The Army & Navy Official Gazette publishes the following dispatch from Gen. Grant to Gen. Halleck, ordering the latter to disregard Sherman's truce. It should have accompanied Halleck's

FORTRESS MONROE, Saturday, April 22, 1865. Maj. Gen. Halleck, Richmand, Va.:

The truce entered into by Sherman will be ended as soon as I can reach Raleigh. Move Sheridan with his cavalry toward Greensboro, North Carolina, as soon as possible. I think it will be well to send one corps of infantry also, the whole under Sheridan. The infantry need not go further than Daninfantry need not go further than Dan-ville, unless they receive orders hereafter to do so. U. S. GRANT, Lieut.-Gen.

General Grant, the day before he left the Chicago Fair, was obliged to capitulate to the ladies, who took him by storm. Mrs. Livermore said to him: "These girls are dying to kiss you—but they don't dare to do it." "Well," said they don't dare to do it." "Well," said the gallant General, "if they want to kiss me, why don't they? No one has offered to since I have been here." Instantly about a hundred fairies pounced upon him. He attempted a retreat, but in vain; he essayed to break through the rosy ranks, without success. Then, for the first time, he confessed himself vanquished, and calmly awaited the event. Never was such a man subjected event. Never was such a man subjected to such an ordeal. On came the maidens by squads, in file, or singly; they hit him in the forehead, pelted him on the nose, smacked him on the cheek, chin and neck. There must be dozens of kisses lying around loose hidden in the General's whiskers. During his terrible ordeal the hero of a hundred battlefields blushed until his face became almost purple. At last the girls were partly appeased in their "noble rage," and he escaped.

Capt. James R. Shaffer, well-known in the Army of the James as an efficient member of General Butlers's staff, died at the residence of his brother, Colonel John W. Shaffer, at Freeport, Illinois, on the evening of the 19th inst. He was a brave, enterprising and gallant officer, and was very popular among his old comrades, who will be much saddened to hear of his death. Captain Shaffer was about twenty-six years of age.

That the capital stock shall be called in, and paid in such instalments and proportions, and at such times and place, as the president and directors for the time being may require and designate, who shall give fiftee days' notice thereof in two or more daily papers of the city of Washington. And if any stock-holder, subscriber, their assignee or transferee, shall refuse or neglect to pay such proportion or instalment, at the time and place appointed, such stockholder, subscriber, transferee, or assignee shall, at the option of the president and directors, forleit to the use of the company all his, her or their right, title, and interest in and to every share on which such instalment as not been duly made; and fresh subscriptions may be opened for the same, in such manner as the by-laws may prescribe, or the president and directors may, at their option, commence sait for the same and recover against the holder of said stock for the amount of the instalment or respective.

kind soever, on land or water; and to make, execute, perfect, and conclude so many contracts, bargains, agreements, policies, and other instruments as the nature of the case shall or may require; and all such instruments, bargains, contracts, policies, or agreements, shall be in print or writing, and shall be signed by the president and secretary, or such other persons as the managers may appoint for such purpose, and shall be under the seal of the company: Provided, That said president and directors may, at their option and discretion, make insurance on such terms and conditions as to them may appear equitable, reserving the premiums, or appropriating and returning such portions thereof to the insured, as may to them appear conducive to the interest of the company and the insured, in such manner and on such conditions as may appear to them just and proper.

Sec. 1. And be it further enacted. That the president may appear to them just and proper.

Sec. 7. And be it further enacted, That the president and directors shall, on the third Monday in June of each and every year, divide so much of the profits of said company as to them may appear advisable, first deducting all expenses, and pay the same to the respective stockholders or their agents, duly empowered, in ten days thereafter; but the money received as premiums upon risks which remain outstanding and undetermined at the time of declaring such dividend, shall not then be considered as part of the profits; and, if the capital stock paid in shall be lessened by losses, no subsequent dividend shall be made or declared until a sum equal to said diminution shall have been added to the capital stock.

Sec. 8. And be it further enacted, That the stock of said company shall be transferred on the books of the company in such manner only as the by-laws of the company shall direct.
