

RATES OF ADVERTISING: Advertisements will be inserted in the CARBORO' SOUTHERNER at the following rates...

LOCAL MATTERS.

LOCAL MATTERS.—I will be at my office in Rocky Mount on Mondays, Tuesdays, Fridays, and Saturdays of each week...

GRAVES.—We hope they will not be "sour," figuratively. They were presented, aye, handed, by Misses Mary and Martha Adams...

BOY RECOVERED.—From the Roanoke News, we learn that the body of William Woodley, who was drowned in attempting to swim the Roanoke after he had struck Mr. John T. Ford...

BEAR FIGHT.—The population of Rocky Mount swelled into 1000 over the fight on Saturday between G. W. Smith's dog and A. P. Griffin's bear...

PAROXYSM.—Paroxysm seems to have gone out of fashion. Hence, the decline in the price of ammunition...

FINE AND CHEAP OVERCOATS, Tailors and Capes, for Men, Boys and Children, at low prices, at Whitlock's.

Happy, three blessed citizens of Edgecombe, to be able to sit by your firesides with the SOUTHERNER and tell where to buy the best goods.

Anna Dickenson has traveled 16,000 miles, "and never, even, had a man to wink at her."—Ex.

A large variety of Cloths and Cassimeres in all qualities, for pants or suit patterns, at Whitlock's.

Buy your heavy 4-4 Brown Sheeting your Cotton Yarns and your Sewing Machines at Battle & Son's Rocky Mount Mills.

Take the SOUTHERNER if you desire the news current in your country.

If you want a fine Overcoat or Tama, go to L. Heilbronner & Bro.

Clothing made to order and warranted to fit. Call and examine material, and prices, at Whitlock's.

The Danbury News man wants a good 5 cent cigar put on the market, and the Detroit Free Press desires 20 cents worth of chewing tobacco for 9 cents.

Why don't the Government issue to the "wards of the nation" in Edgecombe a 21 cent gungler?

A new lot of Silk and Fur Hats, Scarfs, Ties, Flannel and White Shirts, Boots, Shoes and Umbrellas, at Whitlock's.

The item of cotton rope for plow lines seems a small matter. In the aggregate it is worth keeping at home. Order from Battle & Son's Rocky Mount Mills, Rocky Mount, N. C.

SPRINGS SALOON.—Is again open. TAXES.—The Sheriff notifies, in this issue, all that are owing taxes to meet him at the appointed places and pay up.

LOST.—A solid line colored Pointer, about 10 months old, small and poor. A liberal reward will be given for his return to the SOUTHERNER office.

CHERRY'S GROVE.—Rev. J. W. Primrose, will preach at Cherry's Grove the 1st Sunday in every month at 11 o'clock, A. M., and at Rosemeath at 3 o'clock, P. M.

SEE.—Advertisement of Pool Bros. of Rocky Mount. They have reopened their place, one of popular resort, by their urbane attention and accommodation to guests.

FATAALLY BURNED.—We learn from the attending physician, Dr. J. H. Baker, that a little child of Jesse Lathan, colored, living on the Bell Place fell in the fire last Wednesday morning, and was so severely burned that it died in a few hours.

FARMERS, Carriage Makers, Carpenters and Machinists, will find it to their advantage to buy at W. G. Lewis' Hardware Store, TERMS CASH.

CAPITULARY.—Dr. Bogus Armstrong of Rocky Mount, was up before the Mayor Tuesday for putting a head on a man by the name of Southerland, charged with drawing a pistol on the medical gentleman.

THE POON MAN'S FRIEND.—Why? Because he sells goods within the reach of every poor man. What is his name? Every body knows A. W. Arrington of Rocky Mount.

Mrs. FELDENHEIMER'S Adv.—See the change in this ladies' adv'. She again comes before the public with a large supply of beautiful goods. She deserves and gets a full share of the public patronage.

AGUE ENDEMIC.—The largest water melon of the season was presented to our office on Saturday by J. R. Stator, Esq. If he had been a doctor we would have suspected something. There were enough agues and colic in that specimen to stock the town.

OUR APOLOGIES.—Our kind readers will excuse shortcomings this week, as the editor went to the Raleigh Fair on Tuesday. He promised to let our readers know something of the wonders next week.

A HANDSOME PRESENT.—Some ladies of Boston, through Mrs. J. D. Cumming, have just presented the Presbyterian church in our town with a costly silver communion service.

We go our hat on the ladies for doing a thing up nice. Country Merchants will find it to their interest to buy Hardware at W. G. Lewis' Hardware Store, TERMS CASH.

