The band is going along and will give concerts at the different places at which stops are made.

A great deal of interest is being taken in the trip by the business houses of the city and already practically every wholesale house and a large number of the retail houses have signified their intention of having representatives along. This has been without any solicitation on the part of the Commercial Club and it is expected that fully fifty, if not more, of Bismarck business men will be in the party. This is the first trip of the season. The balance of the "Get Acquainted" trips will be taken by auto and will be announced later.

peace, insofar as they would have any effect whatever. I doubt if they will have much effect, because in the event of their attempted execution against the interests of this people, I do not believe they would be executed. But surely it is not an honorable thing for this nation to enter into treaties which either could not or ought not to be kept. Such action argues badly for our sincerity and good faith.

Under the proposed treaties, if, as a result of this war, Denmark or Holland should part with their islands in the West Indies to some great Old World power, or if at some future time Mexico should similarly part with Magdalena bay to some Old World power, we would be solemnly bound to join in the creation of a commission which would investigate all the matters at hand before we could take any action and this commission would include representatives of outside powers.

Treaties Are Worthless.

"Within a fortnight we have had fresh proof of the utter worthlessness of treaties, of names signed to pieces of paper, unless backed by force; if power or interest demands their violation. This fact has been demonstrated again and again within the last dozen years, by almost every one of the great nations who are now engaged in this war, or who stand with their armies partially mobilized and their fleets gathered because of the possibility of being drawn into it.

"These proposed arbitration treaties would not be worth the paper on which they were written if it became to the interest of any great military power to violate them, and if it thought it could violate them with impunity. We would have bound ourselves in such cases as I have illustrated to wait a year or so, while a joint commission pursued its weary courses of investigation, and during that time an Old World military power, if it desired to retain its new possession could make a new Gibraltar of one of our West Indian islands, or of Magdalen bay, or any other point of territory which it acquired, and it could then defy us to turn it out save at the cost of war, which might be as dreadful as any now raging."

YOUNG PRINCE WOULD SAIL THE BRINY DEEP

Fifteen-Year-Old Son of Sweden's King Is Democratic Chap and Boy Scout.

Copenhagen, Aug. 15.—In his ambition to become a sailor, the fifteen-year-old crown prince has at last won his way and obtained his father's consent. He is now a cadet on the "Absalon," and gets precisely the same treatment as any other cadets. The king had wanted the prince to continue his studies until he had passed the entrance examinations to the University.

The crown prince is a very democratic youth. He has been a member of the Boy Scouts for three years and has often entertained his fellow scouts at the castle without any social restrictions. Whatever fell to the lot of the ordinary scout, he experienced.

He speaks English fluently and makes a hobby of American authors. For that reason he is very eager to visit America, which he now hopes to do soon as a sailor.

Exposition to Be Best Ever

Year will be the greatest in the history of the exposition.

Special Days.

Special days will be reserved for the counties making displays at the exposition, and each of these will prove a big advertising card for the counties represented. There will be keen rivalry this year between the counties having exhibits and some of those signed up have advised that they expect to have greater and better exhibits than ever.

United Effort.

Commissioner Gilbreath has the united support of the State Officials and Commercial Club of Bismarck, as well as that of the business men, not only of the Capital City but of a great many of the counties of the state which gives the assurance of the exposition exceeding anything of the kind ever held in North Dakota.

FINE EXHIBIT FOR BURLINGHAM

Commercial Club Secours County For Fine Farm Products For Exposition.

The Commercial club has had parties scouring the country the past few days in search of good samples for use in the Burlingham county exhibit at the Industrial Exposition this fall. Some splendid samples of all the small grains have been brought in and it will be surprising if the Burlingham county exhibit does not show up among the best on exhibition. There is so much good grain to choose from that it is hard to pick out the best. Samples will be gathered from practically every part of the county so that every section will be represented so far as possible. The Commercial club will have charge of the Burlingham county exhibit this fall and means to make it the very best exhibit of the county's products ever shown.

SOLDIERS SLEPT IN MONASTERY

High in Alps, at the Grand St. Bernard Hospice, 200 Officers Found Dead.

