

POETRY.

HOOD AND HIS VISITERS.
BY E. L. BULLWER.
Once on a time, when Sunny May
Was kindling up the April Showers,
I saw fair Childhood hard at play
Before a bank of blushing flowers.
Happy—he knew not whence or how;
And smiling—who could choose but love him?
For not more glad than childhood's brow
Was the gay heavens that laughed above him.

Old time came hobbling in his wrath,
And that green valley's calm invaded;
The brooks grew dry beneath his path,
The birds were mute the lilies faded;
A Grecian Tomb stood full in sight,
And that old time began to batter,
But childhood watch'd his paper kite,
Nor heed'd he one whit the matter.
With curling lip, and eye askance,
Guilt gazed upon the scene a minute;
But childhood's archly simple glance
Had such a holy spell within it,
That the dark demon to the air
Again spread forth his baffled pinion,
And hid his eyes and despair,
Self-tortured in his own dominion.
Then stepped a gloomy phantom up,
Hale, cypress crowned, night's woful daughter,
And proffer'd him a fearful cup,
Full to the brim of bitter water;
Says Childhood, "Madam, what's your name?
And when the belldame muttered "Sorrow",
Then cried, "Don't interrupt my game,
I prithee, call again to-morrow."

The muse of Pindus thither came,
And woo'd him with the softest numbers
That ever scattered forth and fame,
Upon a youthful poet's slumbers.
Though sweet the lyre and sweet the lay,
To childhood it was all a riddle;
"Good gracious!" cried he, "send away
That noisy woman with a fiddle!"
Then Wisdom stole his bat and ball,
And taught him with most sage endeavor,
Why bubbles rise, and acoos fall,
And why no toy may last forever;
She talked of all the wondrous laws,
Which nature's open book discloses;
But Childhood, when she made a pause,
Was fast asleep among the roses.
Sleep on, sleep on!—Pale manhood's dreams
Are all of earthly pain or pleasure;
Of glory's toils, ambition's schemes,
Of cherished love or hoarded treasure;
But to the couch where childhood lies,
A pure unmingled trance is given,
Lit up by rays from Seraph eyes,
And glimpses of remembered heaven!

THE NEWSPAPER.
Come: and light is on my brow,
And power is in my arm!
I come! oppression's surest bane,
And Freedom's sweetest charm.
I come! the captive's galling bonds
Dissolve before my ire!
And nations deep in darkness sunk
Are lighted by my fire.
I come! the pure and balmy air
Of Liberty I breathe;
For all who follow in my path
Bright Freedom's crown I wreath.
I come! and loose the fettered land,
As sunbeams melt the snow;
And gentle streams of freedom then
Throughout her borders flow.
I come! the widow's heart is glad—
Lone orphans now rejoice;
And praise the God who granted them
So powerful a voice!
Through me they speak—all wrongs are ill
Must then be heard—redressed!
For where I go hope follows me,
And fills each votary's breast!

CONNECTICUT SENATOR.—The Connecticut senate have confirmed the nomination by the house of representatives, of PERRY SMITH, esq., as a senator in Congress from the 4th March next, by a vote of 16 to 4. The majority in the house on the resolution of nomination was 48. The Hartford Times speaks of the new senator elect as follows: "We are highly gratified to learn that Connecticut is to have another undeviating and radical democrat to represent her in the United States senate.—The election of Mr. Smith shows that the doctrine of "strong men and strong measures" is popular in the state. The democrats of Connecticut universally approve of the stand taken in the senate by the honorable John M. Niles, and they have not misplaced their confidence by their choice of Mr. Smith, who will equally and boldly represent and defend their rights in congress."

