EVERY GUN AND ROUND OF AMMUNITION IN EL PASO IS SENT ACROSS THE MEXICAN BORDER

Washington, D. C.—According to the few external signs regarding the effect of the presidential proclamation Tuesday, revoking the order against the shipment of munitions, the task of chasing "gun runners" will be greatly reduced.

Secretary Garrison said he would be guided entirely by the recommendations of General Bliss at El Paso in making any change of the disposition of the troops. At present he has not considered the feasibility of making any reductions in the force.

Mexico, Mex.—Students in the capital made plans to hold a public demonstration today against the American government but the governor of the federal district, acting under instructions from Huerta, announced last night that no anti-foreign demonstration would be permitted.

Although newspapers continue to print bitter articles dealing with the lifting of the embargo by President Wilson the public generally has not yet displayed interest on the subject.

COUNTY WILL BUILD TRUNK LINE ROADS

work can be done and the roads be better maintained.

The directors of the Bismarck Commercial club are to be congratulated on the results expected to be attained by the appropriation of these funds, as they have been agitating this matter some time, believing it to be to the best interests of Burleigh county, and the resolutions passed yesterday is a direct result of their request at the last meeting of the commissioners that the road fund be handled in this way.

At the afternoon session a number of bids were considered for the purchase of galvanized culvert material, which the board contemplates distributing throughout the county the coming season, and which may entail an expenditure of from $2,000 to $4,000.

Bids were opened from eight different concerns, six of whom had representatives who appeared before the board and explained their bids. All of these bids were somewhat different in detail, and it will probably not be till today's meeting that the board will be able to determine which is the lowest and best bid. Those submitting bids were:

Berger Manufacturing company of Minneapolis, the Minneapolis Steel and Machinery company, the Marshall-Wells Hardware company of Duluth, the Gilbert Manufacturing company of Aberdeen, the Northwestern Steel and Iron company of Wabpeton, the Klauer Manufacturing company of Dubuque, Iowa, the North Dakota Metal Culvert company of Fargo, and the Hennepin Bridge company of Minneapolis.

The board also allowed a number of bills for the past month, and will probably be in session a greater part of today.

TWO BANKS APPLY.

Washington, D. C., Feb. 4.—The First National bank of Paso, and the Ramsay County National bank of Devils Lake have filed applications with the secretary of the treasury to join the new federal banking system.

EUROPE RUINS LIVES OF AMERICAN GIRL STUDENTS

Evil Influences Have Bateful Effect Says Young Woman

"Stupid, foolish and ruinous" are some of the terms used by Alma Gluck, grand opera star, when discussing yesterday the practice of sending American girls abroad for vocal education.

Mme. Gluck, who gave a recital yesterday afternoon at the Studebaker under the direction of P. Wight Numann, already has earned the cordial dislike of various European cities by her out-spoken condemnation of their student life.

"I was not born in America," said Mme. Gluck yesterday in the Congress hotel, "but I am American to the core, and I hope that American mothers will pay attention to what I say."

"For years American have seemed imbued with the idea that nothing artistic in this country is quite as good as that which bears the imprint 'Made in Europe.' This is wrong. I don't care whether it pertains to manufactured articles, the arts or the sciences.

"Just because I expressed my honest convictions some time ago on the question of American girls going abroad to learn to sing, I provoked a tempest in Berlin. Strangely enough there has not been any open comment from France or Italy.

"American girls who go abroad for musical education come back, as a rule, mental, moral, physical and financial wrecks, and very few can sing as well as when they went away. This refers to those who come back. It is a sad fact that some never come back.

"You hear of this or that star in the operatic firmament. She is a very fortunate woman, in that she must be possessed of strong and moral character and good level headed and intelligent, as well as having a good voice because she has survived and had her place to the top of the ladder.

"God forbid that art should demand the human sacrifices that are made every year. Sweet girls go abroad. Women come back, stripped of every vestige of girlishness, hard as nails, worldly-wise—oh, it is a shame.

"I am delighted to hear that Miss Griesheimer of Chicago is going to sing with the Chicago Grand Opera company. I understand she has received all of her training in Chicago, and that she has a splendid voice.

"What one has done, other can do. I was born abroad, came to this country when a little girl and never crossed the ocean again until a London manager sent for me. Whatever name, whatever fame I have, was won in this country, the best country in the world for man, woman and child."

