

REV. JONES IS NOW IN CITY

And Campaign of Righteousness Is Started at the Presbyterian Church.

The widely advertised campaign of righteousness began last Sunday night at the First Presbyterian church and the service went off with a snap that betokens an unusually successful series of meetings. The people began to assemble early and by 7:30 every seat in the spacious auditorium was occupied and the ushers were busy hustling in chairs to accommodate the overflow.

The music promises to be a feature of the campaign and the chorus leader, Mr. Carl E. Burch, expressed himself as highly pleased with the choir but declared that before the end of the week the chorus would be swelled to one hundred and fifty voices. "Great Revival Hymns," the book used by Billy Sunday in his Philadelphia campaign, is being used in these services and a copy is handed each person as they enter the church so that all may take part in the singing.

The Rev. Charles W. Harris, pastor of the church, took charge of the preliminary service and introduced Evangelist Jones and his party. "I am glad Jones is here," said Mr. Harris, "and these meetings are no innovation. Jones has been with me several times before and I am just as confident of their success tonight as you will be two weeks from tonight."

Evangelist Jones was not long in getting acquainted with his audience.

I USE "TIZ" FOR SORE, TIRED FEET

"TIZ" for puffed-up, aching, sweaty, calloused feet and corns.

Good-bye sore feet, burning feet, swollen feet, sweaty feet, smelling feet, tired feet.

Good-bye corns, callouses, bunions and raw spots. No more shoe tightness, no more limping with pain or drawing up your face in agony. "Tiz" is magical, acts right off. "Tiz" draws out all the poisonous exudations which puff up the feet—the only remedy that does. Use "Tiz" and wear smaller shoes. Ah! how comfortable your feet will feel. "Tiz" is a delight. "Tiz" is harmless.

Get a 25 cent box of "TIZ" now at any druggist or department store. Don't suffer. Have good feet, glad feet, feet that never swell, never hurt, never get tired. A year's foot comfort guaranteed or money refunded.—Adv.

and in a very clever way induced the ladies to remove their hats, which they did cheerfully. Last night's meeting was a sort of "get acquainted" service and Mr. Jones explained to the people what they might expect. Church members are not permitted to go through the audience and do "personal work" during the time of service.

"If Christian people are not enough interested in the salvation of their neighbors and friends," said Mr. Jones, "to go and see them outside of the meetings, I do not propose to have them made targets of when they come to hear me preach; no one will be embarrassed who attends our services."

Evangelist Jones said that he did not come to Bismarck to make Presbyterians and that his thought was not to see how many converts could be tabulated in a given time. He declared that the greatest need of the world is not more churches, more preachers or more evangelists, but more love. "Love never faileth," is the text used by the speaker and may be found in the 13 chapter of 1st Corinthians and the 7th verse. The speaker said in brief:

"If this world is ever going to be saved, it will be saved through love and kindness. God so loved the world that He gave His only begotten Son that we might love each other, and if love were taken out of the Christian religion, it would be a dead thing. The church has failed to save men; our theological discussions have failed; our sermons fail, our schemes and plans to save the lost have failed, but Paul said, 'Love never faileth,' and the church will never regain her old-time power until the efficiency of love is recognized." The following is one of the incidents related by Mr. Jones to elicit the truth of his text:

"A half dressed and shivering newsboy stopped Henry Ward Beecher on the street one day and said, 'Say Mister, won't you please buy a paper?' The great warm-hearted preacher put his hand down in his pocket and gave the boy a twenty-five cent piece for a penny paper, then in a sympathetic voice said: 'Are you cold, my little man?' 'I was, sir,' said the boy, 'until I met you.' Many a soul has been saved by a smile or a kind word and the world needs this love that warms the hearts of those we meet day by day."

A Politician Converted, is the subject announced for this evening and the meetings will continue every night for three weeks excepting Monday. The public is cordially invited to attend these services and those of every creed and of no creed will be welcome.

TO TALK OVER THE PLAYGROUND

Those Interested in Securing a Public Playground Here to Meet Saturday.

Those citizens who are actively interested in the movement to establish a public playground in this city will meet for luncheon at the Commercial club at noon on Saturday.

At this meeting officers will be elected and members will be signed up. The committee on location of the proposed playground will also be ready to report at this time.

