Carlyle and the Book of Job. Carlyle was once asked to take the reading at family prayers during a short visit paid to his friend, the prophet of Kirtcaldy. The Bible chanced to open at the first chapter of the book of Job, and Carlyle immediately became absorbed in his subject and read on and on to the end of the last chapter, when, closing the volume, he remarked: "That is a marvelous lifelike drama, only to be appreciated when read right through."

It is fair to infer that it was appreciated for once. Any one who has taken a long, solitary afternoon and attempted to give the book of Job an opportunity to be appreciated by reading it honestly through at one sitting can realize the consternation of the prophet. Such a one will not be likely to wonder with Carlyle why he was not asked again to assist at family prayers in that household.

Women of Influence. We are, all of us, whether young or old, famous or obscure, women of influence. We cannot live a day without affecting the world somewhat for good or ill, whether we will or no. We are all a part of life's forces, whether we know it or not. Be as humble as you like, you are still a person of influence, if not by your own choosing, then often by God's decree. It may be only a smile or a simple kindness that you have given to a little child, but it starts agencies you little dream of; or it may be some selfishness and lack of honor, some weakness in you that sets in motion a long train of hurtful and sad influences or circumstances. For all life is connected, and whether you wish it or not your life affects other lives.—Woman's Home Companion.

LIVES BY HER WITS. Only its Sense of Humor Saved This Hen From Decapitation. For some time, writes "Suburbanite" in the Glasgow News, one of my hens has been indulging itself in a practice that but for the little joke involved would have ended in its decapitation.

It is one of a pen of eight egg machines, or seven, rather, for its egg producing mechanism is considerably out of order, its best average being about one in the fortnight. Yet until recently that hen was scheduled on my book as the premier layer. That happened in this way:

Every morning when I made my appearance in the garden Nora (the hen) would be found clucking beside one of the eggs with all the force of its rancorous throat.

If any of its sisters laid claim to the property there would be a wild scuffle, and the audacious bird would continue her boasting when she had cleared her bill of feathers.

Some time ago I discovered her in the act of taking up her stand over the production of another hen, and a careful watch thereafter disclosed her true capabilities. A sense of humor is undoubtedly one of them, and this is being regarded as a saving grace, for I have decided to allow her to continue living by her wits.

Tar and Feathers. Tar and feathers are not a peculiarity American punishment. Richard the Lion Hearted first proclaimed this punishment. It was when he was setting out for the third crusade that he gave warning that "a robber who shall be convicted of theft shall have his head cropped after the fashion of a chamberlain, and the feathers of a cushion shall be taken out of him; so that he shall be known."

NOTICE OF CONTEST. Serial No. 011484; Contest No. 1012; Department of the Interior, United States Land Office, Bismarck, North Dakota, July 21, 1914.

YOU are hereby notified that George C. Bailey, who gives Regan, Burleigh county, North Dakota, as his post-office address, did on May 8, 1914, file in this office his duly corroborated application to contest and secure the cancellation of your homestead Entry No. 49165, Serial No. 011484 made April 7th, 1908, for E 1/2 of N. W. 1/4 and E 1/2 of S. W. 1/4 of Section 28, Township 144 north, Range 77 west, 5th principal Meridian, and as grounds for his contest he alleges that said John R. Mowry, upon the information and belief of this affiant, died on or about February 14th, 1908; that the second homestead application of said John R. Mowry for said tracts of land was allowed by Commissioner's letter C. 07-45418 on March 28, 1908, and said homestead entry for said tracts of land of said John R. Mowry was placed of record on April 7, 1908; that said second homestead application of said John R. Mowry for said tracts of land was erroneously allowed after the death of said John R. Mowry upon the information and belief of this affiant and said homestead entry of said John R. Mowry for said tracts of land was erroneously placed of record after the death of said John R. Mowry upon the information and belief of this affiant; that said entry is null and void and the heirs of said John R. Mowry have no interest in said homestead entry; that upon the death of said John R. Mowry, his claim died with him.

YOU are, therefore, further notified that the said allegations will be taken as confessed, and your said entry will be canceled without further right to be heard, either before this office, or on appeal if you fail to file in this office within twenty days after the fourth publication of this notice, as shown below, your answer, under oath, specifically responding to these allegations of contest, together with due proof that you have served a copy of your answer on the said contestant either in person or by registered mail.

YOU should state in your answer the name of the post office to which you desire future notices to be sent to you.