HOP AT EXHIBITION.—We were the recipient of an invitation, through the courtesy of our friend, Capt. J. J. Robertson, of the committee of invitation, to a hop at Enfield, on the evening of the 13th, complimentary to Mr. and Mrs. H. Bond.

Oranges, Apples, Raisins, French and Plain Candies, Crackers, Cakes, &c., &c. Just received and for sale by J. M. Spragins, oct. 15-11.

GRAVES.—We hope they will not be "sour," figuratively. They were presented, aye, handed, by Misses Mary and Martha Adams, with our thanks, they must know the fruit was as sweet as it could be.

BOY RECOVERED.—From the Roanoke News, we learn that the body of William Woodley, who was drowned in attempting to swim the Roanoke after he had struck Mr. John T. Ford, and thought he had killed him, was recovered on Tuesday 5th, after remaining thirteen days.

BEAR FIGHT.—The population of Rocky Mount swelled into 1000 over the fight on Saturday between G. W. Smith's dog and A. P. Griffin's bear. It was a drawn battle with odds in favor of the bear.

We have seen the row a brutal seven days. PAROXYSM.—Paroxysm seems to have gone out of fashion. Hence, the decline in the price of ammunition.

FINE AND CHEAP OVERCOATS, Tailors and Capes, for Men, Boys and Children, at low prices, at Whitlock's.

Happy, three blessed citizens of Edgecombe, to be able to sit by your firesides with the SOUTHERNER and tell where to buy the best goods.

Anna Dickenson has traveled 16,000 miles, "and never, even, had a man to wink at her."—Ex.

A large variety of Cloths and Cassimeres in all qualities, for pants or suit patterns, at Whitlock's.

Buy your heavy 4-4 Brown Sheeting your Cotton Yarns and your Sewing Machines at Battle & Son's Rocky Mount Mills.

Take the SOUTHERNER if you desire the news current in your country.

If you want a fine Overcoat or Tama, go to L. Heilbronner & Bro.

Clothing made to order and warranted to fit. Call and examine material, and prices, at Whitlock's.

The Danbury News man wants a good 5 cent cigar put on the market, and the Detroit Free Press desires 20 cents worth of chewing tobacco for 9 cents.

Why don't the Government issue to the "wards of the nation" in Edgecombe a 21 cent gungler?

A new lot of Silk and Fur Hats, Scarfs, Ties, Flannel and White Shirts, Boots, Shoes and Umbrellas, at Whitlock's.

The item of cotton rope for plow lines seems a small matter. In the aggregate it is worth keeping at home. Order from Battle & Son's Rocky Mount Mills, Rocky Mount, N. C.

SPRINGS SALOON.—Is again open. TAXES.—The Sheriff notifies, in this issue, all that are owing taxes to meet him at the appointed places and pay up.

LOST.—A solid line colored Pointer, about 10 months old, small and poor. A liberal reward will be given for his return to the SOUTHERNER office.

CHERRY'S GROVE.—Rev. J. W. Primrose, will preach at Cherry's Grove the 1st Sunday in every month at 11 o'clock, A. M., and at Rosemeath at 3 o'clock, P. M.

SEE.—Advertisement of Pool Bros. of Rocky Mount. They have reopened their place, one of popular resort, by their urbane attention and accommodation to guests.

FATAALLY BURNED.—We learn from the attending physician, Dr. J. H. Baker, that a little child of Jesse Lathan, colored, living on the Bell Place fell in the fire last Wednesday morning, and was so severely burned that it died in a few hours.

FARMERS, Carriage Makers, Carpenters and Machinists, will find it to their advantage to buy at W. G. Lewis' Hardware Store, TERMS CASH.

CAPITULARY.—Dr. Bogus Armstrong of Rocky Mount, was up before the Mayor Tuesday for putting a head on a man by the name of Southerland, charged with drawing a pistol on the medical gentleman.

THE POON MAN'S FRIEND.—Why? Because he sells goods within the reach of every poor man. What is his name? Every body knows A. W. Arrington of Rocky Mount.

Mrs. FELDENHEIMER'S Adv.—See the change in this ladies' adv'. She again comes before the public with a large supply of beautiful goods. She deserves and gets a full share of the public patronage.

AGUE ENDEMIC.—The largest water melon of the season was presented to our office on Saturday by J. R. Stator, Esq. If he had been a doctor we would have suspected something. There were enough agues and colic in that specimen to stock the town.

INSTRUMENT.—The physician to behold the sweet cherubs of Tarboro, their balm Indian summer afternoons disposing themselves in carriages on the streets and commons. Their noble mothers can get even the homely babies up so beautifully, as to make them pass current for first class angels, as compared with any other town in the State.