A rousing good meeting is anticipated and all interested are urged to keep the date and the time in mind and attend.

INDIAN SCOUT VISITS HERE

Came Across Dakota When Indians Held County; Astonished at the Growth.

W. O. Sterling of Annandale, Minn., eighty-two years old, thank you, but hale and hearty, was a visitor at the capitol building yesterday afternoon and enjoyed a visit with Governor Hanna and Curator Fish.

Mr. Sterling was with Sully in his march from Fort Totten to Fort Buford at the mouth of the Yellowstone, away back in 1864. He says that Dakota looks different from what she did in those days.

This is the first time the old scout has been in North Dakota for many years. He recalls when there were no white people in the state excepting at the posts and when the Indians held forth along the river.

Mr. Sterling enlisted from Ohio and served through the Civil war. He was on transport duty most of this time, carrying dispatches and handling prisoners. He also served as a scout in New Mexico for some time.

He is a friend of the late Marcus A. Hanna and he and the governor had a very enjoyable visit.

"YELLOW TICKET" FULL OF ACTION

Story of Big Dramatic Hit Indicates Play Full of Human Interest and Intense Moments.

According to Michael Morton, author of "The Yellow Ticket" which comes to the Bismarck Auditorium next Monday evening, is founded on actual fact. Mr. Morton spent a year in St. Petersburg, the scene of his drama, in order to absorb the required local atmosphere. The theme of the play has to do with race prejudice in Russia.

It tells the story of one Marya Varenka, a beautiful young Jewish woman of reputable family, who, in order to leave the "Pale of Settlement" in her native village, to which she is confined with others of her race, is forced to apply for "The Yellow Ticket." This is Russia's official badge of shame. It is the "Scarlet Letter" of the Czar's domain. It is in other words, the license issued by the Secret Police of Russia to fallen women.

Permits Them to Travel
It permits them to travel unmolested in any part of the dominion, but, as the heroine of the play remarks, "it is required that the holder of a Yellow Ticket shall follow the calling" and here is where the drama comes in. Marya is a good girl, and desires to lead an honest life. The Yellow Ticket takes her to St. Petersburg, where her father is dying. He is on his way back from America, meets with an accident, and she finds him in a hospital in the Capitol City. She receives his blessing. His death results in the death of her other mother also—for the shock is too much for her to bear. Thus Marya finds herself alone. She dare not return to her native village, for her relatives on learning that she has applied for a Yellow Ticket, have burnt candles for the dead, according to the Jewish custom.

Marya An Outcast.
Marya is an outcast. She seeks to obtain decent employment, which she finds in the home of the Princess Mirskina as governess. Very soon the Secret Police find her out, and inform her employer, who discharges her. Her next place of employment is with an English family named Seaton, who have apartments in the Hotel D'Europe. It is here that we find Marya when the play opens.

Again the "Okranas" (Russian Secret Police) track Marya, and denounce her. Mr. Seaton and his daughter are horrified when Petrov Paciak declares that Marya is the possessor of the Yellow Ticket. Mr. Seaton denounces her bitterly. Marya protests that she is innocent, but she is hidden to leave the house at once. "I am sorry to have to send you away," says Mr. Seaton, "but I must think of my daughter."

"Think of her then in my place," urges Marya, as the curtain descends upon the first act.

Offers Her Aid.
A visitor to the house of the Seaton is Baron Stepan Andrey, roue, viveur and head of the Secret Police. He has seen the lovely young Jewish girl, and it is he who has arranged for the domiciliary visit of Petrov, the police spy. Baron Andrey offers to aid Marya by means of a special passport, which will free her from interference in the future. He tells the young woman to call at his rooms, where he will make out the coveted bit of paper. She does so only to find the real object of the Baron was to make plain to her the terms upon which his protection was offered. Marya refuses to accept them. Baron Andrey threatens, and then attacks her. Then she protects her honor by killing him.

Newspaperman to Rescue.
The last act of "The Yellow Ticket" takes place in the Bureau of the "Okranas." Marya is to be deported to Siberia for life. To her rescue comes Julian Rolfe, a young American newspaper man. He finally intrigues her from her difficulties and how through an ingenious scheme he manages to clear himself from the entanglement are disclosed in the final act, which is as tense as the other two, the interest never waning until the final curtain.

