INDUSTRIAL EXPOSITION. Bismarck, North Dakota. October 7-19.

IS THIS YOUR MOTTO? C. P. Stine.

Not what the Commercial club and the city will do for me, but what I can do for Bismarck through the Commercial club. Think this over.

THE FLAG!

The American flag began with thirteen stars; now it has forty-eight. It floated first over one-tenth of the territory of the present United States. I now protects the best part of the American continent.

The larger the country grew the stronger it was, and the prouder its people of their flag.

Every new star typified a combination of states, not in restraint of trade, but in favor of its extension. Thus was a monopoly created by the greatest republic on the face of the globe, whose starry flag is hailed with cheers by an undivided nation of nearly 100,000,000 people.

We have been celebrating the fiftieth anniversary of the decisive battle of Gettysburg. While every patriotic heart offers its homage to our colors, let us, in this reflective moment, not only give thanks that the nation was saved in its integrity by the God of battles, says Leslie's Weekly, but let us learn that its salvation imposed a solemn obligation upon the people—an obligation to respect the Constitution, to venerate the faith of the fathers, and to turn with contempt from those who would undermine the foundations of our government under pretense of conferring greater power upon the people.

It would befit the nation, at such a time, to seek a new consecration to the ideals of the fathers and to resolve more strongly than ever to maintain the principles that represent not only human rights but property rights. Let us leave no door open for the intrusion of the black-handed anarchist with a red flag in one hand and the motto, "No God, no master," in the other.

This nation needs a revival of patriotism, pure, unselfish and undivided.

Let the statesmen rule!

THE PEOPLE SATISFIED.

Never in the history of North Dakota has there been as little political agitation as there is this summer. To be sure, this is an off year, but with the primary election law in vogue heretofore state politics have been discussed the year around with the exception of this summer.

For weeks the newspapers of the state have not mentioned politics and it can be predicted that the present administration of state affairs must be giving satisfaction. Then, too, North Dakota has prospered greatly in the past few years as a commercial and agricultural state and men of ability who heretofore have been seeking prominence in political life have found that their time could be used more profitably in regular business pursuits.

The glare of office holding in North Dakota has lost its lustre and every campaign is finding fewer candidates in the field for political promotion. The primary system has made state campaigns both burdensome and expensive, and those who have had the experience of holding state offices have found that there has been no financial profit in the venture.

North Dakota, however, has been fortunate in the past in selecting men for places of public trust and the pages of the history of the state contain but few blots of misplaced confidence.

Since Hon. L. U. Hanna has become governor he has been extremely cautious in selecting men for appointive places, and as a result every department of the state is now in the hands of competent men, and North Dakota has promise of receiving the best business administration the state has ever had.

APPRENTICESHIP AND INDUSTRIAL TRAINING.

That apprenticeship is the main reliance of industrial training in Germany, and that it might be desirable to revive it in some form in this country, is the conclusion of Dr. Holmes Beckwith, who has prepared for the United States Bureau of Education a study of German industrial education and its lessons for the United States.

"Wasteful though the old apprenticeship was of the apprentice's time and effort, apprenticeship in its newer forms, both in Germany and the United States, has in it much of promise for the future training of industrial workers," says Dr. Beckwith. "No better way, or even as good, has yet been devised for the main training of the mass of industrial workers than in the shops where they are employed and by those who supervise their work."

Dr. Beckwith suggests that if all employers pay the cost of adequate training for any youthful workers whom they may employ as apprentices, the burden will not be serious. He points to instances both here and abroad to prove that "firms employing bona fide apprentices today find that their apprenticeship system pays."

Revival of apprenticeship alone will not solve the problem, however. "What we should strive for," declares Dr. Beckwith, "is such broadening industrial training as will supplement the narrower range of skill and knowledge, and give the specialized worker greater resource. Specialization is probably more widespread in the United States than in Germany, and this constitutes an added need which we have for industrial education greater than that in Germany."

"Industrial schools, then, we must have, and in far greater numbers to meet the needs of far more workers than at present. Otherwise we can make little claim to really popular education of the sort closest to the worker's activities."

Dr. Beckwith notes the present awakened interest in industrial education in the United States, but issues a word of caution. He fears that unless the vocational movement is carefully guided it will lead to waste of money by states and cities, and unwise choice of schools to do the work. He describes in some detail the German industrial education system and typical schools, with a view to presenting the best of German experience as a guide to American practice.

Another Mexican general is going to "march on Jaurez." There have been so many marches—with a few counter-marches—that Americans have given up in despair the effort to remember who is in control of Jaurez.

Gettysburg's population is only 4,000, but it can claim that it once had the biggest crowd with gunpowder ever brought together around the Fourth of July.

It is explained that the ice strike is sending up the price of smoked meats. Bacon seems to have become the ration of the foot supply.

BIRTHDAY ANNIVERSARY

John C. Banner, the new president of Leland Stanford, Jr., University, was born in New Market, Tenn., July 4, 1850. He graduated from Cornell in 1874 and for a time was professor of geology in Indiana University and later served as State geologist of Indiana. He was geologist of the Imperial Geological Commission of Brazil, special botanist in South America and has held positions under the Geological Survey of Pennsylvania and Arkansas. He has been professor of geology at Stanford university since 1892 and during that time has served at intervals as acting president and vice president of the university. Last year Dr. Banner was the recipient of the Hayden medal of the Philadelphia Academy of Natural Science, which is considered the highest scientific honor in the geological profession.

