twice, his first wife having been Miss Lula Foster, a sister of Mrs. S. B. Witt, of Richmond. From that union there is one surviving daughter, Miss Mabel Fletcher. Later he married Miss Marion Carter, of Groveton, and she survives, with two children, Joshua and Robert Fletcher. The funeral will be held to-morrow afternoon from his late home.

MISSING WOMAN FOUND BY POLICE. Miss Lucy Dodge, Granddaughter of Late John Bigelow, Returns Home.

(Special Cable to The Times-Dispatch.) London, April 8.—Lucy Bowden, Dodge, granddaughter of the late John Bigelow, formerly United States ambassador to France, and familiarly known as "the Grand Old Man of America," who disappeared from her home, 44 Seymour Street, Portman Square, last Thursday, returned to her home late to-night, accompanied by Detective Sergeant of Scotland Yard, who has been working diligently on the case ever since it has been reported to the police.

After her discovery, she discovered that the girl, when she left home, had accompanied with a maid, was driven to a house in Shepherd's Bush, where her parents were away from home, and her father communicated with her late to-night over the telephone. Later the anxious father went to see her and urged her to return to her home, which she finally agreed to do.

Just before midnight, accompanied by her father and the detective, the young woman was driven to her home in a taxicab.

The young woman's mother told the correspondent of the International News Service to-night that Lucy had expressed a wish to do something useful in life, and with this in mind she chose a moment when her parents were away from home, and with the aid of her maid, packed her belongings in a trunk and two bags last Thursday and slipped away. She left a note wherein she told her parents not to worry; that she was perfectly safe, and that there was no love affair interwoven with her going, as she had never considered matrimony very seriously.

Her parents, knowing her mind, did not feel apprehensive over her disappearance, beyond a curiosity to know where she had gone. The last seen of her was when a passer-by noticed her stepping into a cab with another woman, who was later discovered to be her maid.

After her departure, she sent a letter from the Western district post office, in London, wherein she advised her parents again not to worry.

They inferred that the young woman had gone out in the world to earn her own living, and last Saturday they notified the authorities of Scotland Yard of her disappearance. Notices were also posted in the cab yards about town offering a reward for information of the driver who drove her from her home. The father at once began a thorough search for his daughter, which resulted in getting in communication with her to-night.

Miss Dodge is twenty-three years old and is one of the most beautiful girls in London society. She is tall and fair, with a wonderful mass of golden hair. She is well connected, and is a cousin of the first Lord of the admiralty, Winston Churchill.

Niece of Miss Grace Dodge. Miss Grace Dodge, who is in Richmond attending the Fourth Biennial Convention of Young Women's Christian Associations, of whose national board she is president, yesterday discussed the disappearance of her niece in London. She was "unable to account for the affair, not believing the missing girl had any entanglements of the heart, which could account for her departure from home.

TO FIND WHO GETS FARMERS' PROFITS

Independent Organization Begins Three Days' Inquiry in Chicago.

INDEPENDENT ORGANIZATION BEGINS THREE DAYS' INQUIRY IN CHICAGO.

Chicago, April 8.—Chicago housewives to-day paid 2 cents a pound for fresh cabbage. One South Water Street commission merchant paid $1.50 to $2 a crate; down in the Rio Grande County, on the Gulf coast of Texas, cabbage was rotting on the farms. The search for an answer to that problem prompted farmers, truck growers and agricultural experts from thirty States and Canada to start a three-day inquiry here to-day. Cabbage is only one of the products that is causing a shaking of heads. As Edward R. Kone, Commissioner of Agriculture of Texas, said, somebody else is getting the money for nearly everything that farmers grow. The meeting was called to find out who gets the farmers' profits.

Officially, the assembly is known as the National Conference of Farmers and Farm Credits. It is the first of its kind. It is independent of organizations, and came into being because of the loss of farm goods, farm experts and growers who had invested millions in land in the aggregate saw their products going to waste while the cost of living went up and the consumers paid the bill.

"The railroads aren't getting the money," said Kone. "At least, we think not. The farmer isn't. The consumer isn't getting the farm goods cheaply. He's hoarding about the high cost of living. Where does the money go? If to the middleman, we're after him."

Farmers Are Restive. Peter Radford, president of the Texas Farmers Union, said that farmers have long been restive under present marketing conditions.

"We are going after trouble in an organized way," said Radford. "We want to know why we get only 30 cents a bushel for potatoes when we sell for 75 cents to $1 a bushel here. That seems too big a profit."

Other States besides Texas are in revolt. Warren Dunham Foster, member of the Massachusetts Homestead Commission, told why New England is supporting the conference.

"Potatoes we raise on truck farms in Cumberland, Mass., are rotting in the fields," said Mr. Foster. "In the West, a town practically contiguous to Cummington, they sell for $1.50 a bushel. There seems to be need for co-operation between East and West."

Harry A. Wheeler, president of the Chamber of Commerce of the United States, welcomed the conference on behalf of Chicago. Colonel Frank P. Holland, permanent chairman, opened the session.

Sidney E. Mezes, president of the University of Texas, was unable to attend, and his address was read for him. In it the educator said 80 per cent of the people of Texas live on farms and that the State leads the Union in agricultural production.

Influence of System. "While some progress has been made in teaching the farmer how to grow more crops," the paper reads, "little has yet been done to aid him in getting fair prices for his produce. To illustrate the gross injustice of our present marketing system, I may point out the fact that at Laredo, Texas, in our onion growing district, one day a short time ago onions were sold for 2 cents a pound; the next morning Laredo onions were sold in the open market at Austin, Texas, at 15 cents a pound. In this transaction, as you will see, the commission man, the public carrier and the retail dealer divided 650 per cent of the price paid to the grower.

"Again, tomatoes were sold one day at 2 1/2 cents each in Palestine, Texas, and the next morning were sold at Austin at 5 cents each.

In each of the instances cited, the producer received only thirteen per cent of the final selling price, while eighty-seven per cent was divided among the railroads and the sellers.

The glaring injustice of such a system is made more apparent by a comparison with the results of co-operation in marketing farm products in Denmark. In that country the co-operation societies handle, sort according to size, and pack crates for 2 and 1 1/2 per cent; the shipping and selling cost for 4 per cent, leaving the farmer 92 1/2 per cent of the final price paid by the consumer.

"The need of co-operation in securing cheap money for the farmers in the Southwest is as great as the need of obtaining larger returns for his produce. In many places in Texas and Oklahoma, the farmer is yet obliged to pay interest of from 10 to 25 per cent, and even these rates are better than buying on time from the country merchant. In some sections without banking facilities, credit from the country merchant is the only resource.

"Four men with improved machinery and the help of science now produce as much food as formerly was produced by ten men. Where are the ten?" With this question, H. J. Waters, president of the Kansas Agricultural College, began his address on "Educational aids to organization."

One of the chief difficulties with the present system, President Waters said, is that the ten men forced out of the field of production have not found employment that is profitable to society, and how profitable it may be to themselves.

Delegates to the conference appointed various committees, which will report on Thursday, when a permanent organization will be effected.
