NEW NOTARIES. Notarial commissions have been issued to the following parties by the secretary of state: Ellis B. Baker, Parkhill; E. W. Blaisdell, Williston; Thora Broderson, Velva; Edw. S. Johnson, Fargo; F. W. Marshek, Lidgerwood; John Otis, Kindred; E. A. Schultze, Valley City; T. H. Squire, Fargo; Harold P. Thompson, Cavalier; J. M. Thornton, Donnybrook.
CO. A DANCE. Co. A held another of their weekly dances last night. Good crowd attended, and with the weather comfortably cool, a most enjoyable time was spent. The proceeds of the dances go to the "mess fund" of the boys, and they are very anxious that the affairs should be successful, which they have been so far.
PICNIC SUCCESS. The annual picnic of the Episcopal church yesterday was a great success. A large number of people attended the outing, which was held at Fort Lincoln. Automobiles and bicycles conveyed the crowds to the grounds, where games, contests and the devouring of picnic goodies beguiled the time. The picnickers remained until evening, taking both dinner and supper at the grounds.
ENJOYABLE PARTY. One of the most enjoyable parties of the year took place last night, when Mrs. C. H. Crocker entertained for her sister, Miss Fern Holbrook of Rugby. The twenty-five guests danced through the large rooms to the music of a pianola. At a late hour refreshments were served, after which the guests dispersed to their respective homes.
MISS CLARK LEAVES FARGO. Mrs. Melissa Clark, fitter at delendree's for the past four years, has severed her connection with that firm, and leaves tonight for her old home in Toronto. She will go by way of Duluth and the Great Lakes after visiting Toronto for some time, to visit at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Lee Muckenfus, formerly Miss Lenna Clark, indefinitely. Mrs. Clark's many friends here will greatly regret her departure from the city.—Fargo Forum.
BREWSTER'S MILLIONS. Could you spend a million dollars in a year and not have anything to show for it at the end of the twelve months? Possibly you have often thought that you would like to do it if you only had less than a year if a million dollars is a stack of cartwheels beyond the conception of the average person. You will get a good idea of what a wad of a million dollars really is if you will go to the Grand theater, Friday or Saturday, and see Monty Brewster try to get away with it all in twelve short months, in order to win several more millions. There's a fun and interest in every moment, and if you don't see it, you'll regret it.
MRS. EVARTS RE-ELECTED. Mrs. Nellie G. Everts of this city was re-elected grand chief of the Pythian Sisters, who have just closed a session of the order in Grand Forks. The feature of the closing session of the annual convention of the Pythian Sisters in this city was the election of officers. The selection of the place for the next meeting was not decided upon, but will be the same as the Knights of Pythias choose. Re-elected Grand Chief. Mrs. Nellie G. Everts of Bismarck was re-elected past grand chief of the organization. The other officers elected follow: Grand Chief—Mrs. Emma B. Smith of Steele. Grand Senior—Mrs. Jennie Turner of Dickinson. Grand Mistress of Records and Correspondence—Mrs. Nettie J. Dinnie, Grand Forks. Deputy (appointed) to Grand Mistress—Mrs. Lucy M. Lewis of Neche. Grand Financier—Mrs. Flora Allen of Steele. Committees Named. Following the election the installation ceremonies took place. The meeting was held at the Commercial club rooms. Mrs. Mary Sullivan of Langdon was named grand trustee for three years. An auditing committee was named also. The members are: Mrs. Elizabeth Wolfe of this city, Mrs. Nellie G. Everts of Bismarck and Mrs. Lillie Miller of Steele. A law committee was selected and consists of Mrs. Alta Dustin, Mrs. Lillie Miller and Mrs. Ida O. Witter.—Grand Forks Herald.

KILL FAMOUS SHARK

"Old Tom" Put to Death at Port Royal Harbor.

Jamaica Authorities End Existence of Fish That Was One of Sights of West Indies—Fad Regularly by Men of British Warship Fleet.

New York.—Old Tom, a shark that has lived in the waters of Port Royal harbor, Jamaica, for 20 years and is known to thousands of travelers and seagoing men, was put to death by the island authorities several weeks ago, according to officers of the schooner Caleb Martin, arrived here with coconuts from Kingston.

The famous fish was one of the sights of the West Indies. He was to be seen every day in the clear waters of Port Royal, and was fed regularly by the men of the British warship fleet stationed there.

He preyed upon the other fish in the harbor and was equally quick in attacking human beings. His presence precluded the possibility of sea bathing by the sailors, and descriptions among the crew of the British war vessels were few, as none had the fortitude necessary to swim ashore when Old Tom was in the vicinity.

The shark always could be found near the warships, and the boatloads of tourists who daily went out to see him were never disappointed. If he chanced to stray away for a few minutes, the loud beating of a tin pan would invariably bring him back.

During the 20 years that Old Tom has been a familiar object, a number of persons have lost their lives in the waters of Port Royal, due, it is believed, to his man-eating proclivities. He was never seen, however, to kill a person until a few weeks ago, when he attacked a native boy who had fallen overboard from a warship cutter. The sailors tried hard to save the boy, and although their efforts were in vain, several well-directed blows crippled Old Tom so badly that his capture, a few hours later, was an easy matter.

When the boy's death was reported, the authorities decided that Old Tom must go. He was barely able to swim when they found him near one of the warships and harpooned him. The carcass was taken ashore, and after being mounted will be placed in a museum at Kingston.