"The Yellow Ticket" ran more than a year at the Edison Theatre, New York city, with a splendid cast and production, both guaranteed by the name of the manager—Mr. A. H. Woods.

WILL GO OVER GAS FRANCHISE

Committee Appointed to Meet With Mr. Ployhar and Adjust Gas Franchise.

A committee of four, consisting of Commissioners Battey, Hinckley, Patterson and Beitsch, was appointed last night at the meeting of the city commissioners to meet with Frank E. Ployhar, president of the Valley City Gas company, at any time he may desire and adjust the gas franchise with him so that it will be equitable to both Mr. Ployhar and the city of Bismarck.

Section 15 of the proposed franchise, which section was strongly objected to by Mr. Ployhar last week, reads as follows:

"Section 15. The city of Bismarck shall have the right, by giving at least twelve months notice, to purchase the entire gas plant, mains, pipes, appliances and equipment of grantee, his heirs, successors and assigns, at any time after the expiration of twelve and one-half years from the date of the passage of this ordinance. The amount to be paid for such plant, mains, pipes, appliances and equipment shall represent the actual physical value thereof at the time of such purchase, the value to be fixed by the arbitrators, who are to be chosen as follows: one by the city of Bismarck, one by the owners of said franchise and the third by the arbitrators thus chosen, and the arbitration or award of value made by these three or a majority of them shall be the price at which said city may purchase said franchise and property. Should the city decline to purchase at the valuation as aforesaid, then said rights, franchise and privileges are to continue for the balance of the twenty-five year term, as aforesaid."

ST. PATRICK'S DAY DANCE

There will be a grand ball in Patterson's hall on Wednesday evening, March 17, (St. Patrick's Day), under the auspices of the Farmers' Union. The music will be furnished by O'Connor's augmented orchestra, and every body is most cordially invited to attend. Tickets $1.00.

ANNUAL PATRONS' DAY TO BE HELD

When Parents Are Urged to Visit Schools and See What Work Is Being Done.

All departments of the city schools are busy making preparations for the fifth annual Patrons' Day and school exhibit. Great interest has been manifested in these exhibits in the past four years and each year the people visit the schools in greater numbers. The forthcoming exhibit bids fair to surpass all previous ones in many respects.

Superintendent C. C. Root of the city schools, in speaking of the annual Patrons' Day said:

"Co-operation between teachers and parents is one of the most essential elements in a successful school. This co-operation cannot be brought about without an intelligent understanding of the workings of the schools. There is no better way to bring about harmonious action between teachers and parents than frequent visits to the schools on the part of the parents. The teachers and school officials invite and urge patrons to make as many visits as possible during the year. Many parents seem to be too busy to take a lively and active interest in the work of the schools. In order that each parent may make at least one visit to the schools each year and gain some little notion of the work being done, one day or portion of a day is set apart in each school as patrons' or visitors' day. Everyone interested in the schools is invited to come out at that time. Watch for the announcement of the date."

THE BEST KIDNEY REMEDY

I always carry a large stock of Swamp-Root and it has a steady demand for kidney, liver and bladder troubles. Very frequently my customers give personal testimony as to the medicinal value of Swamp-Root, and it is a common occurrence for me to see to people who buy the remedy on the recommendation of others who have used it. Have sold Swamp-Root since it was first put on the market, and will continue to sell it until a better kidney, liver and bladder remedy is found.

date. When carping criticism and fault finding give place to intelligent interest, sympathy and co-operation then, and not until then, will it be possible to have the best schools. Let us all work to that end."

WANT TO START SOMETHING QUICK

Tax Commissioners Said to Be Anxious to Test Appropriation in Courts.

It is rumored that the state tax commissioners have approached State Auditor Carl Jorgenson and asked him to withhold payment of their salaries at this time instead of waiting until the new appropriation bill becomes effective.

The idea of such a move would be to bring the tax commission appropriation before the court at once. The commissioners, of course, are anxious to be assured of their regular yearly stipends for the next biennium and will fight the appropriation which went through both houses of the legislature and which was approved by Governor Hanna. The appropriation provides for but one commissioner, when there are three sitting on the job and after the money.