A MEDAL.—Citizens of Rocky Mount are freely subscribing to a medal, to be presented to the engineer of the down train on Saturday. He ran over and mashed into fragmentary detachments a black and tan pup. The town constable who collected the atoms, softly syllabled: Dear black and tan, thou hast left us, We thy presence gladly spare, Would the train that hath bereft us, Treat thy kin to similar fare.

Accompanied by his brother and Mr. Britt to the low grounds of Tar river, near the Hope Lodge farm, he separated himself from them, and strolling along the bank of the river, in search of game, saw some bats on the opposite side. Entering the boat with the view of crossing over, he placed his gun on the middle seat with the muzzle towards him. As he neared the opposite bank and the birds flying within inviting range, he reached forward and pulling the gun toward him, theammers came in contact with the side of the boat, and the contents of both barrels were lodged in the lower part of his breast. His companions heard his cry for aid, but mistaking it for a shout of exultation over a good shot, did not at first come to his assistance. Some half hour or more elapsed before his comrades discovered the terrible accident. The boat that held his mangled body, was seen floating quietly and calmly down the waters. Another boat was soon secured and the delicate and indelicately painful task of removing the agonized body to the farm house, and getting medical aid fell to their dutiful lot. "Accidents will sometimes happen. I know that I am mortally wounded—let me see my dear mother before I die," said our young friend. An account was given of the accident in the feeble voice of death. Messengers were speedily dispatched for Physicians, and for his mother, who little thought a few hours before how soon she was to lose the heart of her noble boy—how soon the anodous watchfulness of a mother, and the Physicians aid, were of no avail. A few hours of excruciating pain and the generous spirit of Robert Norfleet took its flight, and his lifeless body was tenderly removed to the maternal roof, amid his grief-stricken relatives and sorrowing friends.

GRIMES' DOG.—Which is sleep. Nature's sweet restorer. It sometimes restores to dust from whence he came. It happened thus. His name was Julius Washington. His complexion partook in equal parts of the hue of the pot and the kettle. A front view of his plump little doggie, the top of his head above his lip. This, his head, gently swayed in innocent ease on his noble bosom. His legs were small and his feet were large, and were encased in No 12 brogans. They dangled over the rim of the cart he was driving, and oscillated fitfully behind the mule. The quiet and dignified beast moved cozily on at his leisure. He dreamed of grabbing 'taters, and thrust his hands out. His pedals and manuals were too much for the gravity of his body, so the equilibrium was destroyed, and he tumbled down at the mule's heels, not relishing such familiarity, the mule kicked him on the part of the head left uncovered by his lip. The wheel ran over his No. 12 brogan upsetting and turning over the cart, which fell on and caught the other dozen.

"Oh, lordy!" gasped Julius, "I thought I was comin' to Tarboro to get gubgoring for Mr. Pippen, but, dear mother, I've come home to die."

CARSON THE RETAILER.—On Saturday last, U. S. Commissioner B. J. Keech had before him to answer for retailing without license, John W. Carson. He is an old offender in this way. Seems to have a mania for selling liquor without license.

If he should be presented with license he'd quit selling. This lacks several of being Carson's first trial for this offence. In fact he has caused considerable local celebrity as the great "crooked whiskey" man. He lives near Bethel just on the Pitt line. In the line of popular pulchritude Carson is not a success. As a handsome man, he is a stupendous failure.

He is about 5 feet high, and has been broken and crushed so much, that he has not a straight limb about him. His left leg is like unto the letter "Z". His arms resemble mule boards on a cotton plow, and his neck bears a striking resemblance to the crank of an old fashioned printing press.

Carson has been up before the Superior Courts of Edgecombe and Pitt numerous times, always for retailing. He can't conceive how a precarious subsistence could possibly be eked out in any other way in this vale of tears and slough of despair.

And he is not devoid of sharpness. On one occasion before Judge Moore, the evidence showed that he had sold five gallons of corn for 15 cents and threw in a drink of whiskey. This was at an association. It was computed that he sold a bushel of corn at these figures, and on similar terms.

A. P. Griffin, of Rocky Mount, was the State's witness. Carson thought it very hard a man could not sell the product of his own soil, sweat and toil, without incurring penalties. Judge Moore very humanely released him on faithful promises of reformation, as he had, according to his account a blind wife, an aged and decrepit mother, and 16 children dependent on his sales of grain.

TRIAL BEFORE MR. KEECH. Dep. Marshals Ed. Zoeller and Edward Pennington went down after him on the road. Pennington seized him, when a scuffle ensued, resulting in Carson's capture. He swore he'd kill the Marshal; would shoot him on sight, &c.

