

A "Tango" Gossard Corset at $7.50

Extreme indeed is the latest Gossard Corset. Women who ride, dance, golf, motor—who insist on absolute freedom above the waist—can have it in this model

For lounging, afternoon or evening wear, it is simply ideal. Such freedom and lithe, sinuous lines will captivate you, as it has the women of Chicago and New York.

Made in sizes 20 to 24. Extends just above the waist line, and the skirt is medium in length. Three elastic sections permit the utmost freedom of movement. The abdominal curves just the slightest bit and the waist is natural

A fitting today in this model will tell you the entire story better than we possibly can. It will also prove again our just claim of being the "Corset Style Center of Bismarck"

Made in dainty figured batiste and priced at $7.50

Farmers Union To Build A Flour Mill In The Capital City

Bismarck will soon have a real flour mill—one that will grind the farmers' wheat and give them the finished product, less the small amount necessary to be retained in order to defray the actual expenses of milling the grain. This matter was definitely decided at a largely attended and very enthusiastic meeting of Bismarck Local No. 1, Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, held Saturday afternoon, when it was unanimously voted to incorporate a co-operative milling and warehouse company for $10,000, stock in the concern to be sold only to members of the Farmers' Union, the price of the shares being fixed at $10, no member to be allowed to hold more than 20 shares. An even thousand dollars worth of the stock in the proposed co-operative company was subscribed by the members attending the meeting yesterday afternoon, and a committee, composed of J. W. Burch and W. E. Breen, was appointed to solicit further subscriptions among the members of the union throughout the county, as well as donations from other sources. Those who are not members of the union will be given an opportunity to donate toward the enterprise, and the material co-operation of the Bismarck Commercial club will be solicited by the committee within the next few days. That Bismarck needs a flour mill that will give farmers a square deal has long been conceded by practically everyone who knows anything about the local situation, and the movement started yesterday afternoon by the members of the Farmers' Union will undoubtedly meet with liberal encouragement, both from the business men and from the farmers. The proposed mill will not be a large one, but it will be large enough to supply the local demand for flour

JAMES CURLEY HOLDS 2 JOBS

Boston, Mass., Jan. 31.—To Have and "to hold" should have a place on Dr. Elliot's "six-foot shelf" in the opinion of James H. Curley, who on Monday is to succeed John F. Fitzgerald as mayor of the city of Boston. Mr. Curley admits that he is not strong on the literary staff, but the title of the popular novel is one that appeals to him. It's equivalent to the good old motto of "Get all you can hold on to what you get," in the opinion of the mayor-elect of the city of Boston. Curley, like many other Americans who have risen to prominent positions in the service of their country, began his career as a delivery boy. As he grew to manhood his ambition prompted him to seek a broader field in which his ability and genius as a mixer might have ample opportunity for further development. So he became a bartender. Again he emulated the example of many great American statesmen who have used the bar as a stepping stone into politics and public life. Before he was quite old enough to vote Mr. Curley was a person of considerable political influence in his neighborhood. For the past 14 years Mr. Curley has held public office, advancing through the political ranks from the common council, through the lower house of the Massachusetts legislature, the board of aldermen, to the national house of representatives and finally to the office of chief magistrate of Boston.

In all these years "Jim" Curley has never met defeat. And in all these years he was never known to relinquish one job until he saw a better one in sight. And whenever it was possible, he held two jobs at the same time. To his official duties he has ever attended with faithfulness and punctuality. He was never known to be tardy or absent on pay day. Even the personal discomforts and distractions experienced during months in the county jail, an experience that might cause the ordinary man to forget what he owed the community or what the community owed him, did not cause Mr. Curley to swerve for a single moment from his duties as an office-holder. During the entire period he drew his salary with strict regularity.

Now that he has received the highest honor that the city of Boston can give a citizen, Mr. Curley, unaffected alike by the praise of his followers or the criticism of his foes, keeps the simple motto of his life before him. Regardless of the fact that the present mayor of Boston has broken down under the burdens of his office, unmindful of the opportunity to lighten his own burdens, thinking only of the duty he owes to the city and the nation, to Mr. Curley and Mrs. Curley and the four little Curleys, the Hon. James H. Curley has decided that he will hold onto his old job as congressman after he takes his new job as mayor.

