An invitation is extended to all Methodists and Baptists to be in the service Sunday morning.

The Argus says of cases being heard before the supreme court at Fargo: The first case on for today, the Gardner against Gardner case comes from Grand Forks. Mr. Gardner went to Grand Forks as a linotype expert and afterwards was editor-in-chief of the Plaindealer. He secured a divorce while there, and his wife has appealed to the higher court. It is understood that the Mahken divorce case will be called for argument on Saturday. Mrs. Mahken was denied a divorce and she appealed the case to the supreme court.

The skeleton of the child of George Platzer was found on the top of a high butte about eight miles from its home at Cannonball last Saturday. The child was nineteen months old and last December while playing with other children was lost. It was supposed at the time that the child was stolen by the Indians and every effort was made to get some clue to its whereabouts. How the little one could ever have reached such an out of the way place and how it met its death will probably forever remain a mystery.

Jamestown Alert: The Bismarck Tribune says the rumor that General Washburn is likely to dispose of his railroad and land interests in Burleigh county to either the Soo or Northern Pacific is not well founded; that he will build, equip and operate the road graded this year as an independent road. The development of the coal industry is going to be the chief object of Gen. Washburn's efforts in the near future and great possibilities are looked for from this source of wealth. North and South Dakota are great fields for the extension of this industry.

MURDER CHARGED.

Coroner's Jury Returns a Verdict in the Death of August Stark This Morning.

Find that He Came to His Death from Blows and a Bullet Wound in the Head.

Jury Charges James M. Jenkins and Ira O. Jenkins with the Murder and They Are Arrested.

The coroner's jury that has been investigating the death of August Stark whose dead body was found in the Casino coal mine on Monday, March 19, this morning returned a verdict charging James M. Jenkins and Ira O. Jenkins, his son, with the murder of the deceased young man. The verdict of the jury was rendered after a full and careful investigation of the case. The formal verdict recites the fact of the inquest and that the deceased, August Stark, came to his death from blows inflicted with some weapon, the nature of which was unknown to the jury and from a bullet wound in the head, which passed through the brain of the victim and caused death. The verdict further states that the jury charges James M. Jenkins and Ira O. Jenkins with the crime of murder. The verdict was signed by D. J. McGillis, John Wray and William Walton as jurors and attested by Coroner White. Immediately upon the return of the verdict, Coroner White issued a coroner's warrant of arrest for the two men, who are still held in the county jail and they were placed under arrest charged with murder.

The two Jenkins have been under suspicion since the first discovery of the body by Coroner White, and the statements made by father and son to the coroner. Their evident confusion of detail and the manner in which they told their stories rendered them objects of suspicion as knowing more with reference to the case than they disclosed. Upon one of the principal matters in connection with the crime, the finding of the body, they were entirely at variance, and continued so in their testimony before the coroner's jury. One of them stated that the body was found Sunday afternoon by the two together and the other that it was not found until Monday morning, and by only one of the two men. Other circumstances are the variety of incident with which they garnished their stories. The fact that the young Jenkins and Stark were at Wilton Friday, and that Jenkins, according to testimony, was trying to get Stark drunk, with the intention, as he stated, of getting out of him some money that he (Stark) owed the Jenkins; the further fact that father and son came to Bismarck on the following day, and that the son was liberal in the spending of money at various places; their first denial of having had pistols and their subsequent admission of their possession, and the revealing of the places where they were hidden; the fact that one of the guns found bears the same calibre ball as that found in the head of Stark, and that it was loaded with a peculiar cartridge, which is the same as that taken from Stark's brain. And another peculiar circumstance is that both father and son, claiming that they thought Stark was killed with an axe or some such weapon, not knowing that he was shot, should have so carefully hidden the pistols about the place, when, as they say, they did not know Stark had been killed by a bullet. These are some of the circumstances that led the coroner's jury to render such a verdict as was found.

The two men were arrested on the coroner's warrant and arraigned before Justice Tibbils this afternoon. The finding of the coroner's jury was read by States Attorney Allen. The case was continued until April 7, in order to give the prisoners opportunity to secure counsel.

NORTH DAKOTA BARLEY. North Dakota land and products are being advertised extensively through the east. In a recent issue of the Grand Rapids, Mich., Evening Press appears the following:

In the summer of 1884, Capt. E. L. Crow of this city sold to Samuel K. Nester, the millionaire malster of Geneva, N. Y., what was then known as the Knred farm, comprising 9,000 acres of land, 2,000 acres of which were in cultivation, located near Valley City, N. D.

During the last two years he has disposed of 4,500 acres improved scattering lands at from $20 to $27.50 per acres, realizing the handsome sum of over $100,000, and still holds 4,500 acres of improved land, comprising the original farm, which will readily command with buildings, stock and equipments a quarter of a million dollars. The price paid for the whole in 1884 was only $150,000, and he has since produced from the farm from 50,000 to 75,000 bushels of barley and other grains yearly. Mr. Nester was the first malster in the United States to discover the superior merits of Dakota barley for malting purposes over barley grown in the eastern states or Canada, and first to manufacture and introduce Dakota malt into New York, Philadelphia and other eastern markets. At present date he manufactures over one million bushels of barley into malt annually. Mr. Nester is proprietor of and operates fourteen separate malt houses and is the only individual malster in the United States who has survived the combined attack of the malt trust and come out victorious. Mr. Nester attributes this wonderful success to superior merits of Dakota barley over all others for malting purposes.