News of the State

A heavy windstorm in Divide county exacted a toll on one life.

Fargo people have taken to the horseback riding habit in bunches.

There has been some fast time made at the races at the Interstate fair.

The Totzke-Smith horse shooting case is again on in the courts at New England.

The Great Northern will spend $1100,000 in improvements at Minot and vicinity.

The Grand Forks Y. M. C. A. will clothe a site on Red river for a permanent camp.

Capt. Frank Henry has been named to succeed Alex McDonald as land commissioner.

Beginning July 12 most of the stores in Fargo will close on Saturday afternoons.

In the vital statistic report issued by the state the stork leads over the grim reaper.

The Barnes county fair will open Monday. There have been some fine entries of stock made.

Valley City is infested with a gang of chicken thieves. And this while the chautauqua is being held.

Grafton held a short term of court without any jury cases being called. Grafton always was a good place.

At the Valley City chautauqua "Corn" was pronounced the keynote for better farming in North Dakota.

C. R. Fifley of Milton fell into a grain bin, sustaining several serious bruises. He will be out in a few days.

Bowman county is short, so it is stated, $5,564.00 in the treasurer's office. An investigation will be made by the state department.

In a fight between two Greeks at Minot one of the pugilists had an ear bitten off. When Greek meets Greek then comes the tug of war.

"Bill" Callahan, who said "he needed the money," got 15 days in jail at Fargo for stealing a cigar clipper. He had tried to pawn the article.

Governor Hanna will be present at Bathgate on the 30th to deliver a short address and get more fully acquainted with the people of Pembina county.

Today—the Glorious Fourth—will be celebrated in a number of towns and villages throughout the state by fireworks, band concerts and many sporting events.

At the request of Glea Ullin parties Judge Nye has issued a restraining order against the Northern Pacific company from raising their tracks through the village.

According to the statements of acquaintances of H. A. Crutten, the Inkster man who committed suicide Saturday morning, a broken engagement was the cause of the deed.

Seventeen-year-old locusts discard their outer covering by splitting it up the back; this seems to be also the last involuntary performance previous to discarding the two-year-old nymph.

Carl Christensen, a claim holder, was struck by lightning, near White Earth, the bolt burning his right arm and leg. He was taken to the hospital at Williston and is recovering rapidly.

Friends of Dr. J. J. Rellly of Minot will circulate a petition for a pardon for the condemned man who is now serving time at Bismarck. It is said by many that there was sufficient evidence to prove his positive guilt.

The North Dakota Methodist conference camp meeting at Jamestown attracted over 1,000 permanent camp visitors, about 200 families being camped at the grounds set aside for this big religious event, the greatest conducted in the state.

Albert McQuinn, a carpenter, employed by Contractor Larson of Bismarck on the new school house at Steele, was overcome by the heat and fell from the scaffold while putting on a cornice two stories and a half from the ground. He was seriously injured.

The Northwestern Flax & Fiber Co. will be ready for business in Grand Forks about the middle of this month. It was expected that the new firm would be ready for business this week, but owing to a number of unavoidable delays the machinery did not arrive.

Great Northern crews of carpenters reached Bowbells this week to begin the erection of a depot, coal chute and other structures at this point. Bowbells having just been put on the Great Northern system through the construction of the Niobe extension to join the Grand Trunk railroad at Northgate South, at the international boundary line.

The state railroad and warehouse commission will meet in Fargo July 8, 9 and 10, and at that time the matter of intrastate rates to and from Fargo will be taken up. All arguments for reduced distance tariff rates will be heard by the commissioners on the second day of the meeting and it is expected that there will be several commercial clubs over the state represented at this hearing.

STERLING

The Misses Wichter and Ellsworth were arrivals from the Exposition City Thursday to spend a few days at the Ellsworth domicile while celebrating the 4th at McKenzie.

Judge Nelson is wearing a smile and buying the cigars "cause its a boy, a coming ball player, and both mother and son are doing nicely.

Mrs. Emma Nierling arrived home from Jamestown Tuesday after an enjoyable two weeks spent with friends.

Jim Jam Jems got a trifle the worst of it in their "second round" by two counts. The judge raised the jury's ante by four years. But we will continue to read Jim Jam Jems just the same.

The Sterling Orchestra went to Wing Saturday night in Ray Meyers auto, and played for a big benefit baseball game in the Wilsey hotel given by the manager, Jim Marek.

Jim is having his troubles as manager too, so he says. Their resources are slightly deficient (as all ball team's finances are) than as usual there are a number of "hammers" out.

Mrs. P. Random arrived home from Barnesville, Minn., Saturday after a good visit with her sister, Mrs. Tweeton who will arrive here later to spend the summer.

Mrs. J. M. Lash and children of Bismarck visited with her parents, J. L. Baker and family, Sunday and Monday.

Harl Wright is progressing rapidly on his large new barn that will be one of the biggest and most modern structures in this vicinity when finished.

E. G. Bowen, state agent of the First National Life & Accident Insurance Co., of Bismarck, motored thru here Thursday from Steele in his Ford roadster. The Capt. reports a large amount of business done for his company, while making every town villa overland.

Mrs. M. H. Nelson was a passenger to the Capitol City Saturday to remain a week or so, while the judge batches.

Miss Florence Manly and R. W. Eggs drove up from McKenzie Tuesday night to visit the former's parents.
