"Rip Van Winkle"
 No play has enjoyed greater popularity than "Rip Van Winkle." It is the greatest success that Joseph Jefferson ever had and he played it for 25 years to packed houses.
 The play became so closely associated with the name of Jefferson that no other actor dared to compete with Jefferson's popularity.
 "Rip Van Winkle" has never lost its interest and drawing power, and after all these years is equally interesting to young and old.

WILLARD AND THE WILD WEST
 COMING TO SAGINAW, TUESDAY JUNE 2.
 Big, good natured, likable, Jess Willard, the man about whom more has been said and printed, than any other man who ever lived, in the same length of time, is coming to Saginaw, as the press agent says, "in the flesh himself—personally". He will be seen there in conjunction with The 101 Ranch Real Wild West, will ride a steel and rope a steer, but the real part of the performance that will be pretty much all Willard, is the boxing of three rounds with his boxing partner, Mr. Monahan. During the three rounds Willard will illustrate and reproduce the famous "26th round" that made him the champion of the world. Monahan is so near the same size as Johnson, his height is the same, his reach the same, his weight seven pounds lighter, that the exhibition of these two men will give one an excellent idea of "how it was done at Havana, and will show those not familiar with the "manly art" just how a prize fight looks.
