Opening of Mines. At a meeting of mining interests here to-day, it was decided to open up the mining mills at El Oro. All the employees at that camp were instructed to report for duty at once. The Blanton and Santa Gertrudis Mines, in Pachaca camp, have reopened again, and it is expected that the mines at San Rafael will open on Tuesday. Senator Alcocer, present Minister of Government, was appointed Minister of Industry to-day, vice Senator Moheno, resigned.

HORRORS OF ZACATECAS

BATTLE ARE PAINTED. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] El Paso, Texas, July 6.—"Whatever the report of the commissioners now attempting to settle the Villa-Carranza embargo may be," said James Ware, the American newspaper photographer who returned from Torreon to-day, "it is doubtful if the ranks and files of the followers of the Constitutionalist leaders will agree to accept the findings. While General Villa has been particularly discreet in the matter of discussing the differences between himself and General Carranza, his officers and the men in the ranks of his army are not so careful. They believe Villa has been shabbily treated, if not by Carranza himself, at least by members of his following, who had it in their power to throw obstacles in the way of Villa's march to Mexico City."

HIS SOLDIERS DEMONS

RATHER THAN MEN. "When Villa arrived upon the scene at Pimenton, an outpost of Zacatecas, and gave the order for an attack in force upon the almost impregnable positions occupied by the Federalists," said Mr. Ware, "his soldiers became demons rather than men, and fought their way over seemingly insurmountable obstacles and three hours later not only captured the city and all it contained, including munitions of war, but destroyed an army almost equal to theirs in number. The carnage was something frightful. The wounded were literally covered with dead, and bodies of men and horses lay in heaps in the streets of the city, where they were mowed down by machine-gun fire as the panic-stricken Federalists attempted to seek safety in flight."

"After being driven into the city, and finding that they could not hold it, General Barron's army was ordered to get away to the southward through the pass leading to Laguna de Guadalupe, and here is where the greatest loss of life was sustained. In the tortuous miles of narrow canyon, which constitutes the road from the southern gateway of Zacatecas to Guadalupe, the bodies of between 2,500 and 3,000 men were found between 3,500 and 4,000 men were found by the burying squads sent out by the Constitutionalist at the conclusion of the battle.

TASK IS GRUESOME

AND STUPEFIED. "The disposition of all the bodies was in itself a stupendous as well as a gruesome task. Nearly the entire Constitutionalist army, at least a portion of it not required in similar effort on other portions of the battlefield, and not including those sent in pursuit of the few Federalists who got away, was put to work burying and burning the bodies. Great quantities of lime were used in order to cause the quick disintegration and at the same time disinfection of the great masses of putrefying bodies. The mountains around and about the city of Zacatecas are honeycombed with mine openings of all sorts, and many of the Federalists, finding escape difficult, sought refuge in shaft pits and tunnels in the surrounding hills. The Constitutionalist, suspecting that the mines would be used as places of refuge, searched the mining district promptly after the city was given to cease firing, and thousands of miners were captured in this manner. "Other parties who had succeeded in cutting their way out were overtaken by other captured, or killed if they put up a fight."

any estimates as no statement of losses had been given out. He was loud in his praise of Villa's hospitalities. Without a word or even a suggestion from Warden McKenly, the prisoners signed their names, and in many instances volunteered to go before a legislative committee and tell how drink has wrecked their lives. The vote was taken on Independence Day, and was made public to-day.

An interesting phase of the vote concerns the women prisoners. Thirty-three out of a total of thirty-five were requested to sign the petition. Not one refused, and many volunteered to appear before a legislative committee and offer evidence in support of the argument that the liquor traffic is responsible for 70 per cent of crime.

HIS TEMPER CHANGES. Young Gifford Becomes Sullen and Will Not Talk to Friends. Albany, N. Y., July 6.—In order that he might not inflict harm to himself, the murder of Frank J. Clute, an Albany chauffeur, was searched at the jail to-day and a sharp-pointed knife was taken from him. Since he was returned to the jail on Saturday night he has been growing very sullen. Prior to the trial he was most amiable, and Sheriff Peasley says he was a model prisoner. However, on Sunday he refused to talk to any one, and today he called to console with him.

From now on there will always be a gate-keeper watching Gifford. Up to now this has not been done, for the prisoner originally was sunny-tempered, and he had an air of confidence that he was soon to be released, but all this is changed, and Gifford faces the prospect of remaining in jail for at least another month, and possibly longer, before he is admitted to bail. Gifford was so confident of acquittal that he still seems stunned by the disagreement of the jury.