The shark was nearly twenty feet long. Native fishermen said he had the most vicious teeth of any shark ever killed in the vicinity of Port Royal. Among the articles found in his stomach were three fatheads of fish, a gold watch, a marlin pin, and a miscellaneous collection of nails, bolts and other small objects.

Are the Dying Words of President Wilson's Wife

one pall respect to the President's loss. The beginning of the end came at ten this morning, when Dr. E. P. Davis, Philadelphia, called for a consultation, and realized the time for hope had passed.

Physicians Tell President: He took President Wilson into the red room of the White House, and in a broken voice told him the truth. Wilson's face blanched but he bore the shock well. The President then took his daughters, Mrs. McAdoo, Mrs. Sayre and Margaret Wilson aside and told them their mother's condition. Until then they thought there was a chance for her recovery.

Constantly at Her Bedside. The President and his daughters remained constantly at her bed side. The President held his wife's hand and the three daughters were grouped near.

Nods at Her Dear Ones. Until she became unconscious, Mrs. Wilson frequently nodded to one and the other and smiled cheerfully. During the day she spoke to Dr. Grayson about the President, whose health she thought more about than her own.

Promise me, she whispered faintly, "If I go, you will take care of my husband." I was the same touch of devotion she so many times had repeated.

Just at five death came. The President and daughters were in tears. Tumulty walked slowly to the executive offices, his head bowed and quickly announced to correspondents that the end had come.

Gloom Over Washington. The pall of gloom settled over the executive mansion and offices. Every one seemed overcome. Funeral arrangements have not yet been made. Condolences poured in. From the humble homes in the slums came flowers, as Mrs. Wilson had many friends in the slums and city generally, in her endeavors to help the friendless and poverty stricken.

Last Thoughts For Poor. She told the President this morning that she could more cheerfully "go away" if the bill for improvement of alley passed congress. A word to the leaders from Tumulty and the measure was adopted in silence by the senate and reported to the house where it will be passed tomorrow.

ed with the governor's friends and well wishers when the train pulls in. A committee of citizens will receive him, and the band will be there to furnish music, and Co. A will form a guard of honor to escort the governor to the executive mansion, where reception will be held. There will be speeches, and a fine display of fireworks, for which the committee has made arrangements. Fargo entertained the governor yesterday, but tomorrow it is Bismarck's turn, and Bismarck will be ready.

the experiences of the party on the trip.

Hundreds Meet Hanna. After the reception the Governor shook hands with hundreds of people who formed in line, following which he devoted several minutes to the old soldiers.

Will Make For Peace. In his remarks, the Governor called attention to the effect of the wide spread European war with some of the horrors it would bring. He believed it would result, however, in universal peace for the future and the total disarmament of all nations and the settlement of all international troubles by international arbitration.

Looks For Big Immigration. One of the things he saw most clearly was that after peace follows the gigantic struggle now inaugurated over there. Thousands of people of many nations will seriously consider the situation there, and as a result of the missionary work being done through North Dakotas who have been visiting their native land, there will be an unusually large emigration to the northwestern part of the United States from northern Europe. From this movement, the Governor believes North Dakota will profit most. He is very optimistic over the outlook.

FORMER BISMARCK GIRL WEDDED Friends in the city will be interested in the following account of the wedding of Miss Olive Stinson, at Glenwood, Minn. Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stinson and family lived in the city a number of years, the bride attending school here. At 8 o'clock last Wednesday evening, Rev. Secord of the Congregational church, pronounced the words that united in marriage Miss Olive E. Stinson and Melville E. Anderson. The wedding took place at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. H. J. Stinson, in the presence of fully 100 relatives and friends of the contracting parties. The home was beautifully decorated with green and white sweet peas. The bride was attired in a pretty gown of embroidered net and carried a shower bouquet of white lilies and roses. Miss Tryphene Rowden of Winnipeg, a cousin of the bride, acted as bridesmaid and was attired in a gown of white embroidered Swiss, with a green girdle and carried a large bouquet of pink and white sweet peas. Mr. Westley Stinson, brother of the bride, acted as groomsmen, while little Elsie Dantzer was ring bearer. The bride was given away by her father. The wedding march was beautifully rendered by Mrs. Thomas Sagvold. After the ceremony several solos were sung by Mrs. W. P. Dougherty and Miss Rowden, the latter singing, among others, the beautiful solo, "Because." The bride was born in Glenwood and is among our most popular young ladies. The groom came from Nicolet, Minn., to take his present position of assistant cashier of the First National bank. From their many beautiful wedding gifts from their friends attest strongly the high esteem in which they are held.—Fargo Forum. Four new churches are being erected in Jamestown this season.

Cool Food for Hot Days Better health comes with less meat and greasy food during the warm weather. By proper and pleasant food one can feel cooler than his over-fed neighbor. Grape-Nuts and Cream —some fruit and a soft boiled egg, or two is sufficient for the hot weather breakfast. An ordinary portion of Grape-Nuts and cream contains nourishment to sustain one until the noon-day meal; and being a partially pre-digested food, it does not over-tax the stomach and heat the system as do heavy, greasy foods. These suggestions, if followed, should show that one can have a cool body, active brain and energy—even in hot weather. "There's a Reason" for Grape-Nuts
