ALL MUST BEAR THE BURDEN

Children, If They Are To Be Strong and Self-Reliant, Have to Learn That Fact. On the lower deck of one of our river packets a little pile of pig iron was carried on the trip up the river, and when the cargo was unloaded the pig iron was not removed, but was carried again on the trip down the river. When the reason was asked, the answer was given, "She travels staidier when she carries a weight." And this is true of men and women. The world has little use for the young man or woman who has no furrow of thought, and no wrinkle of responsibility. And we are not kind to our own children when we seek continually to shield them from the hard things of life. We may wish to spare them some of our own hard experiences, but if they are to be strong and self-reliant they must reach it by putting themselves under the burden, and feeling the pressure of some of the difficult things in life. You want your boy to be strong and manly; you must push him off the plank, that he may learn of himself to swim. "Every man shall bear his own burden."—Pittsburgh Christian Advocate.

Ham and Cheese Dish.

One-half cupful cheese, one-half cupful boiled ham (run ham and cheese through chopper), three eggs, six soda crackers, rolled fine, one tablespoonful table sauce, salt and red pepper, one teaspoonful baking powder, one cupful milk. Stir beaten egg into ham and crackers, add milk, add other ingredients, baking powder last; Bake 30 minutes. It is fine.

Chicken Patties.

Patty cases may be bought in city bakeries, and will save time and trouble in preparing this dish. For their filling cut up cold chicken into tubes, with sliced canned mushrooms and a teaspoonful of chopped onions. Make a white sauce, and add the mixture of chicken and mushrooms, with seasoning of salt, cayenne pepper and a few grains of mace. Serve in heated patty cases.

The Piece Bag.

Here is a sensible way of tagging the contents of a piece bag: On the outside of the bag fasten the largest procurable safety pin. When dressing make it over at each sample to this pin of every remnant that goes into the bag. A great amount of time and patience is saved by this simple device, for one can see at a glance just what the bag contains.

Pleasing Husband.

In the Woman's Home Companion a woman living in Wyoming wrote in part as follows her comment on how a woman can continue to please her husband: "The wise woman is she who keeps neat and trim in dress, dainty in person and alert and poised in mind, that in so doing she may favorably stand comparison with the business women with whom her husband comes in contact. "Most men, even those well past middle age, place high value upon externals, and the woman who assumes that she can hold a man's love indefinitely, regardless of her personal appearance, is, to my mind, making a grave mistake. "More than one wife, serene in the knowledge of her husband's loyalty, fails to realize that that same loyalty is due more to the man's sense of duty and conscientious self-control than to the fact that his wife possesses the qualities which actually hold him true to her in spirit as well as in deed."

Leave it to the Small Boy.

Leave it to the small boy to put it over—even on the thoroughly seasoned and experienced circus "kinker." The Hippodrome circus was parading along upper Broadway, New York, when one of the clowns was seized with a thirst. Clambering down from his lofty perch he darted into a corner saloon for a little "red eye." When he emerged the cavalcade had vanished. Some side street had swallowed it up, leaving the clown marooned. "Which way did the bally-hoo go, son?" he demanded of a small boy. "I'll show you," responded the lad. For three blocks the clown ran panting after the youngster with an ever-increasing army of kids at his heels. "Where is it?" demanded the exhausted clown. "Ha, ha!" laughed the youth. "I gave you a run for your money, didn't I?" The clown might have spanked the youth, but he couldn't catch him. He compromised by hiring an express wagon to convey him back to the Hippodrome to escape the mob of small boys.