Having exhausted the abolition and deposite question as the means of consuming the legislative time in speeches, personalities and political diatribes, the opposition leaders in congress have at last resorted to the desperate and disgraceful expedient of refusing to vote; then of demanding the action of the house as to its power of compelling them to vote; and then, if the speaker declines to arrest the call of the yeas and nays in order to open the door to intended interminable discussions, appeal upon appeal is taken from his decision, and thus, day after day is thrown away! The leaders in the game are the opposition "hedlamites" (as they are aptly named by one of their newspapers in New York.) Wise, Patton, Bell, & Co.

ARREST OF A MAIL ROBBER.—Mr. Shore, the Post-master, at Petersburg, Va., has recently succeeded in detecting the author of a mail robbery, in that neighborhood. A Baltimore paper says, "It appears that Messrs. E. James & Co., of Petersburg, made a remittance on the 19th ult., to a house in Richmond, consisting of 1000 dollars in cash, and a draft of $4000 which never came to hand. It now appears by the result, that this letter was abstracted from the mail, by a stage driver, named Burdick. By Mr. Shore's agency, who obtained a clue in some manner not pointed out, another driver named Hoffman, was seized at Richmond, on Sunday night last, and the money and draft found upon him. Hoffman, stated that Burdick had given it to him. The latter was arrested on the morning of the 6th, at Petersburg, and committed to jail whence he will be carried to Richmond for trial."

THE PUBLIC MONEY—THE SURPLUS—THE VERACITY OF THE OPPOSITION PRESS AND ORATORS.

For months past, the columns of the opposition presses have teemed with representations that the whole surplus in the Treasury was unemployed; that it was withdrawn from all use whatever; in fact, they labored to lead the people to suppose that it was tied up in bags or packed in boxes, and then stowed away in vaults, piled heaps upon heaps.

The same representations, or rather misrepresentations, have been made on the floor of Congress, and repeated over and over again. In fact, we learn that many honest and well meaning men have been led to believe in these statements, and to suppose that if Congress legislate in regard to the public moneys, this surplus, represented to be now locked up, will immediately thereafter be thrown into circulation; that money will be made more plenty; and that the prices of every thing will advance immediately.

Having obtained permission from the proper authority, we are enabled to lay before the public the aggregate condition of all the deposite banks at the time of their selection; and we give a comparative exhibit of their condition at that time; and of that about the first of May last, as shown by an official report made to the Senate by the Treasury Department. We confine ourselves merely to the items of loans on formal security and domestic bills of exchange, capital, and specie. They are as follows, viz:

When selected. May 1st.

Loans on personal security and domestic bills of exchange,	$53,138,990	$105,928,513
Capital,	34,167,995	44,724,210
Specie,	4,614,250	10,202,245

The line of "loans on personal security" has been increased by the purchases of sundry branches of the United States Bank by deposite banks on credit, to the amount of about three millions of dollars.

The result of the comparative condition of the deposite banks, at the time they were selected, and near the first of May last, is as follows:

Increase of aggregate capital,	$10,556,215
Increase of specie,	5,587,995
Increase of loans on personal security and domestic exchange,	$52,769,523

Deduct amount purchased from United States Bank branches on credit, 3,000,000

49,769,523

The amount of public money in the Treasury subject to draft, on the 6th day of May, we are informed, was $32,696,895. Now for results: The increase of capital to all the deposite banks since the first selection $13,556,215 Deduct increase of specie, 5,587,995

Making an increase of means from capital of, $4,968,220

The whole amount of money in the banks subject to draft on the 6th of May, 32,696,895

Amount of increased means from these two sources, $37,665,115

The increase of loans and purchases of domestic bills in the same time, 49,769,523

Surplus of investments on loans beyond the increase of capital on the Treasury deposite, $12,124,408

Let us particularize still more. The deposite banks have increased their capital in the aggregate since the first selection, about ten millions and a half of dollars.—They have increased their specie more than five millions and a half of dollars, or more than doubled it; they have increased their loans on personal security and domestic bills of exchange, almost FIFTY MILLIONS OF DOLLARS; while the whole amount of the Treasury deposite of the public money, subject to draft, and their whole increase of capital, deducting the increase of specie, is less than THIRTY EIGHT MILLIONS OF DOLLARS.