An ordinary man would lack the courage to assume the heavy responsibilities of holding two such important offices at the same time, one in Boston and the other in Washington. But the man whom the citizens of Boston have elevated to the highest office is not an ordinary man. Even his bitterest political enemy has never accused "Jim" Curley of lacking courage or nerve. In the present situation he sees his opportunity to serve his fellow men. His presence is needed in congress to aid the opposition to the forthcoming immigration bill. He does not mean to shirk his duty—he will remain, and meanwhile, true to the motto of his life, will draw down $10,000 a year as mayor of Boston and $7,500 a year as a representative in congress.

HUNDREDS OF WOMEN nowadays are entering the professions or business world and go to work day after day in bad health, afflicted with some female ailment, dragging on foot year after year, the other, working with an eye on the clock, and wishing for closing time to come.

Women in this condition should take Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound, made from roots and herbs. It has brought health and happiness to more women in America than any other remedy. Give it a trial.—Adv.

BISMARCK LODGE, NO. 1018, M. B. A., will hold their regular meeting at the K. P. hall Monday evening, Feb. 2. Meeting will be called at 8:15 sharp. All members are requested to be present; a social time after meeting.

CHICAGOANS TO GO TO CHURCH. Chicago, Jan. 31.—Tomorrow will be Chicago's first "Go-to-Church" Sunday, and if the expectations of the promoters of the movement are realized every church from Hegewisch to Evanston and from the western prairies to the lake front will be filled to its utmost capacity at every service. The "Go-to-Church" movement was begun by the Christian Endeavor Union early last December and later was taken up by the ministers and church organizations. During the past few weeks committees have made a house-to-house canvass of the entire city. Squads of workers have visited the factories and workshops, retail and wholesale stores, the police and fire stations, and have asked the employees to attend church tomorrow. Leaders of the movement hope to fill every church in the city. At each of the services an appeal will be made from the pulpit that the observance of the Sabbath become a weekly, instead of an annual event.

RUB RHEUMATIC ACHING JOINTS
Rub pain away with a small trial bottle of old "St. Jacobs Oil"
Rheumatism is "pain only." Not one case in fifty requires internal treatment. Stop drugging! Rub soothing, penetrating "St. Jacobs Oil" directly upon the tender spot and relief comes instantly. "St. Jacobs Oil" is a harmless rheumatism cure which never disappoints and can not burn the skin.
"Linger up! Quit complaining! Get a small trial bottle of "St. Jacobs Oil," from any drug store and in just a moment you'll be free from rheumatic pain, soreness and stiffness. Don't suffer! Relief and a cure awaits you. "St. Jacobs Oil" is just as good for sciatica; neuralgia; lumbago; backache; sprains and swellings.—Adv.

Resolution

Adopted by Bismarck Local No. 1, Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, on the death of CHAS. FERRIS:
Whereas, it has pleased Almighty God in his infinite wisdom to remove from our midst our loyal brother and active co-worker, Chas. Ferris; therefore be it
Resolved, that we extend to the family of our departed brother our heartfelt sympathy in this hour of their deep bereavement, and assure them that their grief is our own. And be it further
Resolved, that we, the members of Bismarck local No. 1, Farmers' Educational and Co-operative Union of America, show our appreciation of the sterling qualities of the deceased member of our local, the first to be stricken by the hand of death, by attending the funeral in a body. And be it further
Resolved, that a copy of these resolutions be spread upon the minutes of this meeting, that a copy be sent to the widow of the deceased, and that copies be furnished to the local newspapers for publication.

PRIMARY PETITION BLANKS AT TRIBUNE

Prospects are that there will be a great number of candidates for state legislative and county offices all over the state for the coming primary election, and the only way these candidates can get their names on the ballots is by petition to the secretary of state, if for a state office, or to the county auditor if for a county office. The Tribune has just placed in stock a large quantity of the petition blanks for the 1914 campaign, ruled and printed to conform with the features of the primary election law. These blanks also contain the candidate's affidavit, and have been passed upon by legal authorities as the best blanks of the kind published in the state. One dollar a dozen is the price of these blanks, but in larger quantities there is a reduction for cash. Mail orders will be sent out promptly.

A Farmer's Logic

Two farmers were discussing the advantages of a bank account from a farmer's standpoint. "But," said the first, "I am so far from town it is inconvenient for me to come in to do my banking." "All the more reason," his companion replied, "why you should have an account. When you have a check to deposit simply endorse it over to the bank and mail it to them. They will credit and receipt you. Then when you buy anything, pay by check. That's the way others pay you. That's up-to-date business. Is the argument not logical?"
