LOCAL WEATHER BULLETIN. For the 24 hours ending at 7:00 p. m., Sept. 9, 1915:

Forecast. For North Dakota: Increasing cloudiness with probably showers Friday and in west portion tonight; warmer tonight.

CHAMPION WHEAT GROWER. In these days of intensified agriculture and when the boys and girls in the little red school houses on the hill are being taught scientific farming, it is not surprising that a youth of seventeen years should capture the title of champion wheat grower.

Dewey Gaines of Arcanum, Ohio, has not raised the greatest amount of wheat in the United States, but he has exceeded most records in acre yield.

Attention to the seed, study of the soil and careful cultivation were factors in his success. Gaines has shown what can be done by intensified farming, which, of course, is only another term for intelligent farming.

A TEMPEST IN A TEAPOT.

According to recent gossip drifting out of Philadelphia, there was really nothing in the great motion picture spectacle, "The Birth of a Nation," to object to, but the suppression of this biggest of all photoplays by the local authorities was coincidentally expected because an election for mayor is approaching and the dominant political party, if threatened with the loss of negro votes, would respond to the slightest protest and cause prompt action to be taken.

The astute observer at a distance begins to wonder whether the tempest in a teapot stirred up over this picture spectacle in several cities is merely a shrewd advertising scheme or a self-seeking effort of designing politicians to win whether the negroes, if let alone, would really find ground for complaint. In any case, why should the "Pro-Americans" of the northern cities in our time consider themselves responsible for the crimes or follies of the ignorant ex-slaves of the South, when these were placed in control of the southern state governments through the temporary disfranchisement of a majority of the white voters?

unwelcome to a relatively small element of the public in a given community.

CHANGE OF LEADERSHIP.

However strategic Grand Duke Nicholas' retreat may have been, few win applause in defeat. Victories are what the people clamor for. Petrograd has not been satisfied with the generalship of the main army, which has been pounded so severely in the salient about Warsaw.

Conspicuous strategic successes have been won by the Grand Duke. Military leaders term his retreat from Warsaw as one of the most brilliant in history.

INDISCREET DUMBA.

No one can condone the activities of Ambassador Dumba of Austria, who sought to enter into a conspiracy to demoralize conditions in American factories.

The position of those who oppose the shipment of ammunition to all belligerents on an equal footing is not tenable. This nation has taken the proper attitude in refusing to recede from its strictly neutral shipment of arms and ammunition.

Secretary Lansing in his reply to the protests of the Austrian government against the shipment of munitions of war from this nation stated the point very concisely in this:

The principles of international law, the practice of nations, the national safety of the United States and other nations without great military and naval establishments, the prevention of increased armies and navies, the adoption of peaceful methods for the adjustment of international differences, and finally neutrality itself, are opposed to prohibition by a neutral nation of the exportation of arms, ammunition or other munitions of war to belligerent powers during the progress of the war.

Our attitude does not imply any feeling toward Germany or Austria. These nations, if fortune favored, would be securing supplies from this nation as heavily as are the Allies. In fact, some supplies are trickling through neutral ports into both Germany and Austria.

The attempt of Dumba to create dissension in our industrial life, was ill advised, to say the least. This is hardly the function of a diplomat in good standing.

WAR BABIES.

Since the beginning of the European war, accounts, mostly of a sensational nature, have appeared regarding the excess of illegitimacy in the communities in England and in near which large bodies of enlisted men are encamped for war instruction purposes. The British Medical Journal says that many tales were told in most circumstantial detail which indicated that there would be thousands of illegitimate children born on account of lax conditions accompanying the mobilization of large bodies of men in military camps.

RADICALS HALT TRUE PROGRESS

this work that the majority of the voters too frequently refuse to perform their electoral duties.

The institution of recall deals with the executive and judicial branches of the government. With both its operation is injurious to the public service, though in the case of judges it is much more dangerous.

Recall is Easy. If an executive officer is dishonest, he can be recalled by the voters. If a judge is corrupt, he can be recalled by the voters. If a legislator is inefficient, he can be recalled by the voters.

Parties Essential. The system of representative government is an institution hampered, out in the struggle for liberty by our Anglo-Saxon ancestors for eight hundred years. The system of written constitutions and an independent judiciary has vindicated itself in the strenuous life of the republic for 125 years and there is nothing in the actual results of the initiative, referendum and recall that commends them as a substitute.

What is true with respect to the state is true with respect to the party. Parties are essential to popular government. In no other way practically can the will of all the electorate be interpreted and embodied in affirmative action, legislative and executive.

Under the system of the general primary there is no such responsibility. Especially is this true in the selection of the subordinate officers. Circumstances of no real or proper significance in the selection of qualified candidates affect the choice in such cases.

