

COLLEGE SOCIETY SEEKS NEW HOME

ZETA SIGMA OFFICIALS TAKE OPTION ON PLACE—FACULTY ANNOUNCEMENTS MADE.

Zeta Sigma literary society of Alma College has evidently determined upon the purchase of a home in this city for a society house, and last Saturday officers of the society closed an option for the purchase of the Charles O. Ward residence at the corner of West Superior street and Lincoln avenue, which is now rapidly nearing completion.

The home that the society is seeking is the most modern and best constructed house to be built in Alma this year, and with its location, just two blocks from the college campus is regarded by the members of the society as having an ideal location.

The society is now opening a campaign among the old members of the organization to provide funds for the first payment on the structure and to provide a sinking fund for emergency purposes.

The desire of the society to secure a home for itself brought about a special meeting of the faculty of the college Saturday morning, at which the idea involved in purchasing a home for the society was approved.

Other important matters pertaining to the future of the college, which were opened up by the society's desire to secure a home for itself, were also gone into at the faculty meeting, and announcements in regard to a number of the decisions of the faculty were made following the meeting.

It was said that the faculty at an early date expects to prepare an approved list of houses where students may room, to provide a uniformity of agreement which will provide those conducting the rooming houses, a more stable contract with the students. President Crooks said when questioned, that this step was not being taken as an anti-profiteering method, as no rumors of profiteering had been heard in this connection, but simply to make for better conditions and more pleasant relations in rooming houses.

That the other men's literary society may be expected soon, to seek a home for itself, is seemingly anticipated in the announcement that freshmen will not be expected to live in society houses, and gives an indication that two or three years may find Pioneer Hall a Freshman dormitory.

The faculty also declared for a policy of having young women of the college, whose parents do not reside in the city, live in dormitories under college supervision, which seemingly raises a wall against the possible desire in the future of any of the women's literary societies seeking to secure a home for itself.

President Crooks suggested that an ideal condition at the college would be in having dormitories enough for all students, but that the college has not the right to expect sufficient funds for this purpose for some time, and intimated that the present development would be for the interest of the college, as it would tend to keep students at Alma and to bring old students back.

Forensic Activities Planned for Year

This year Alma expects excellent results in debating and oratorical activities in measure, because of the wealth of old and new material on the campus, but more greatly so because of the anticipated aid and coaching of Professor Hamilton, who since his admission to the faculty three years ago, has developed successful debaters and orators. Coming to Alma at the unsettled period after the war, Prof. Hamilton found the practice of oratory and debate in a deplorable state. Since that time his efforts have produced teams in both branches of public speech that have been worthy representatives of Alma College. Two years ago, in the triangle league Alma won one and lost one debate with Hope, the strongest debating organization in the M. I. O. A. Last year the judges turned an obvious victory for Alma's Affirmative team into a defeat. The Negative team, however, was more successful winning its contest with Olivet by a three to none decision.

Every student recognizes the fluency with which Prof. Hamilton handles the English language and accedes the drive and personality that characterize Alma's teams to constant association with the coach who has so adeptly mastered the art of public speech. Thorough and experienced coaching is indispensable to groups or individuals engaged in oratory, and this is one of the necessary requisites of which Alma boasts.
