Castor Oil.

She had her mind made up for two or three days that the boy needed some castor oil, but she knew that she must approach him gently.

'It's just like honey, my darling.' He seemed to doubt her word, and she continued: 'If you'll take some I'll let you go to the circus.'

'How much?' he cautiously inquired. 'Oh, only a spoonful, just one spoonful,' she replied as she uncorked the bottle.

'And you'll give me some sugar, besides?' he asked. 'Of course I will—a big lump.' He waited until she began pouring from the bottle, and then asked: 'And you'll give me ten cents, to?' 'Yes, of course.'

'And you'll buy me a shoody kite?' he went on, seeing his advantage. 'I guess so.'

'No kite—no kite,' he said, as he drew back. 'Well, I'll buy you the kite,' she replied, filling the spoon clear up. 'And a velocipede?'

'I'll think of it.' 'You can't think no castor oil down me!' he exclaimed, looking around for his hat. 'Here—I will, or I'll tease father to, and I know he will. Come, now, swallow it down.'

'And you'll buy me a goat?' 'Yes.' 'And two hundred marbles?' 'Yes. Now take it right down.' 'I can't promise that.'

'All right—no dog, no pig!' 'Well, I'll ask your father.' 'And you'll buy me a pony?' 'Oh, I couldn't do that. Now be a good boy and swallow it down.'

'Oh, yes, I'll swallow that stuff, I will!' he said, as he clapped on his hat. 'You may fool some other boy with a circus ticket and a lump of brown sugar, but it'll take a hundred-dollar pony to trot that castor oil down my throat!'

And he went out to see if the neighbor's cat had been caught in the dead-fall he set for her.—Free Press.

A Youthful Imagination Violently Checked. When Mrs. B. went home from shopping yesterday she entered upon a scene of thrilling horror being enacted in the back yard.

In the centre of the yard a dry goods box was in flames and the baby was lying in front of it squalling lustily from heat and fright. Down behind the currant bushes were two of the neighborhood boys, skulking around with painted faces, chicken feathers in their hair and bows in their hands, while her hopeful son had on his father's moccasin slippers, his cap turned wrong side out upon his head, and an old army gun in his hand. He was creeping along with evident murderous intent toward the roosters behind the bushes.

'What on earth is the matter?' cried the alarmed lady. 'Sh! sh!' said her hopeful; 'don't you see them Inguns has burned down Hawkins cabin and near y killed his baby, burned up the family, and I'm the Lean Wolf going to bring down vengeance on the sculps of the varmints!'

But in about fifteen seconds after, he went down to the wood-pile which he was the fat woman in the museum or the big medicine man of the Pawnees. He had been reading an Indian tale in a New York paper you see.—Atlanta Constitution.

Advice to Girl Who is "Finished." Josh Billings gives the following: Gertrude—You tell me that you have been 2 years at a boarding school, and have just finished your education, and wanted to know what you shall do next.

Litten, my gushing Gertrude, and I will tell you. Get up in the morning in good season, go down into the kitchen, seize a potato by the throat with the other, skin the potato, and a dozen more just like it, stir up the buckwheat batter, loik in the oven and see how the biskut are doing, bustle around generally, step on the cat's tail, and help yure good old mother git brokfast.

After breakfast put up the yure children's lanchon for skool, help wash the dishes, sweep sum, put things in order, suntime during the dan nit at least 2 inches an a half on sun—oc ov yure brothers' little blue woden stockings for next winter.

In other words go to work and make yur useful now that yu have bekum ornament al, and if yu have enny time left, after the beds are all made, and the ducks have been fed, pick into the pinna, and make the old rattle-box skream with musik.

Do this for one year, and sum likly yung fellow in the naberhood will hear ov it, and begin to lang around you, and say sweeter things that yu ever heard before, and finally will give yu a chance to keep house on yur own hook.

You follow mi advice, Gerty, and see if he don't. The Philadelphia papers take kindly to the suggestion that Andy Johnson's tailor-shop at the National Centennial next year, with the original sign-board hanging out, bearing the words, 'A. Johnson, Tailor.'

