LONG DISTANCE WALKER IS HERE

Fred Callahan, aged 28, weighing 135, and about 5 feet tall, arrived in Bismarck yesterday on his return trip from Frisco to New York. He is undoubtedly the smallest midget yet to have crossed the continent on foot.

He left New York City March 28, alone, and walked to Frisco, by the way of Omaha, St. Lake and Reno. He left Frisco Sept. 3 and expects to reach New York some time in February. He made his return by the way of Portland, Spokane and Bismarck, and has followed wagon roads and trails the entire distance.

Upon his own initiative he is making the trip, for the purpose of being able to publish a comprehensive guide book for the benefit of tourists which will contain exhaustive material relative to roads, hotels and garages. He has provided for his expenses by selling his photos and post cards enroute. In nearly every city the hotels have supplied him with meals and lodging for the attending he will give them in his guide book. The only mishap he has met with was the loss of his dog, which was stolen from him in the west. He has not been ill or laid up a day, and looks hale and hearty. He has taken some interesting views enroute and has a great many adventures to relate.

In coming to Bismarck from Mandan yesterday he walked across the Missouri river, and is no doubt the first person to make the attempt here this year. He advises not to attempt it, for the ice is very thin and it is, indeed, a risky undertaking, but he said he was afraid of being caught by trains on the bridge. He will leave here today, headed for Fargo.