This is not all. The three deposite banks in the city of New York have left on special deposite with other banks in that city, between a million and a million and a half of dollars, to be loaned out by them to the community; so that the deposite banks have extended their loans to the community, either directly or indirectly, nearly FOURTEEN MILLIONS OF DOLLARS beyond the amount of the increase to their capital, since they were selected, (deducting the increase of their specie,) and the whole amount of the Treasurer's deposite! What becomes now of all this clamor about the surplus of the public money, locked up, as was represented? In what light will those who have made such representations, stand in the estimation of those whose hopes and expectations they have raised but for disappointment?

D. PRATT'S Artificial Nipple Shield.

FOR the prevention and cure of Sore Nipples. The following highly respectable certificates are deemed a sufficient recommendation for those who are afflicted in this manner to try them. From Doctor Wm. P. Dewees, late Professor of Obstetrics, in the Medical University of Philadelphia: Doct. ELIJAH PRATT: DEAR SIR: As I feel it a matter of much public importance, to possess a means of lessening the terrible sufferings from sore Nipples, I have much pleasure in being able to say, that the "Shield" you offer for the preventing and the cure of this malady, is better adapted to the purpose than any I have heretofore seen. In the two or three instances I have known them to be used, much satisfaction has been expressed; and I have no hesitation to believe it will generally succeed: I am so well persuaded of this, at this moment, that I cannot forbear to express a wish that our city, through the various Apothecaries, may be supplied with them. I am yours, &c. M. P. DEWEES, M. D. Philadelphia, Jan. 13, 1834.

From Dr. Thomas Seawall, Professor of Anatomy and Physiology, Columbia College, District of Columbia: WASHINGTON CITY, 4th Decr, 1834. Having examined Dr. Pratt's newly invented Nipple Shields, and witnessed its practical application, among my patients, I take great pleasure in recommending it as decidedly superior to anything previously known. It constitutes a perfect remedy for that distressing malady, Sore Nipples; a disease which so frequently afflicts young women. THOMAS SEAWALL, M. D. The above instrument is for sale, at the moderate price of $2.50 cents,—by WILLIAMS, HAYWOOD & CO. Raleigh, Feb. 1836.

Terms for board 15 dollars per month, $4 50 per week or 75 cents per day, children and servants half price. The subscriber deems it unnecessary to add any more, but will annex the following certificates. Professor Olmstead in his certificate says: The Spring contains first a small portion of Iron, 2nd sulphate of lime, 3rd sulphate of magnesia in large proportion. It does not contain any sulphur, nor maratic salts or alkaline carbonates. The spring when concentrated by dry weather may possibly exhibit appearances of sulphurated hydrogen, but does not when fresh. D. OLMSTEAD. Living within eight miles of the Hickory Spring, and its curative properties, believed to be efficacious in many complaints, I was induced to send a negro man to it, who had the appearance of being far advanced in consumption, evinced by pain in the breast, cough, and a profuse and offensive expectoration; he had used the water but a short time, when he was enabled to return to his daily labour, and an aggravation of symptoms has been successfully removed since by a second visit to the waters of the said Hickory Spring. I furthermore certify that I have no idea, he would otherwise have recovered. JOS. JOHN ALSTON. Having visited the Hickory Spring, and not contented with its medicinal properties, I feel it my duty to say that I deem its waters valuable for invalids, or persons in low health, to visit. It can give my family have received very considerable advantage from the use of the water, being in a low state of health before, and finding considerable relief by using the water. WM. C. CAMPBELL. There is a post office within two miles of the Spring and persons taking papers or receiving letters will be at no trouble in getting them, as the mail passes every Sunday morning, immediately by the Spring. The office is called Emmonsens Tan Yard. WM. BOWEN. June 9, 1836.
