SPORT WRITER AND FIGHT PROMOTER OF OKLAHOMA CITY WILLARD'S DISCOVERERS

Charles J. Brill, a sport writer of Oklahoma City, Okla., and J. D. Brock, a fight promoter of the same town, are hailed as the discoverers of Jess Willard. From western Oklahoma, where he had been working as an overland freighter, Willard went to Oklahoma City in December, 1910, to buy some clothes. He had never at that time been on the inside of an athletic club. Brock and Brill happened to spy Willard on this visit. They asked him why he should continue to drive mules when he might return the heavyweight championship to the white race. Willard calmly thought the matter over, then declared: "I believe I can do it." From that day he began to train for the great battle with Jack Johnson which was to win him the championship.

wear spectacles. They will need double lenses to see a pennant.

The first deal made by the new management of the St. Paul American association club was the sale of Pitcher Dixie Walker to Milwaukee.

Sherwood Magee's shoulder will not trouble him during the season, according to the Braves' physician.

The Cincinnati Reds are certainly well fortified in the matter of catchers. In Ivy Wingo and Charley Doolin they have two first-class backstops.

Napoleon Lajoie who is with the Athletics, is the only player in the American league who entered the ranks in 1901, who is still in harness.

Charles Mullen is to be given every opportunity to battle for his job with the Highlanders even though Walter Pipp has been signed. If Mullen hits as he did at Lincoln he would hold on.

Nemo Liebold of the Cleveland Indians denied he intended jumping to the Feds. Birmingham contends that these rumors of a player jumping hurt the player and get him in wrong with the fans.

Tris Speaker is the only major league outfielder who last year executed a double play without assistance from anyone.

Not once, but twice, has Boston's high-salaried star turned this trick. The first time Speaker made an unassisted double play was on April 21, in the game with the Athletics. On August 8, in a contest with the Tigers, Tris Speaker repeated his earlier performance.

Speaker was born in Hubbard City, Tex., April 4, 1888. He became a professional ball player in 1906, when he joined the Cleburne, Tex., team.

Art Smith, the daring boy aviator of Fort Wayne, Ind., is making big crowds turn pale at San Francisco. Probably not in the history of aviation, certainly never in America, has there been so reckless and daring a flyer. At San Francisco the other day in a tremendous gale he made twenty-two consecutive loops with his machine. Smith says he has "aerial insanity."

Don't stow this away under your hat. Use it!

Here's the dandy-handy package that's full of the tobacco that lets men know what a good time they can get out of a pipe or makings cigarette.

PRINCE ALBERT

is genuine pipe-joy plumb full of smoke happiness and that means flavor and fragrance and dream stuff. But the one thing that puts P. A. in solid is the famous patented process that has sent the tongue-torture kinds back to the hills. The patented process that makes P. A. so friendly is controlled exclusively by us. That's why we say there never can be another tobacco as biteless as P. A.

Prince Albert is sold at all smoke stations. The tidy red tin, 10c; the tippy red bag, 5c; also, pound and half-pound tin humidors.

Here's a hunch: We sure do recommend to our friends the 16-oz. crystal-glass humidor with the sponge in the top that keeps P. A. in fine condition. One home, one at the office, always assures some smoke!

NOTES of the DIAMOND

Jim Gilmore says Jake Ruppert is hitched up to a lemon in the New York Yankees. Manager Branch Rickey of the St. Louis Browns is a great advocate of handball. George Stallings, manager of the Braves, is anxious to land a substitute infielder for his club. The Pirates are congratulating themselves on having signed a youngster by the name of Hans Wagner. Marty O'Toole says he likes Columbus—which explains, perhaps, why he did not succeed in a major league. Little Louis Van Zelt, the hunchback mascot of the Athletics, is dead. He was famous all over the big league circuits. Cleveland is planning a municipal kick bureau. We sincerely hope it does not include a department of professional baseball. The St. Louis Cards and the Pittsburgh Pirates both have pitchers who Tris Speaker of Boston Red Sox.

In 1907 he played with Houston. At the close of the season he was purchased by Boston and turned over to Little Rock the following spring as ground rent man, the Red Sox having trained on the Little Rock grounds. At the close of the Southern league season Speaker was repurchased by Boston for $500 and joined the Red Sox late in the season of 1908. Speaker is one of the greatest hitters in baseball, having had a batting average of .300 or better each season since leaving Cleburne.