MAKING TWINE.

First Product of the Twine Factory Finished and Ready for Balling and Shipment.

Aptitude of the Prisoners Who Have Been Broken in at the Plant Since Starting.

The first twine has been made at the state penitentiary plant. The first of the product was spun the middle of the week and a hundred or more bobbins were filled ready for balling. The plant is now running with a force of about thirty prisoners. Eight were broken in to various parts of the work yesterday and four more will be added today. The men show remarkable aptitude for the work. The first machines used in the preparation of the fibre, the breakers are now in charge of the first four men who were broken in last week. At first it was necessary for Superintendent Stiles to take charge of the machines, but the prisoners are now familiar with their workings and manage the machines well.

As new men are broken in the product of the plant will increase and the amount of the twine turned out greater. The work at the beginning is necessarily slow as men and machines both have to be broken in to the work.

Editor Winslip of the Grand Forks Herald made a visit to the plant yesterday in company with several residents of the city and brought back with him a piece of the finished twine as a souvenir. He was surprised at the magnitude of the institution and the general excellence of the plant, and says the people of the state generally have no proper idea of the magnitude of the enterprise.

Superintendent Stiles says he will need about seventy-five prisoners in the operation of the plant and hopes to have them all broken in and at work in the shortest possible time, that the plant may be run to its capacity if desired.

SMITH'S TYPEWRITER IS FIXED.

Oakes Republican: In the Republican office is an old Calligraph typewriter that has been in constant use for about seven years. It has sat around the office uncovered, where every summer breeze has filled its joints with the sands of the earth; it has been used for a waste basket, a cuspidor, a coal scuttle, it has worked nights and Sundays until this week when it went on a strike; it dropped stitches, lost time, its valves stuck and it refused to feed. We took it to Charley Andrews, the jeweler. He never saw the inside of a typewriter before in his life, but he went at it like a man who had done nothing else for a lifetime but make typewriters. He straightened the main shaft, built a new anaphragm, shortened the stroke, tightened up the screws, scraped off the mud, and inside of an hour returned it a new machine. Now it runs like a young boy going to a circus, and writes as fast as two men can think. We would have taken four dollars for it when we turned it over to him for repairs, but today we would not trade that old Calligraph for any new typewriter on the market.

HURST IS HANGED.

Convicted Murderer Hanged at Glendive for Murder of Cavanaugh this Morning.

Protests His Innocence of the Gallows, and Says He is Not the Murderer Claimed.

Joseph Hurst was hanged at Glendive at 2:30 o'clock this morning for the murder of Sheriff Cavanaugh at Glendive in December, 1898.

Hurst made an address from the scaffold protesting his innocence, and stated he was not the man who murdered Cavanaugh.

The Hurst case has been the most interesting in many ways in the criminal annals of Montana. The crime for which he was hanged was committed on Christmas eve. The dead body of Sheriff Cavanaugh was found, beaten and bruised, near a barn back of his residence on the following day. Circumstantial evidence convicted Hurst of the murder, although one witness testified that he saw Hurst following Cavanaugh a little while before the murder must have occurred. It transpired after the murder that Hurst had made threats against Cavanaugh. The two men had been rivals for the nomination for sheriff. Hurst had been heard to say, according to testimony, that if Cavanaugh were elected he would never live to take the office. After Cavanaugh's murder, Hurst was one of the principal candidates for the appointment to fill the vacancy and lacked only one vote of the board of commissioners for the appointment.

There was a number of other circumstances brought out in the trial that looked bad for Hurst. After his conviction an appeal was taken to the supreme court, but that tribunal held that the sufficiency of the evidence was a matter for the jury and refused to interfere with the finding of the lower court. Final appeals were made to Governor Smith, but he took the same stand and destroyed the last hope of a commutation of sentence.

Hurst was married and had a wife and children. By many he was well liked, and there were many who could not bring themselves to believe he had committed so cowardly a crime. He resided in Mandan for some time and was well known in Bismarck. Cavanaugh, the murdered man, had a brother living in Stutsman county.

CONTAGIOUS BLOOD POISON

Contagious Blood Poison is the most degrading and destructive of all diseases, as it vitiates and corrupts the entire system. The first sore or ulcer is followed by little red pimples on the body, mouth and throat become sore, the glands enlarge and inflame, copper colored spots appear, and hair and eyebrows fall out. These are some of the milder symptoms; they increase in severity, finally attacking the vital organs; the body is tortured with rheumatic pains and covered with offensive eating sores. It is a peculiar poison, and so highly contagious that an innocent person handling the same articles used by one infected with this loathsome disease, may be inoculated with the virus. It can be transmitted from parent to child, appearing as the same disease or in a modified form—like Eczema or Scrofula. Many an old sore or stubborn skin trouble appearing in middle life, is due and traceable to blood poison contracted in early life. You may have taken potash and mercury faithfully for two or three years and thought you were cured, but you were not, for these poisonous minerals never cure this disease; they drive it from the outside, but it is doing its work on the inside, and will show up again sooner or later. You may not recognize it as the same old taint, but it is. S. S. S. has cured thousands of cases of Contagious Blood Poison, and it will cure you. It is the only purely vegetable blood purifier known, and the only antidote for this poison. S. S. S. cleanses the blood thoroughly of every particle of the poison—there is never any return of the disease.
