YOUNG FARMER HAS STRANGE DISEASE. Minot, N. D. Sept. 7.--A young German named Emil Hehmer, 22 years of age, suffering from some form of dementia, is confined in the county jail awaiting some disposition of his case by the county authorities, but as case baffles the physicians who have examined him, the medical fraternity being unable to determine it, his malady be melancholia, dementia, hypnosis or some other insidious disease. It was at first supposed that the fellow was insane, as when it was first observed that anything was wrong he was going through the various evolutions of a military drill out in the field where he was employed shocking grain. At first he was able to stand erect but now lies in a comatose condition, eyes closed, never uttering so much as a groan. All efforts to arouse him have proved fruitless. For three days he has not tasted food or so much as swallowed a spoonful of water. He is a mere skeleton of a man already and it is evident that he cannot long withstand the ravages of the disease.