"Break" by Mrs. Nicholas Longworth Causes Much Comment. London, July 6.—The London society has been discussing with much amusement the story of a "break" Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, formerly Alice Roosevelt, is said to have made at a dinner party the other night.

LONDON SOCIETY AMUSED. "Break" by Mrs. Nicholas Longworth Causes Much Comment. London, July 6.—The London society has been discussing with much amusement the story of a "break" Mrs. Nicholas Longworth, formerly Alice Roosevelt, is said to have made at a dinner party the other night.

Mr. Edward Carson, the "uncrowned king of letters," who is one of the lions of the season, has been much annoyed for some time by persistent statements that he will shortly wed a niece of Morton Frewen, the writer on political economy. This matter has never been mentioned in the presence of Sir Edward, but Mrs. Longworth cheerfully and in a voice clearly heard by all at the table, asked him at the dinner: "When is the wedding going to be?" "There is not going to be any wedding," replied Sir Edward, curtly and coldly.

Hamel's Body Is Found. Paris, July 6.—A body, which is regarded as undoubtedly that of Gustav Hamel, the English aviator who disappeared during a channel flight, was found to-day by fishermen in the sea off Hardelet. Hamel vanished six weeks ago, and the body, it was reported, was in too advanced a state of decomposition to allow it to be landed.

Famous French Aviator Dashed to Death in River Loire. Saumur, France, July 6.—Georges Legagneux, one of the best known French aviators, was killed to-day while attempting a double loop in the air. He had completed the second loop when the propeller broke as the aviator was finishing a glide on the wing, and the machine plunged into the river Loire.

Driver of Automobile Dies, Unknown to His Passengers. [Special to The Times-Dispatch.] London, Ont., July 6.—"You are going to pass pretty close to me," bugged George Mathewson, member of a motor party, said to John Shipland, a moment before the auto struck a vehicle which it had overtaken to-day, and car stalled after the bump, and it was a matter of minutes before the driver of heart disease.

IDENTITY OF MURDERED GIRL STILL UNSOLVED. Schenectady, N. Y., July 6.—The identity of the young woman whose dismembered body was found in the Mohawk River is as far from being known as ever. Detectives are hopeful though, that the discovery of the head and arm will eventually clear the mystery. It baffles the detectives to determine whether the victim was a young girl; there is no doubt of that. The teeth are in good condition. Four of the teeth are filled with gold. The hair is very black. The eyes are missing. The arm, cut from body at the shoulder, is small, and bears evidence of having been well rounded. The hand is small and beautifully shaped, but it baffles the detectives to determine whether the victim was a white to do young woman or a working girl.

It is quite well established in the minds of the detectives that the work of dismemberment was done by a surgeon or a butcher. An autopsy showed that no operation was performed on the murdered girl, and also that the head is not near here. A motive for the murder is missing. Chief of Detectives Flannigan said that it was a settled question that the murdered girl did not live in Schenectady or anywhere near here. "My opinion is that the murdered girl died far away from here, and the body in its dismembered condition was brought here," he said.

"We have asked the authorities in other cities to inform us of any missing girls in their jurisdiction. We are now without a single clue since the torso was found in the river on June 19. From the appearance of the body of the body thus far found, the girl may have occupied any station in life.

SUNDRY CIVIL BILL REPORTED TO SENATE

Measure Carries $111,413,300.06 in Appropriations as It Comes From Senator Martin's Committee. Washington, July 6.—The sundry civil appropriation bill, carrying $111,413,300.06, was reported to the Senate to-day from the Appropriations Committee by Senator Martin, of Virginia. The bill, which is made by the Senate committee amounted to $3,466,948.78.

The bill as reported by the Senate is less than the estimates for 1915 by $14,920,777, and is less than the sum for 1914 by $12,275,639.81. The Senate committee made one decrease in the House bill, striking out $150,000 for the commission on industrial relations, making the appropriation for that body $50,000 instead of $200,000.

Increases by the Committee. Among the large increases made by the committee are the following: $50,000 for a building at the Panama-Pacific International Exposition at San Francisco, in which to install the government exhibit; $250,000 for the Macdonough cemetery at Flatburg, N. Y., in commemoration of the victory of Commodore Macdonough on Lake Champlain; $175,000 for two new vesicles and equipment for the coast and geodetic survey and $237,849 for Hot Springs reservation, Hot Springs, Ark.

Other items of increase are as follows: Bureau of engraving and printing, $71,520 for salaries of employes other than plate printers and their assistants; $112,500 for plate-printers; $65,520, engravers' and printers' material.