The evidence being clear, he was bound over to answer before the U. S. District Court at Newberne, on 4th Monday in October.

Chamberlain & Rawls are offering great inducements to purchasers of goods in their line. A splendid assortment of Clocks just received. A full line of 18K Rings, Vest and Opera Chains, cheaper than they ever offered before in Tarboro. Every thing else in their line "dirt cheap." Fine repairing a specialty.

New York Markets. NEW YORK, October 12.—Cotton steady; sales 845; uplands at 13 3/4; Orleans 131 1/4.

Baltimore Markets. BALTIMORE, October 12.—Cotton firm; middlings 13; low mid's 12 1/2.

DISTRESSING ACCIDENT.—A few months ago our community was shocked at the sudden and unexpected death of two beautiful girls, who were just budding into womanhood. The mournful intelligence of their sad and untimely fate caused widespread sorrow to prevail, and the countenances of all were shrouded in the mantle of regret. The grim messenger of Almighty vengeance has made us another sad visitation, and we are now plunged in grief over the accidental, and distressing death of one of our most useful and promising young men.

Robert Norfleet, a rising member of the Edgecombe bar, while out gunning on Monday evening last, lost his life by the accidental discharge of a gun in his own hands. The particulars, as we gather them, are briefly these:

Accompanied by his brother and Mr. Britt to the low grounds of Tar river, near the Hope Lodge farm, he separated himself from them, and strolling along the bank of the river, in search of game, saw some bats on the opposite side. Entering the boat with the view of crossing over, he placed his gun on the middle seat with the muzzle towards him. As he neared the opposite bank and the birds flying within inviting range, he reached forward and pulling the gun toward him, theammers came in contact with the side of the boat, and the contents of both barrels were lodged in the lower part of his breast. His companions heard his cry for aid, but mistaking it for a shout of exultation over a good shot, did not at first come to his assistance. Some half hour or more elapsed before his comrades discovered the terrible accident. The boat that held his mangled body, was seen floating quietly and calmly down the waters. Another boat was soon secured and the delicate and indelicately painful task of removing the agonized body to the farm house, and getting medical aid fell to their dutiful lot. "Accidents will sometimes happen. I know that I am mortally wounded—let me see my dear mother before I die," said our young friend. An account was given of the accident in the feeble voice of death. Messengers were speedily dispatched for Physicians, and for his mother, who little thought a few hours before how soon she was to lose the heart of her noble boy—how soon the anodous watchfulness of a mother, and the Physicians aid, were of no avail. A few hours of excruciating pain and the generous spirit of Robert Norfleet took its flight, and his lifeless body was tenderly removed to the maternal roof, amid his grief-stricken relatives and sorrowing friends.

GRIMES' DOG.—Which is sleep. Nature's sweet restorer. It sometimes restores to dust from whence he came. It happened thus. His name was Julius Washington. His complexion partook in equal parts of the hue of the pot and the kettle. A front view of his plump little doggie, the top of his head above his lip. This, his head, gently swayed in innocent ease on his noble bosom. His legs were small and his feet were large, and were encased in No 12 brogans. They dangled over the rim of the cart he was driving, and oscillated fitfully behind the mule. The quiet and dignified beast moved cozily on at his leisure. He dreamed of grabbing 'taters, and thrust his hands out. His pedals and manuals were too much for the gravity of his body, so the equilibrium was destroyed, and he tumbled down at the mule's heels, not relishing such familiarity, the mule kicked him on the part of the head left uncovered by his lip. The wheel ran over his No. 12 brogan upsetting and turning over the cart, which fell on and caught the other dozen.

"Oh, lordy!" gasped Julius, "I thought I was comin' to Tarboro to get gubgoring for Mr. Pippen, but, dear mother, I've come home to die."

CARSON THE RETAILER.—On Saturday last, U. S. Commissioner B. J. Keech had before him to answer for retailing without license, John W. Carson. He is an old offender in this way. Seems to have a mania for selling liquor without license.

If he should be presented with license he'd quit selling. This lacks several of being Carson's first trial for this offence. In fact he has caused considerable local celebrity as the great "crooked whiskey" man. He lives near Bethel just on the Pitt line. In the line of popular pulchritude Carson is not a success. As a handsome man, he is a stupendous failure.

He is about 5 feet high, and has been broken and crushed so much, that he has not a straight limb about him. His left leg is like unto the letter "Z". His arms resemble mule boards on a cotton plow, and his neck bears a striking resemblance to the crank of an old fashioned printing press.

Carson has been up before the Superior Courts of Edgecombe and Pitt numerous times, always for retailing. He can't conceive how a precarious subsistence could possibly be eked out in any other way in this vale of tears and slough of despair.