Geneva, Aug. 15.—Probably for the first time in history, men in military uniform recently slept in the cells of the monks of the Grand St. Bernard Hospice, 1110 feet high. Under the command of an Italian colonel, more than 200 future officers in the Italian army from the military academy at Turin arrived at the Hospice. The Hospice has only 125 beds for the public and there are always many

DOCTORS IN PULPIT

Aberdeen, Aug. 15.—Twenty doctors of medicine took the place of twenty doctors of divinity in the pulpits of Aberdeen on a recent Sunday and devoted the sermon hour to a lecture on the evils of the excessive or intemperate use of alcoholic liquors.

FAT MAN WANTS COMPENSATION

Novel Test of Workmen's Compensation Act Made by Scotch Coal Miner.

London, Aug. 15.—A committee of five lords has just decided adversely to the applicant in a case for a pension for obesity made under the workmen's compensation act. The case was that of a Scotch coal miner, who had to lay off from work for some months because of an accident. When cured, he had grown so fat that he could not work effectively and had to give up his job. He therefore appealed to the House of Lords for a pension.

Why We Worry

Worry, when you come to analyze it, is not a social vice. We worry chiefly over those things which concern the ME. Show me that what impends will leave my bank account intact, my health unimpaired, my friends and family out, and say further tormenting solitude that I may feel is frankly academic. I may still take thought and use preventive measures, but I cannot, as it were, magic, to waver over the outcome. On the contrary, I can now work for the accomplishment of my object better than ever before. But what worry is not only an arch form of selfishness, but it is the great inhibitor of action. We say, "I am worried," we mean, "I fear for myself."—E. F. Frost, in Atlantic.

WOULD HOLD BIG REVIVAL

Prominent Methodists in Conference in England Think Church Is in a Rut.

London, Aug. 15.—Many prominent Methodists made a plea at the annual Wesleyan Conference held at Leeds for a revival in the Methodist church. The need for such an effort it was stated was acknowledged on every side. All the churches reported a falling away in membership, and a lack of enthusiasm of those who remained in outward connection with the church.

Methodist prayer meetings, said the Rev. E. F. Collier, former president of the conference, had suffered terribly by getting into routine. What they needed today was the note, triumphant. While the rest of the world had been raising the standard they of the church had been lowering it. "It is not good form to be enthusiastic in the pulpit nowadays. It is bad form to be enthusiastic anywhere about religion. I suppose in some pulpits if I cultivated a doleful voice and a heavy manner, I should be looked upon as a scholar and rank ahead of an evangelist."

"I wonder sometimes if we are not becoming too respectable," said Sir John Barnard in discussing the matter. "The Methodist church used to be the church of the poor. It has lost that inheritance and has handed over to others the work of redeeming the common people."

MANY USES FOR INDIAN CORN

For One Thing It Is Classified as Most to Rise, Most Important of World's Foods.

Next to rice, this grain is the most important food plant in the world, besides serving in a thousand other important ways the needs of man. It is native to America, having been cultivated in the western hemisphere since prehistoric times. The name maize is used for it is derived from the word Maiz, the name the old Mexicans employed and which Columbus adopted when he discovered America. When the white settlers came to the United States they found the Indians cultivating it, and quickly learned from them its great value. Several of the old Indian names for certain preparations still remain and are incorporated in the language of the American people, such as maize, hominy and succotash. Strangely, in human food, the Indian corn is practically unknown outside of America.

Among its manifold uses, outside of food value, are the following: The oil extracted from the kernel is used for varnishing and polishing oilcloth and linoleum, and the cake left after the oil has been extracted is fed to sheep. Glucose from this plant, a sugary white liquid, is used by confectioners in great quantities. Cornstarch, when not used for chocolate puddings, is thickened by us when we put a stamp to the envelope. Maize is also a growing source for denatured alcohol used for heating and lighting. Corn stalks woven into strong belts are used on all large vessels at the bulkheads for protection. Our most dangerous explosive, gun cotton and smokeless powder, rely for their manufacture on the Indian corn. A poor quality of molasses is furnished by the stems, paper by the stalks, and stalks and stems are used as fodder for farm stock.