MRS. JOHNSON FREED, DIDN'T KISS NOBLE FOOT

Justice Tompkins at White Plains awarded an interlocutory decree of divorce to Mrs. Margaret L. Johnson of New Rochelle. He denied a divorce to her husband, who named Count Ludovico Roccaesca.

The court said there was nothing to support the testimony that Mrs. Johnson had kissed the foot of Roccaesca when he sprained his ankle while motoring.

LOVER LOOKS FOR MISSING GIRL SINGER

New York, Feb. 4.—Mlle. Colonna Romano, a Viennese singer, is being sought by Hans Thomas Koerner, her former sweetheart, who fears she has taken her life.

"The young man has appealed to the police to aid in search for the girl and prevent the act she told him she was bent upon. She has plenty of money, but no friends in the city, he said.

"I met Mlle. Romano in Vienna 3 years ago," explained the young man. "We were sweethearts then. She was only seventeen, but was playing in the best vaudeville houses of Paris and Vienna. She was a dancer and singer.

"I came to New York three years ago. Three weeks ago she arrived here, and I saw her several times. But the old friendship was not renewed because—well, I had made up my mind differently.

"I met her at Columbus Circle and she was very unhappy. She told me she was thinking of suicide. She left me abruptly. The next day I received this note:

Dearest Hans—By the time you get this letter I will be at the hotel. But there is no hope. You won't find me alive. Yours always,

COLONNA ROMANO.

"That is her stage name," said Koerner. "Her real name is Clara De Lys. I do not know what hotel she referred to in the note. She never told me where she was staying."

LOS ANGELES POISON CASE UP FOR TRIAL

Los Angeles, Cal., Feb. 3.—The Grondin case, one of the most baffling cases of alleged murder with which the police of Los Angeles have had to deal in a long time was given its first airing in court today, when John H. Grondin was arraigned for a preliminary hearing on a charge of having murdered his wife by poison.

The hearing was a necessary formality incidental to holding the accused husband to await the action of the grand jury. Meanwhile both sides are going forward with preparations for what promises to be one of the most sensational and hardest fought legal battles in the court records of this county.

Mrs. Grondin was found dead on Oct. 30, last, and it is now learned that an investigation into the circumstances of her death was begun a few weeks later, but it was not until January 24 that the husband was taken into custody and a charge of wife murder laid against him.

Both the accused and his alleged victim were natives of Waterville, Me., and lived in the state of Maine from the time of their marriage until about a year ago, when they removed to Los Angeles because of Mrs. Grondin's health. John H. Grondin attended school in Waterville and for some years was employed by a publishing firm in that city. Later he studied medicine and then attended an embalming school in New York.

Mrs. Grondin, who was 21 years of age, was the daughter of George A. Davin, a druggist of Waterville. After their marriage the couple resided for some years in Lewiston, Me. Two children were born, both of whom are now with the parents of the accused husband in Waterville.

When Mrs. Grondin was found dead Grondin made public note, which he said, had been written by his wife, and left as an explanation of her alleged suicide. It contained an admission of infidelity, and the hope that he would be happy with "the woman who truly loved him." The coroner's jury that investigated Mrs. Grondin's death accepted the note as genuine and reported that her death was due to asphyxiation with suicidal intent.

When Mr. Davin, father of the dead woman, learned of the note he immediately began an investigation. About the same time there arrived here from Maine a widow, in whom Grondin was said to be interested. This led the authorities to reopen the case. Meanwhile Grondin was under surveillance and was arrested when the district attorney announced that poison had been found in Mrs. Grondin's hair, which was exhumed, a week or ten days ago.

The day after Grondin's arrest his attorneys caused something of a sensation by declaring that the "third degree," with a "ghost" as the central figure, had been applied by the police in a futile attempt to obtain a confession from the accused husband. The police denied that they had used the so-called third degree on Grondin.

Attorneys say that when the case comes to trial it will be a battle between handwriting experts, who have examined the "suicide note" which Grondin alleges his wife wrote. Of two handwriting experts who examined the note, one declared positively that it had been written by Grondin, while the other was equally positive that it had been written by Mrs. Grondin. One of the experts represented the prosecution and the other the defense.