White Labor.

Southern papers now report that white men are laboring in the fields in many sections, and in every case with good results. The New Orleans Private Current says on this point that white labor, and particularly the participation of the planter or farmer himself in the labor of the field, has of late tended to shorten the period necessary for the cultivation of most of the crops of Louisiana, and that the application of science to farming which naturally follows in the wake of white labor, will not alone raise larger crops on a given area, but also improve the quality of the harvest.

The southern press cannot promote the interest of their people better than by keeping continually before them the beneficial results of white labor.—Washington Star.

A Toronto gentleman caught boys in his garden, stealing raspberries. He gave them their choice—he would either hand them over to police or lock them up in his cellar for two hours. They chose the latter, but just as he was about to put them in they gave the old gentleman a shove into the cellar, locked the door and quietly left the house. It was several hours before the gentleman got out, as the family thought it was the boys who were making a noise, and paid no attention to his out-cries.

It is a remarkable fact that while not a single ex-President of the United States is living, the wives of five ex-Presidents are alive, namely: Mrs. Polk, Mrs. Fillmore, Mrs. Tyler, Mrs. Lincoln and Mrs. Johnson. The Presidents, of course, all married women younger than themselves, but we must look to the fact that the women never busied themselves with the cares of State for a solution of this problem.

A pa who was looking at a house the other day, said he couldn't afford to pay so much rent. 'Well, consider the neighborhood,' replied the woman in charge. 'You can borrow flat-irons next door, coffee and tea across the street, flour and sugar on the corner, and there's a big pile of wool belonging to the school-house right across the ally.'

The difficulty between the United States and Tripoli was finally settled on Thursday last. An apology was made to the insulted American Consul in accordance with orders from the Porte. However, something appears yet to be wrong in the matter, as the Consul, at last accounts, was frightened and preparing to leave for Malta in the U. S. war steamer Congress.

If the Republicans should assert that the Democrats intend to abolish universal suffrage, or establish a 'Commune' after the Paris fashion, or engage in any other wild and fantastic undertaking, it would be no more slanderous and false than the allegation that the Democratic party is hostile to the public schools.—[Buffalo Courier (Dem.)]

Gen. N. P. Banks, the Hon. Alexander H. Rice, and Mr. A. Worth Spates of Baltimore have been selected by one thousand Massachusetts ladies to present mementoes of the late Bunker Hill centennial to ladies connected with the Southern soldiery from South Carolina, Virginia, and Maryland.

The Duke of Edinburgh has resigned to Germany his sovereign rights of succession to the throne of Saxo-Coburg-Gotha, and that country has become an Imperial province. The compensation which the Duke will receive has been stated as £70,000 or £80,000 a year.

Do you remember the fellows who used to come around at noontime and tease you for part of your dinner when you were a boy at school? Well, if you will trace them up you will find that they are the same chaps—only grown up—that now spend their time hanging around teaing to be elected to some office, that they may eat free of the public bread.

Twelve persons stopped at a hotel over night. On asking for their bill the next morning, they found it to be $12. The old men paid $4 each; the old woman paid $2 each; the young men paid 50 cents each. How many old men, how many old women, how many young men were traveling in this crowd?

Ralston, the president of the Bank of California, at San Francisco, which failed last week, suicided last Friday by drowning. He was too liberal with other folks' money.

Said a sable gen'tleman to his better half—'Nobber seed sich times since I been born. Work all day and steal all night, and blest if I can hardly make a livin'—Rome (Ga.) Commercial.

An Indian woman has sued her husband for divorce, on the ground of his keeping his head shaved so carefully that she has never yet been able to get a grip at his wool.

The peanut crop of the South was never so large as is promised this year, and every school boy's face ought to smile a foot long.

Adolph Storokomolrachofsky was lodged in a New Haven station-house the other night for drunkenness. When they had shut him up in his cell, the further end of his name was still trailing upon the street.
