ANGLO-FRENCH FINANCIAL COMMISSION SUCCEEDING DESPITE PRO-GERMAN EFFORTS

New York, Sept. 22.—Members of the Anglo-French financial commission and the American bankers with whom they are negotiating for the establishment of a credit that will stabilize foreign exchange, are confident that the real wants of the visitors are to be supplied. This is true despite the opposition of some Germans. The threat that banks participating in the loan would be blacklisted by pro-Germans was met with the suggestion that pro-German business men who thus blacklisted banks would in turn be boycotted by a large class which believes the loan is absolutely necessary for the continuance of American prosperity. American bankers who are participating in the loan profess to believe that the pro-German blacklist would not be carried very far as it might prove a boomerang.

The attempt to block the loan is chiefly in the hands of the American Trust Society, a pro-German organization. This is a summary by the New York World of the American Trust Society's work:

- 1. Organized the campaign to prevent American banks and bankers participating in loans to the allies through threats of blacklisting by Germans and German-Americans.
2. Organized a movement to enter the 1916 national campaign to defeat all congressmen who will not advocate an embargo on the exportation of arms and war munitions to the allies.

WASHER OVER TO DISTRICT COURT

Beach, N. D., Sept. 23.—After the state had rested its case at a hearing held in Justice Kendall's court, three miles out of Sentinel Butte, last Tuesday and Wednesday, P. S. Washer, a well-known hotel man of Beach, who is charged with assault in the complaint filed against him by Adolph Wuelter, his former chef, waived examination and the case will now come up in district court at Beach.

A change of venue was taken by the defense from Justice Gilbert's court in Sentinel Butte in view of the fact that the state had seen fit to take the case before a Sentinel Butte justice instead of before a Beach justice as would ordinarily be expected, the occurrence over which the case is the result having taken place in Beach.

THE RED BOOK
A few years ago, any magazine which could publish a serial by a really great author once in two or three years, had good reason to believe that it was accomplishing something. How different it is today!
"The Proof of the Pudding," a new novel by Meredith Nicholson,—by the way, his first novel ever to be serialized,—begins in the October issue of

- 3. Organized a "gold protest" to embarrass American banking operations.
4. Publicly and repeatedly attacked the administration's neutrality policy, characterizing it as "barbaric neutrality."
5. Sought to influence the negotiations between the Washington and Berlin governments at critical times through printing and disseminating pamphlets asserting as probable consequences of war with Germany an uprising of Germans and German-Americans in the United States against the American government, and an invasion of the United States by way of Mexico of German and Austrian reservists.
6. Justified the German invasion of Belgium and the sinking of the Lusitania without warning.
7. Attacked President Wilson because he is of "British extraction."
8. Advocated a revolution in Ireland, and sought to foment agitation against Great Britain.

First Steps in Campaign

The first steps in the campaign to prevent American banks from participating in the purchase of British securities or in loans to the allied nations was the preparation and publication of a pamphlet, for which President O'Leary, of the society, claims sole credit, entitled "The Peril of American Finance." Copies were mailed to every American banker in envelopes stamped "To Your Depositors." (Mr. O'Leary insists that none of these circulars were

The Red Book magazine. At the same time this publication is publishing serials by Rupert Hughes and Sir Gilbert Parker. The simultaneous presentation of the work of these three authors means getting out a magazine on a scale which has never been attempted before.

The new novel by Mr. Nicholson has its setting in a medium-sized city which can be recognized as Indianapolis. The story is built around a fascinating young woman of rather lowly Irish parentage who has been adopted by a retired man of wealth. The girl is wonderfully likeable but very willful—there is a real streak of Irish devilness in her make-up.

JUDGE AMIDON WILL HOLD COURT IN DENVER.

Fargo, Sept. 21.—Judge Charles F. Amidon of the United States district court, has left for Denver, Col., where he will sit in the circuit court of appeals for the Eighth district. His work will require his absence from Fargo until about Nov. 1.

Last week, Judge Amidon received word of the death of his aged mother, who passed away in the old home in the state of Pennsylvania. She was 91 years of age. Death was due to old age.

DRAINAGE DITCH FOR CASS COUNTY

Fargo, N. D., Sept. 24.—As a result of the wet spring and summer, during which the flatter lands of Cass county, especially in the vicinity of the Red river, were many times inundated, with some damage to grain crops, many farmers who were strenuously opposed to drainage improvements are now greatly in favor of it. There have been many petitions filed in the past few weeks asking for the building of additional drainage ditches, and the drainage board has held a hearing and is now arranging for the construction of two large ditches in the northeastern part of the county that will drain a large territory.

mailed to depositors.) Ambassador von Bernstorff and other German officials were provided with copies. Among other questions the pamphlet asks are these: "Do you realize: 1. That the federal reserve bank, a government institution founded by an act of congress, may become the ultimate support of the allies in their war against Germany and Germany's allies? 2. That if Germany wins this war, an outcome which is foreshadowed with great certainty by the history of the conflict up to the present moment, many of the resources which are back of the allies' securities may become the property of Germany by right of conquest? 3. That if Germany dictates terms of peace to the allies, the revenues of the allies upon which American financial institutions depend for the payment of interest may be preempted by Germany and her allies?"

Big Efforts to Block Loan

As the date for the visit of the British and French bankers to the United States to negotiate a half-billion loan grew nearer the activities of the American Trust Society and its associated German propagandists redoubled. The propagandists recognized that action by individual depositors would fail of success, especially with large banking institutions. They therefore preached "pressure on directors." This was found to be most effective. German or pro-German bank directorates were easily won to the scheme and worked in its cause among bank officials and at board meetings. Another phase was entered upon. It was decided to await the psychological moment and then inundate bank officials and directors with hundreds of depositors' letters threatening withdrawals and business blacklisting should this or that bank participate in the loan.

To influence sentiment further these German propagandists freely circulated the threat that should American banks participate in such loans, Germany, after she had vanquished her enemies, could properly and would demand an enormous indemnity from the United States of American bankers who participated in loans to England, France, Russia or Italy. Threat of a solid German-American vote against all United States elective officials at coming elections has been one of the most frequently resorted to by German propagandists. To make this threat effective, to insure the defeat of those who do not agree with the German theories on "neutrality," and who have upheld instead the president, the American Trust Society has undertaken a campaign to defeat all those opposed to an embargo on arms and munitions. Thus, letters were addressed at various times to all congressmen. The last contains an attack upon the administration, and charges it with gross unneutrality.

FALL FATAL TO SAM McNEIL

Medora, Sept. 2.—Upon investigation it was found that Sam McNeil whose body was found in a field dead had been chasing horses from his land when the horse he was riding, when crossing a ditch fell throwing McNeil and breaking his neck. It appeared he never moved after striking the ground. He had been to Belfield the day before he was killed to consult his attorney about making his will; as he had just received news from North Carolina of his father's death.

Symbad Gabriel, president of the Armenian General Progressive association in the United States, has received from the diplomatic representatives in Paris of the head of the Armenian Church, advice in regard to the massacres of Armenians in Turkey, in which it is stated that "Christians have at no time assumed so colossal proportions."