And he is not devoid of sharpness. On one occasion before Judge Moore, the evidence showed that he had sold five gallons of corn for 15 cents and threw in a drink of whiskey. This was at an association. It was computed that he sold a bushel of corn at these figures, and on similar terms.

A. P. Griffin, of Rocky Mount, was the State's witness. Carson thought it very hard a man could not sell the product of his own soil, sweat and toil, without incurring penalties. Judge Moore very humanely released him on faithful promises of reformation, as he had, according to his account a blind wife, an aged and decrepit mother, and 16 children dependent on his sales of grain.

TRIAL BEFORE MR. KEECH. Dep. Marshals Ed. Zoeller and Edward Pennington went down after him on the road. Pennington seized him, when a scuffle ensued, resulting in Carson's capture. He swore he'd kill the Marshal; would shoot him on sight, &c.

The evidence being clear, he was bound over to answer before the U. S. District Court at Newberne, on 4th Monday in October.

Chamberlain & Rawls are offering great inducements to purchasers of goods in their line. A splendid assortment of Clocks just received. A full line of 18K Rings, Vest and Opera Chains, cheaper than they ever offered before in Tarboro. Every thing else in their line "dirt cheap." Fine repairing a specialty.

New York Markets. NEW YORK, October 12.—Cotton steady; sales 845; uplands at 13 3/4; Orleans 131 1/4.

Baltimore Markets. BALTIMORE, October 12.—Cotton firm; middlings 13; low mid's 12 1/2.

GREENVILLE, N. C. Oct. 9th 1876. Mr. Editor.—Perhaps many of the readers of your valuable paper would like to know something about the trial of Perry Overton and Noah Taylor, charged with the murder of Nathan Grimes from the County of Edgecombe. Which murder occurred about the 31st of Oct. 1874. Messrs Chesler & Bridges appeared for Overton and Messrs Perry & Johnston assisted by the State's Solicitor appeared for prosecution. The trial of Overton commenced on Thursday of 2nd week and on Friday about 7 o'clock, P. M. the Jury brought in a verdict of guilty, and on Saturday evening about 11 o'clock P. M. His Honor Judge Moore sentenced said Overton to be hung on the 1st day of November, 1875, from which Overton appealed.

The trial of Noah Taylor, the negro commenced on Friday, the State was represented by Messrs Perry & Johnston and the defense by Messrs G. H. Brown, Jr., and J. H. Gordon. The Jury took the case about 10 o'clock Saturday evening, and were undecided up to Wednesday evening at 2 o'clock P. M., when the prisoner made a motion before his Honor to discharge the Jury on the ground that there was no possibility of an agreement, whereupon Judge Moore withdrew a juror and made a mistrial, and remanded the prisoner to County Jail of Beaufort Superior Court where he will again be tried for the murder of Nathan Grimes as charged in the bill of indictment.

CATAWBA, NASH CO., N. C. Oct. 7th 1876. Mr. Editor.—I visited the association in Edgecombe last Saturday and Sunday. I met with many of my old friends there. Everything passed smoothly and pleasantly. Elder P. D. Gold, and C. B. Hassell, preached to audiences on Sunday. The people numbered about five thousand. There were several ladies and gentlemen from Tarboro. I am sorry to inform you that Miss Nora Whitehead, was taken seriously sick on Saturday night, and died on Sunday. Her father, Mr. W. Arrington, has returned from New York, with a large stock of goods. Miss Mary E. Clark is on a visit to friends in this place. Rev. G. M. Duke will preach at the next Sunday. James G. Sills, of Philadelphia, has purchased the Mann gold mine and are making extensive preparations to work it. Several marriages are on the tapis, of which you shall be duly apprised. Yours &c. PLAIN STAFF.

NOTICE.—Again we have the pleasure to announce to our numerous friends and customers the arrival of our Fall and Winter Stock which we have now in stock and ready for inspection. Feeling satisfied that our stock is complete in every branch we invite the public to examine, respectively, L. Heilbronner & Bro.

P. S. We would particularly call your attention to our fine stock ready made Clothing for Boys and Men's wear, also to our extensive stock of Overcoats and Tailors. L. H. & B. H.

THE ROBERT AND UNQUESTIONABLY THE BEST.—It is not our custom to use the language of exaggeration when speaking of the performances of a troupe of Circus riders or the exhibition of a Menagerie but in these days it has become popular with showmen to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration when speaking of the merits of the European Menagerie and Circus which exhibited in this city yesterday, to entitle so much bombast in their advertisements and the contrast between their promises and their performances are so palpable that we feel impelled in view of that the language of exaggeration