CURATOR FISH IS INSPECTING TRAIL

Preparations are being made for a thorough inspection and survey of the Sibley trail, according to Curator H. C. Fish, of Bismarck. The trip over the trail will commence early in July and every means will be used to preserve for the future records of the famous march of General Sibley through North Dakota.

The march by General Sibley was made in 1862, following the horrible massacre of the settlers near New Ulm, Minn., by the Sioux Indians. Thirty-eight of the murders were hung at Mankato, the biggest hanging recorded. The settlers, however, felt that they were in too great danger of another Indian outbreak as long as the Indians were hovering along the Red River valley. Realizing the imminent danger the government dispatched Generals Sibley and Sully to drive the Indians westward. Sully took a northerly course, coming into North Dakota at Abercrombie. General Sully went into South Dakota, agreeing to meet General Sibley with his army at Bismarck.

Generally Sibley passed through what is now Jamestown, around Lake Jessie, went north into Nelson county and then south to Bismarck. Three battles were fought at Mound, north of Steele, at Dead Buffalo Lake, north of Dawson and at Stony Lake. At Big Mound Dr. Webster was murdered in cold blood by the Indians.

Curator Fish said that he found an old Indian squaw on the Standing Rock reservation, who had been with the Indian war party when the big hanging at Mankato occurred. Asked about it, she refused to say anything, shaking her head ominously and saying that she feared the hangmen. Superstition in her case is very pronounced, it now being over 50 years ago that the Indians were hanged.

 One of the most elaborate and pretty weddings which has taken place in any of these parts for many moons was enacted at the home of Mr. and Mrs. J. E. Sharp, 12 miles north of Sterling at 2:00 p. m. Wednesday, June 13, when their only daughter, Miss Sadie Rae, was joined in wedlock with Mr. Jacob Stern.

The young bride appeared in an exquisite crepe de-chene gown, looking ost beautiful and accompanied by Miss Hendrickson of Mandan, acting as bridesmaid. The groom was neatly attired in a blue serge suit, his brother accompanying him as best man. Over a hundred of their many neighbors and friends from far and near were in attendance to wish the couple future happiness and join in the reception and very sumptuous dinner that followed. Nearly three hours were consumed in seating and serving the five score and more of guests to the many delicious viands, after which the younger people retired to the spacious bowery, that had been erected for the occasion, where dancing and joy reigned supreme until an early hour. Chicken sandwiches, ice cream, cake and lemonade were served at midnight, followed by music and singing participated in by all, soon after which, the merry throng departed for their respective homes with a fond and lasting memory of this grand event. THE HEAVIEST CANNONADE EVER HEARD IN AMERICA

In the July American Magazine the fiftieth anniversary of the battle of Gettysburg, which comes on July 1, is celebrated with a unusual description of the battle by Edgar Allen Forbes. Coming to the third day of the battle Mr. Forbes writes in part: "The great hour of Gettysburg is at hand—the hour of the evening sacrifice. The cannoners on Seminary Ridge are grouped behind a hundred massed guns, facing another hundred on Cemetery Ridge, a mile distant. Pickett, his long black hair falling about his shoulders, rides up to Lee and reports that his division is ready. Longstreet also is there, moody and silent, but inwardly rebellious. An order from Alexander, chief of artillery, sends the cannoners to their posts behind the cruel engines of death. Two puffs of smoke and flame shoot out from the Washington Artillery, and the work of hell begins with solid shot and shell on both sides. For two long hours the overture continues in a deafening roar—the heaviest cannonading ever heard on the American continent."

"The fire of neither side does any serious harm to the sheltered infantry, but the shells scatter death and destruction among the batteries, where the sound of exploding calibrons alone drowns the pitiful neighing of wounded horses. At 'the Bloody Angle, where Pickett's blow is to fall heaviest, here is what is happening: "Lieutenant Cushing, of Battery A,

ROYAL BAKING POWDER

 The only Baking Powder made from Royal Grape Cream of Tartar

Fourth U. S. Artillery, challenged the admiration of all who saw him. Three of his limbers were changed with the caisson limbers under fire. Several wheels were shot off his guns and replaced, till at last—severely wounded himself, his officers all killed or wounded, and with but cannoners enough to man a section—he pushed his gun to the fence, and was killed while serving his last canister into the ranks of the approaching enemy."