The schools at Hottinger have been postponed two weeks longer on account of repairs that are being made to the buildings.

Already the juvenile courts of the state are proving to be a great success and much can be expected from a proper handling of these tribunals.

Work is progressing nicely on the New Leipzig school building. The building will be completed by October 1, and school will be started the first Monday in that month.

N. A. Way, special Indian officer of Devils Lake, confiscated eight gallons of whiskey. Tom Tamica, a Jap, had taken over to the reservation for refreshments during the hunting season.

The rapidity with which Devils Lake is drying up is alarming. Captain Ford, who is in a position to know, says that the lake, which has been receding an average of eight inches a year, went down a foot during the year ending in July.

One of the most severe electrical storms in the history of Westhope passed over that town on Friday. During the storm lightning struck a granary on the W. L. Lawson farm south of the town and damaged it considerably. Two horses were in the building at the time and one of them was rendered unconscious for some time.

control, if the people fail in their electoral duties.

Mr. Taft said trades unions had secured much benefit for their members through the political influence they have exercised; that they are here to stay and will remain powerful factors in the progress of the community. He held that the chief ground for criticizing the recent policy of trades unions is that with the power they have legitimately acquired by combination they are now attempting to place organized labor in a privileged class.

leave the Austro-Hungarians here, but because of its effect upon the part the States is playing as diplomatic representative of Austria-Hungary and other belligerents of Europe.

Recall Expected. Diplomats in close touch with the Austro-Hungarian embassy declare, however, that there is little room for doubt that Dr. Dumba will be recalled immediately upon receipt of Secretary Lansing's report.

It is understood that Ambassador Dumba will not be handed his passports, but will be permitted to follow his own course, and await word from Vienna. If he should desire to return home, it would be necessary for the American government to secure safe conduct for him from the Allies.

A Galley o' Fun!

LORD CHESTERFIELD'S SON'S LETTERS TO HIS FATHER.

A number of the letters of Lord Chesterfield's son to his father are to be published as soon as a publisher can be found with sufficient courage. A few samples are given below.

"Dear Father—Yours received and contents noted. What you say about etiquette is very true. In haste, your affectionate son, Phil."

"Dear Father—Your beautiful letter is at hand. The sentiments are simply charming. Dear Father, I am very short. Could you send me £5? Your affectionate son, Phil."

"Dear Father—I have to acknowledge yours of the 14th. Permit me to thank you for your excellent advice. I am sure that posterity will appreciate it. Dear Father, a small cheque would be deeply appreciated. Your affectionate son, Phil."

"Dear Father—Will you be kind enough to let me know how to write a letter asking one's father for a small but much-needed remittance in such a way as to preclude the possibility of a refusal. Your early attention will oblige your affectionate son, Phil."

"Dear Father—Your extremely interesting and instructive letter received. Such felicity of expression—such taste—and so forth! I am more than ever convinced that you can give them all cards and spades on etiquette. I am having a very pleasant time here, and  £10"

DISADVANTAGE.

"A pretty girl," observed the Plain Girl, bitterly, "has a great advantage in this business of making a name for herself!"

"I don't know!" sighed the Pretty Girl. "She finds so many lovely ready-to-wear names at hand!"

QUICK CHANGES.

"Can you tell me which country has the most powerful Dreadnaught?"

"No."

"Or who holds the aeroplane altitude record?"

"No."

"Or which liner has the trans-Atlantic speed record?"

"No."

"Or in what state the greatest graft-steal in the history of the country exists?"

"No."

"Then maybe you can tell me the name of the richest baby in the world?"

"No. Confound it, man! I haven't seen the morning paper yet."

THE DIFFERENCE.

Little Elmer—Papa, what is a son? Professor Broadhead—A son, my son, is a poor man who gets drunk; a rich man who drinks to excess; the possessor of a convivial disposition.

CONSOLATION.

First Criminal Lawyer—Facts are stubborn things. Second Criminal Lawyer (cheerfully)—Oh, yes! If they were not, our fees would be smaller.

HIS WAY.

Landlady (sympathetically)—Why, how did you fall downstairs, Mr. Lanks? Boarder—(with dignity)—Unexpectedly, Ma'am.

ALL IN.

Two schooners, loaded to the decks with kegs and casks of XXX. Went on the rocks that hidden lay; There was no hope for them—for they were alcoholic wrecks.

TO BE CONSIDERED.

"Goin' to New York, Silas? You ought to run over to Paris." "I might if I understand French." "Well, not understandin' it, Silas, you might be harder to bunco."

HIS FAVORITE OCCUPATION.

Hostess—And a mile from here there's the cutest little lake with ice that is just like glass. Suffragette Guest—Lead me to it, so I can throw a rock throw it!