The committee inserted an amendment of $11,000 for completing the construction of a public road from the southern end of the new highway bridge across the Potomac River to the Arlington Cemetery and for completing the resurfacing of the roadway between the United States government experimental farm and the Arlington Cemetery.

Pay for Income Tax Collectors. The following amendment relating to the pay of income tax collectors was placed in the bill: "That internal revenue agents appointed under the act of October 3, 1913, entitled 'An act to reduce tariff duties and to provide revenue for the government, and for other purposes,' shall receive compensation of not to exceed $7 a day, and for per diem in lieu of subsistence when absent on duty from their legal residence said agents shall receive, at a rate to be fixed by the Secretary of the Treasury, not exceeding $3 a day, and that internal revenue inspectors appointed under said act of October 3, 1913, shall receive compensation of not to exceed $5 a day, and for per diem in lieu of subsistence not exceeding $3 when absent on duty from their legal residence, compensation and per diem in lieu of subsistence shall be paid by the Secretary of the Treasury."

The Senate committee did not amend the provision in the House bill to the effect that no part of a particular appropriation of $200,000 for the enforcement of the antitrust laws should be used to prosecute any labor organization or farmers' union.

SENATOR SIMMONS WORKING FOR NORTH CAROLINA. Washington, July 6.—Senator Simmons, of North Carolina, discussed with the President a number of patronage questions to-day, hoping to be able to land places for North Carolinians. The judgeship of the Supreme Court of the district was one of the matters talked of. Senator Simmons believes that Representative Fou, of North Carolina, would make an acceptable judge if the President should conclude to name an outside man. If however, the President wants to give the place to a local man, Senator Simmons recommended Thomas Ruffin, a North Carolina lawyer, who has practiced law in the district for many years.

"Don't let anybody fool you into thinking that the Democrats will be beaten in the congressional and other elections in November," said Senator Simmons, in response to political questions. "The masses of the people of this country are with the administration, and will support it. The opposition just now is coming from certain big interests, and from a few men whose political aspirations will always confront the country. The Democrats will win the next House easily, by the time the election is held business conditions throughout the country will be prosperous, and the people will not wish to make a change. There is nothing fundamentally wrong with business in the United States to-day, and the rank and file of the people cannot be impressed with the idea that there is simply because a few large interests have been trying to create that impression."

ROME IS FILLED WITH PRELATES. Bishop McDonnell, of Brooklyn, Has an Audience With Pope—Monsignor Kennedy Recovering. Rome, July 6.—The news that Monsignor Kennedy, rector of the American College, is recovering from a severe attack of heart disease, was received with pleasure by Americans with whom the Philadelphia prelate is immensely popular. A fortnight ago, when his life was despaired of, his two sisters were called to the bedside, and arrived when the brother was rallying. The meeting was most affectionate.

Just now this city is full of American prelates, and many more are expected in the next few months. This year the dominant note in the Holy Father's conversation with visiting prelates has been the religious education of children. Bishop McDonnell, of Brooklyn, in speaking of a private audience at the Vatican, said: "The Pope's proverbial love for the young seems to have increased with the years. He told me that nothing is dearer to him than the news that a new school or new asylum for children has been opened. He firmly believes that religious education strengthens patriotism and purifies and ennobles ideals in every pursuit of life. He urged me never to forget the children of my diocese, and to send him frequent reports."

Bishop Hartley, of Columbus, told practically the same thing. He presented to the Holy Father many children and Miss Sullivan, and Mr. Vercamp, of Cincinnati, together with a number of friends of different faith. The Pope was most kind to all.

Bishop MacGovern, of Chayenne, departed after a fortnight's rest at Naples and Capri. Monsignor Fisher, of Philadelphia, is here visiting Monsignor Kennedy, and is stopping at the American College. Mr. and Mrs. C. Welch, of New York, have begun an auto tour of Italy. Riccardo Martin, the Metropolitan tenor, and Mrs. Martin, have gone to Rimini for the bathing season, where they expect to be joined by Geraldine Farrar and her mother. Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Richmond and Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Richmond, of Boston, have left for Lucerne. Lake Como is growing daily more popular with visiting Americans. Admiral and Mrs. Rodgers and Miss Rodgers are stopping at the Cornobio, where is also Robert Hichens, the novelist. Mr. and Mrs. John A. Lynch, of Boston, are at Cabanabia with a number of friends.

Mrs. Drexel Dahlgreen has gone to Rimini.
